HOOVER WARNS U. S. TO CRUSH REDS' EFFORT

Battlefield Speech Hits Bolshevists.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

King's Mountain Battlefield, S. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—In the heart of this historic area, which recently has been torn by labor troubles fomented by communists, President Hoover today struck at socialism, bolshevism and other governmental systems which he spoke as destructive of American principles.

Speaking on the spirit which actuated the little band of colonials who defeated the British in a crucial engagement at the top of King's Mountain 150 years ago today, the President asserted that "foreign persons or agencies must not be permitted to undermine our institutions."

The President apparently chose this region for his address, as near by are Gastonia, N. C., Elizabethtown, Tenn., and Marion, N. C., where communist inspired strikes caused trouble and bloodshed last year.

Typifies U. S. Ideals.

The President emphasized the significance of the battle of King's Mountain, asserting that it should stand with Lexington and Bunker Hill, Trenton and Yorktown as "one of the crucial engagements in our long struggle for independence."

The principles for which the heroic little band of colonials stood, the President said, made it appropriate that he should speak of "the institutions, we think, upon the spirit of America."

Considering the American "system" in a race with the government as umpire, Mr. Hoover said that "socialism or its violent brother, bolshevism, would compel all the runners to end the race equally," while "anarchy would provide neither training nor umpire" and "despotism or class government picks those who run and also how they win."

But all the menace does not come from without, the President said, adding that "there are always malevolent or selfish forces at work which, unchecked, would destroy the very basis of our American life."

Defends Own Policies.

Mr. Hoover defended the conservative policies of his own administration. Governmental interference in business, which was an issue in his controversy with senate radicals over the export debenture farm relief scheme, he denounced as "a destruction of equal opportunity and the incarnation of tyranny through bureaucracy."

While the President allowed his listeners to make their own application of his ideas to troubles which may have beset his administration, the address was an answer to his political opponents in the present senatorial and congressional campaigns.

The setting of today's celebration was a natural amphitheater on the side of the mountain where the historic battle of King's Mountain took place. Upwards of 35,000 persons were in attendance.

Reviews National Guards.

The mountain is in South Carolina, a short distance from the North Carolina line. Just prior to the sequicentennial exercises at the mountain, President Hoover reviewed National Guard troops of the two Carolinas at the town of Kings Mountain, N. C., about seven miles distant. There a similar reward also greeted him.

Many thousands came from Virginia, Tennessee, and the Carolinas, the area which furnished the 900 volunteer mountaineers who on Oct. 7, 1780, defeated 1,100 British.

As he reviewed the troops the President passed between Gov. John G. Richards of South Carolina and Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina. Also present were Senators E. D. Smith and Cole Blease [Dem., S. C.] and L. S. Overman [Dem., N. C.].

Representative C. A. Jonas, who was defeated as a Republican from North Carolina two years ago and is seeking election, was also on hand, as was Representative G. M. Pritchard, elected in 1928, who is the Republican senatorial nominee in North Carolina.

British Commander Honored.

Following the President's address, but at another point on the mountain, a marker was unveiled over the grave of Col. Patrick Ferguson, who commanded the British force and who, with 256 others on the defeated side, was killed. Ronald Campbell of the British embassy in Washington made a response for the British government. Its guests here from Boston, where he made two speeches yesterday, the President is on page 6, column 1.)

BRAZIL RUSHES FORCES TO HALT MARCH ON RIO

Claims Victory Over Rebels in 2 States.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Units of the Brazilian navy tonight were steaming swiftly northward and southward along the coast to combat the rebellion which broke in southern states last week but now has spread to the regions north of the capital.

Part of the fleet is bound for the lower ports, while one unit is on the way to Pernambuco, far on the eastward tip of the South American continent.

Government spokesmen declared late this afternoon that the administration of President Washington Luis had the revolt well in hand.

Claim Victory in Two States.

They asserted that the insurrectionary movements in the great rubber producing state of Para, north of the capital, and in Parana, to the south, had been crushed without bloodshed. Defeat of the rebels in Parana would be a severe blow to them, for it is through this state that the 80,000 troops reported marching northward from Rio Grande do Sul have planned to attack the large coffee metropolis of Sao Paulo and then Rio de Janeiro.

Government troops, in the meantime, are moving slowly toward the areas dominated by the rebels.

Besides contending that the entire cattle fleet will remain loyal, the government asserts that soldiers of the regular army in the capital district, numbering 10,000, will stand stanchly behind the administration.

Reserves Held in Readiness

Moreover, the government has additional resources in the reserves. These men, ranging in age from 21 to 30, were warned two days ago to be ready for duty but have not been used so far.

Additional support was given the government today by the formation in both Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo of "civil legions." These organizations will assist federal troops if their aid is needed.

It is in the financial field, however, that federal officials say they have the final edge on the revolters. The central government has been advanced $10,000,000 by the Bank of Brazil to put down the rebellion, whereas the revolutionaries are said to have no financial resources.

Fear for Food Supplies.

Sao Paulo reported tonight that so far as is known, there has been little fighting to the southward, but large troop movements are taking place as the government distributes soldiers and supplies over the state of Sao Paulo on the Soro Cabana railway.

Officials there state they have little apprehension as to the loyalty of the citizens, but fear that the food problem may become acute in less than a week.

Since the revolutionaries dominate the railroads from the states of Minas Gera's, north of Sao Paulo, and Rio Grande do Sul in the south, holding up normal shipments of food, the supply is growing low.

Requisition Supplies in Capital.

In Rio de Janeiro, too, the food problem is important and the government today requisitioned all supplies. Officials said shopkeepers were profiteering, taking advantage of the fact that foodstuffs were cut off from Minas Geraes.

Federal soldiers late today, however, reassured milk and food supplies to the capital by occupying the town of Palmyra, in the state of Minas Geraes. Nearly all the rest of the state is in the hands of the insurgents.

Since the banks here have been ordered closed until Oct. 21, the government saying it took this step to prevent speculation in exchange, the city appears as one on Sunday. Stores are open, but are not doing a great business, partly because the banks are closed and partly because the government has taken over food supplies.

Rebels Nearing Sao Paulo.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Frontier dispatches tonight reported that the vanguard of the Brazilian insurgent army advancing upon the great coffee exporting center of Sao Paulo had crossed the border of the state of Parana into the state of Sao Paulo.

A rebel communique said that 3,000 insurgent soldiers yesterday occupied the town of Itarare, only 250 miles from Sao Paulo and on the direct rail-

NOW THAT THE CHICAGO CRIME IS BECOMING SERIOUS, THE MAYOR WANTS ACTION

O, FOR THE LIFE OF A SAILOR BOY AT SEA; AND ALSO ON SHORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 7.—Traditionally sailors have sweethearts and wives in every port. But when the sweethearts in one port move into another dock town, a battle ensues. This was demonstrated here today when the sailors' affinities of Bremen and Hamburg wielded umbrellas against each other for shore rights to the crew of the United States liner America, which put in here.

The trouble started when the United States lines transferred its headquarters in Germany from Bremen to Hamburg. The Bremen girls then motored over to Hamburg to meet their men whenever a vessel was due.

This invasion was resented by the Hamburg girls who sent an ultimatum to the Bremen sweethearts to stay at home. The latter ignored the ultimatum and today made an excursion to Hamburg to welcome the American sailor boys. Instead they ran into an ambush of Hamburg girls in St. Pauli fish market. Police, who separated the combatants after an hour, say it was the prettiest fight Hamburg has seen in years. They took fifty prisoners. The crew of the America decided that discretion is a better part of valor, and are not asking for shore leave this trip.

Boston Has Its Biggest Night Since Tea Party

BULLETIN.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—squad of federal officers who arrested four men for selling liquor in Park square tonight had to be rescued by a squad of Boston and Legion police. The prisoners were taken in hand by the police and a path cut through a menacing crowd. Dennis J. Lorden, in charge of the federal squad, was attacked by the hoodlums, but was not injured seriously.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Last year was the American Legion's biggest year and tonight was the Legion's biggest night. Never in Boston's 300 years of often lampooned primness has this city seen a carnival of hilarity to equal the show put on by Legionnaires and their friends—and others—who took advantage of the free rein allowed by the police. It was the finale of the American Legion's convention and a merry one. Doubtless much of the merriment was that of youths not connected at all with the Legion.

Automobiles were tipped over and jounced until their springs broke. Never have the local hospitals and the numerous emergency first aid stations been faced with so many types of accidents. Patients were treated for the following:

Mental excitement, hit by flask, tripped on flask, sat on flask and fell on flask; hit by electric light bulb, fell off soap box, fell down stairs, kicked in back, collapse from hunger, stomach ache after eating, blistered feet, twisted ankles, alleged assault, and cinder in eye.

Bromide Supply Exhausted.

Celebrators who were able to get their hats on only with the aid of a shoe horn this morning were well cared for by drug stores, hospitals, and emergency stations up to 2 a. m. At that time the Massachusetts General hospital, which had been supplying first aid stations, ran out of its supply of individual doses of bromides, so big heads got bigger.

Thousands of egg crates, lard pails, boxes, barrels and dozens of piano boxes had been left among the débris in the wake of the big parade. Boys threw them on top of automobiles. Tremont street became a one way street for several hours at the dictum of the drivers who were proceeding south. Five solid lanes of automobiles met and challenged northbound vehicles and forced them into the side streets. No one even bothered to look at the traffic lights.

Hoodlums who had taken advantage of privileges extended to the Legion to cover their own pranks performed tricks not seen here since the police strike. Volstead seemed to be entirely forgotten. Crap games on Boston common and in the brightly lighted lobbies of hotels, bottles sold, opened, and their contents drunk openly on the sidewalk and various examples of petty vandalism followed the carnival.

Bonfires sprang up suddenly in the middle of the streets, and hundreds of tons of confetti and torn telephone books were so much tinder to the blaze. Red lanterns were prizes of great worth, and every real he-man veteran tried to capture one. And yet there were surprisingly few brawls.

Speakeasy Doors Wide Open.

Speakeasy doors were flung open wide to resemble old time saloons. One ambitious purveyor of spiked beer set up a table in an alley, plainly in view of the passing throng on the nearby street. Vacant stores were turned into saloons by bootleggers. Several were disguised with papier-mache fronts to resemble dugouts.

It was a night "on leave" for the boys who once occupied the front line trenches in a ghastly, dirty business called a war.

CAUGHT BETWEEN AUTO AND A GIRDER, HE LEAPS TO DEATH

Trapped between a skidding flivver and a bridge girder, Joseph Tierney, 55 years old, of 2455 Lexington street, leaped 20 feet to his death last night on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad tracks beneath the 52d avenue highway bridge. Arthur Bron, 252 North Clark street, another pedestrian, was struck by the automobile and bruised. The driver, Michael Quinn, 48 years old, of 4000 Washington boulevard, was held for the inquest.

Mayor Talks with Hughes After Holdup

Heavy Holdup Record

While the police pressed their search for the bandits who robbed Mayor Thompson's wife, 35 robberies occurred last evening up to midnight.

Progress in the solution of the robbery of Mrs. William Hale Thompson late Monday seemed confined last night to the statements of half a dozen public officials, the mayor included. At nightfall no one was in custody for the crime nor was Mrs. Thompson able to identify pictures of known thieves as either of the four men who took jewels valued at $15,500 from her in the vestibule of the Barry apartments, 3100 Sheridan road, where Mr. and Mrs. Thompson live.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock took full responsibility for the solution after the mayor told reporters, "It's up to Alcock; we'll see if he can make good." To this the police head replied, "I'll accept the responsibility."

Mayor Talks With Hughes.

These statements were made about noon and at 5:30 p. m. President Lewis E. Myers of the school board, Carter Blatchford, a school trustee—both close advisers of the mayor—and Police Captain Michael Hughes arrived on the fifth floor of the city hall and remained in conference with the mayor until 6:30 p. m. As Hughes left the office he was asked if this visit presaged his succeeding Alcock.

"No," Hughes exploded in reply. "No man on earth could make me police commissioner." He threw up his hands as though abolishing the thought. "There was no mention of the robbery of Mrs. Thompson during the conference," said Hughes. "The mayor did not call me in; I hadn't seen him since he came back from his vacation and I wanted to say hello."

After his conference with the mayor earlier in the day, Acting Commissioner Alcock said he believed Thompson felt the police department was doing all it could to solve the robbery. The commissioner believes the robbery was carefully planned, which would refute the earlier theory that the quartet of thieves did not know whom they were robbing. It was pointed out, however, that Mrs. Thompson's machine was not the mayor's car and bore no siren or star of office like those carried by her husband.

Suffers from Experience.

For most of the day Mrs. Thompson was suffering from nervous collapse as a result of her harrowing experience. She had revived late in the afternoon enough to give a detailed description of the ring, bracelet and bar pin taken from her by one of the robbers, whom she described as a good looking youth in his early twenties.

Mrs. Thompson told Sergt. Frank Casey of Sheffield avenue police that the ring, of platinum and supporting a six and one-half carat blue diamond, was worth $8,000. The bracelet, bearing 120 diamonds on a platinum band, was valued at $4,000, she said.

The bar pin was also of platinum and on it forty diamonds were set in line. This was valued at between $3,000 and $4,000. None of the jewels was insured, Mrs. Thompson told Sergt. Casey.

The police were told that the youth who held a gun to Mrs. Thompson's chest was about five feet six inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. The mayor's wife used the word "boyish" in describing the face of the robber who stood in front of her. Another robber held a gun at her side but did not come within her line of vision.

Holds Policeman at Bay.

SWANSON DEFIES JUDGES' ATTACK ON CRIME DRIVE

Orders Reindictment of Gunmen.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday took his place in the front of the "howling mob." The "howling mob" phrase was used on Monday by Judges Harry M. Fisher and Joseph B. David, who pinned that label on a group of law enforcers who are campaigning to put all gangsters in jail. Judge Fisher on Monday cut in half the $20,000 bond fixed by the grand jury in the case of Joseph Condi, who was indicted under the vagrancy act. Judge David refused to try gun toting cases.

Prosecutor Swanson announced that he would defy the orders of Judge David to send gun toting cases to the Municipal court. The state's attorney ordered his assistant, Abe Marowitz, to appear before the grand jury early this morning and have Dominick Brancato, 24 years old, and Dominick Bello, reindicted on the charge which Judge David threw out of his court.

McGoorty Backs Swanson.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty, who conceived the idea of using the Criminal court for prosecuting gangsters found carrying guns, took his position beside the state's attorney when he announced that he would assign the case to a different judge.

"If it be a howling mob which is trying to send these gangsters, hoodlums, and racketeers to prison, then count me in as being in the front line," said State's Attorney Swanson as he issued his order for the reindictment of the gun toters arrested near the loop headquarters from which Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Rathbun are conducting the investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle.

"I propose to take all gun cases against well known hoodlums, gangsters, or racketeers direct to the grand jury. I will do this regardless of the attitude of any one. I think any judge should welcome the opportunity to try these cases."

Confers with Chief Justice.

Judge McGoorty and the prosecutor conferred for a short time before the reindictment order was issued. Although no announcement was made, it was understood that Judge McGoorty promised the prosecutor that he would find some member of his court who would not consider gun toting too trivial a crime to try in the Criminal court.

"Considering the existing situation I think it highly important where indictments are returned for gun toting or vagrancy that they be tried in the Criminal court," said Judge McGoorty. "This is perhaps the most immediate and effective method of ridding the community of the criminal element. Although it is true that the Municipal courts have jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases, crime should be fought on every front and it is the duty of all judges to aid in every way in bringing gangsters to justice."

Argues with Prosecutor.

Judges Fisher and David said on Monday that they would not be swayed by the "howling mob" in their judicial acts. Judge Fisher engaged in a lively tilt with Prosecutor Rathbun over the reduction of a $20,000 bond for Condi, who was arrested originally as a Lingle murder suspect. The judge accepted a $10,000 cash bond for the release of Condi on a vagrancy charge. The trial of Condi and his associate, Izzy Alderman, yesterday was set for Oct. 21 in Judge Fisher's court.

The gun toting charges against Bello and Brancato, which were to have been tried in Municipal Judge Fetzer's court yesterday because of Judge David's action, were postponed until Oct. 21. The new indictment is expected before that time, in which case the Municipal court case will be dropped.

Tried in Criminal Court.

It was recalled by Criminal court attaches yesterday that Judges E. I. Frankhauser and Daniel P. Trude of the Criminal court tried gun toting cases during the summer. As a result the first conviction ever obtained against Jack [Machine Gun] McGurn, Capone lieutenant, was recorded. McGurn is under a sentence of 1 year in the Bridewell, as is Anthony [Red] Kissane, a well known gunman. Both cases are now pending in the Supreme court.

CAPONE OFFER REJECTED

Al Capone, organizer of crime, termed the ruler of Chicago gangsters, has offered to surrender himself in the court of Judge John H. Lyle to answer charges of vagrancy. This was revealed by the judge yesterday

It's A Good Time To Buy Good Bonds

The pleasurable experience of coupon-clipping used to be the privileged pastime of the very rich. Most of the bonds put out used to be bought by the same people that maintained yachts and racing stables.

The War changed all that. When the government financed the war it also gave the public a liberal education in finance. For the first time the investing of surplus funds in sound bonds was placed upon a democratic basis. Everybody became bond-conscious.

Then a lot of people started to cash in their bonds to buy stocks. The result of this practice on a wholesale scale need not be gone into here. One result, however, was the decline in the price of good bonds.

Now the pendulum has started swinging the other way. Bond prices are going up. But there are still many good bonds available at prices to yield attractive returns with safety. Good investment houses are ready to point out sound bonds still available at attractive prices.

Chicago Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

afternoon when Jack and Harry Guzik, Capone lieutenants, were arraigned as vagrants.

Capone, however, attempted to dictate the terms of surrender and Judge Lyle refused to allow the chief of the twenty-six "public enemies" to be treated in a different manner than any other gangster.

"Last Saturday night I had a midnight visit from a representative of Capone," Judge Lyle declared. "He proposed that I send out my bailiff and Capone would come into my court with him. Whether he was afraid that the police might shoot him, I don't know.

"But I sent him a message that if he wished to surrender, he might appear at the detective bureau, go through the usual channels and be brought into my court to answer the charges against him."

Judge Addresses the Guziks.

Then Judge Lyle addressed himself to the two Guziks before him—the corpulent Harry and the small, sorrowful faced Jack. He said:

"Whether the Capone power is a myth or not, he, with you as his lieutenants, is a personality about whom has been built a tremendous organization of criminals. Many murders have been laid at the door of you and your chief.

"This vagrancy charge sinks into insignificance in comparison with the host of other charges against you. Even if some jury lacking guts should turn you loose, it would make little difference to the movement. You're through.

"The public has been callous to the activities of the gangsters. It had almost given up hope, but now, with the aid of the press, this movement has been started. It has grown to mammoth proportions.

"It has been termed a 'howling mob.' Very well. No public official, even a judge on the bench, can get in the way of this howling mob. It is remarkable that it has not howled before, but now it is howling and it's a real mob."

Rakes Guziks' Livelihood.

"Your very appearance in the courts which you have hitherto scorned is significant," continued Judge Lyle, addressing the Guziks. "It indicates a surrender to the three millions of people who have lived in mortal terror of you and your associates.

"You, Harry Guzik, are a big, fat, healthy man and you've never done a day of work. I hear that you've lived off prostitution all your life. I don't get a kick out of punishing people, but I do relish the opportunity of being a judge when such men as you two, living off vice and crime, fattening on blood money, are brought before me.

"The worst of it is that both of you are smart. Capone has to have such men around him in order to succeed."

Allows Change of Venue.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown asked that the Guzika' petition for a change of venue be refused and that a jury be summoned immediately to hear the charges against them.

After some discussion on following this line of action, thus allowing an appeal to be taken to the Supreme court so that a test case might be made, Judge Lyle allowed the petition for a change of venue, remarking that he did not want to force persons to trial before him when they considered him prejudiced. The two cases were sent to Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court for reassignment.

Judge Criticizes Lawyer.

Attorney Charles Horgan represented the Guziks. To him Judge Lyle said:

"Mr. Horgan, it has always been my experience to find you about the Morals court representing prostitutes. Now I find you representing such men as these. Of course, if you wish to represent panders and prostitutes, that's your business. But no good citizen would do it.

"I am inclined to think that when the public enemies have been driven out the town the public will start to work on the criminal lawyers. Nowadays most of the lawyers representing gangsters are fixers, schemers, evaders of the law and constitution. There are a number of honorable men left, but the majority are of the former type. They're due to be crushed by the howling mob also."

Holds Four to Grand Jury.

Cleaning up a number of other cases on his call, Judge Lyle held four robbers to the grand jury on bonds of $60,000, $50,000, $10,000, and $5,000, varying the size of the bonds according to the nature of the charges against them.

Announcement was made at the Federal building that Jack Guzik will be arraigned on Friday on charges of income tax evasion. The government will ask for an early trial.

took his star and his pistol, which was out of the policeman's reach in the car. Last night the police badge was picked up near Belden and Southport avenues where the robbers had thrown it away. It was near this point that O'Malley pursued the bandits following the holdup.

Acting Commissioner Alcock questioned O'Malley about the robbery yesterday. Alcock refused to comment when asked if he thought the robbery was staged to discredit the police administration.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] sympathized with Mrs. Thompson and also commented as follows:

"The mayor, two months ago, should have supported my resolution for an investigation of the police department with the same vigor with which he fought King George and which he is now using to fight France."

35 ROBBERIES IN NIGHT

Highwaymen last night committed 30 holdups and five purse snatchings up to midnight, according to police reports.

One robber was captured. He is David Bullock, 19 years old, of 516 South Wabash avenue, who was picked up by Englewood police on suspicion at 63d and Halsted streets, and confessed robbing five candy stores in that district.

Mrs. Margaret Bauer, 7319 East End avenue, held up and robbed of $16 and watch valued at $60.

SENTENCED TO YEAR IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

Jack Le Monte, who says he is known as "the Kid" in boxing circles, was sentenced to a year in the county jail for contempt of court yesterday by Judge John H. Lyle and sentenced to an additional month for attempting to defraud the Hotel Sherman of a bill for $21.40.

The contempt ruling was made after Henry Brassfield, house policeman, had testified that La Monte's baggage consisted of a battered suitcase, a worn silk hat, and a knotted necktie.

"I'd like to cut your throat for that remark," said La Monte.

"You'll have to wait a year in jail," responded the judge, who previously had held La Monte to the grand jury on $50,000 bonds on a charge of holding up Clarence Wallace, 2970 Sheridan road, on Sept. 9. La Monte was arrested in St. Louis and returned to Chicago after four revolvers had been found in his room.

BULLETIN.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning the Milwaukee coast guard station reported that the lake about the grounded Burlington was rapidly growing calmer and that the vessel had settled until it was resting easy. The crew was in no danger and would make no effort to leave the boat until daylight, the guard said.

Lost in a thick fog, the freighter Burlington, loaded with steel and carrying a crew of 23 men, ran aground in Lake Michigan about a mile off the harbor of Cudahy, Wis., shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Cudahy is just south of Milwaukee.

Within an hour of the grounding the Burlington was surrounded by several steamers, tugs, and lighters which stood by ready to give assistance. The craft were summoned by S O S calls flashed by the government lighthouse tender Hyacinth, which was the first to hear the Burlington's siren distress signals and stand by. Heavy seas and the thick fog prevented the rescue ships from taking off the crew.

Water Pouring in at Seams.

Water was said to be pouring in at the seams of the hull of the Burlington. Because of the ship's dangerous position on the rocks Capt. W. J. Flander made no attempt to free the vessel. He and his men showed no undue alarm for the steamer, however.

Officials of the Sullivan Steamship line, owner of the Burlington, said they did not believe the seas were sufficiently heavy to break up the freighter.

"The Burlington is in no serious danger," said H. J. Sullivan, vice president of the steamship company. "We know she is aground nine miles south of Milwaukee, somewhere near Cudahy, but we do not know how far off of the main shore she is grounded.

"The ship left Gary at 4:30 o'clock in the morning and encountered very thick and foggy weather, made worse by a hard southeast wind. At 3:45 p. m. the Burlington went aground and immediately sounded distress signals. At 5:20 the Milwaukee coast guard hove by, as did other ships."

Vessel 20 Years Old.

According to Mr. Sullivan the Burlington is 250 feet long, has a tonnage of 3,000, is steel constructed and 20 years old. It is a sister ship of the Bennington, which nearly five years ago inaugurated direct freight service between Miami, Fla., and great lakes ports.

The weather which was responsible for the grounding of the Burlington touched Chicago in milder form yesterday, sending a steady and disagreeable drizzle that lasted throughout the day. According to Forecaster W. P. Day the downpour gave Chicago its heaviest rainfall in several months. Up to 8 o'clock last night the rainfall amounted to 1.20 inches. Partly cloudy and slightly warmer weather is predicted for today.

A Shotgun Burglar Trap in Store Gets Its Man

London, Ky., Oct. 7.—(AP)—A shotgun attached to the window of a country store in such a manner that it would fire if any one attempted to open the window tonight seriously wounded Edward Howard, 23, of Laurel county. The gun had been fixed by Sam Johnson, owner of the store, to rout burglars. As Howard attempted to raise the window the gun fired. His arms were so badly shattered that both may have to be amputated.

7 STOCK SELLERS HELD BY U. S. ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Seven salesmen for the defunct Diamond Motor Parts company of St. Paul were held for removal in bonds ranging from $1,500 to $5,000 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of some $1,000,000 in stock of the concern.

The Illinois defendants are H. J. Himelstein, Charles Fried, L. J. Ascher, A. J. Sugar, J. J. Figman, G. C. Baumgartner, and S. H. Bernstein. Altogether twenty-nine were indicted at St. Paul.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher, holders of stock in the Pan Motor company, admittedly worthless, were given stock in the new concern in exchange. Subsequently dividends were paid in the form of credit for payments on additional stock, with a promise of membership on the "advisory board," according to Fisher. The final step in an effort to secure additional investments was the promise of a directorship, it is charged.

MAYOR REVIVES "AMERICA FIRST" IN HEARST FETE

Sends 80,000 Invitations for Chicago Day.

Mayor Thompson, who recently returned from an extended vacation on the Atlantic seaboard, has been working for the last fortnight on the details of an official reception for the California publisher, W. R. Hearst. The affair is set for tomorrow—Chicago day. Indications are that the mayor is going to make it simultaneously a celebration of himself as an outstanding example of America First.

The Chicago Fire anniversary becomes, under the mayor's plan, a public reception for Hearst, who was recently expelled from France. That expulsion was due, according to official reports, to his consistent anti-British attitude and to the fact that the Hearst papers two years ago published a secret government memorandum, of which a Hearst reporter had obtained a copy by bribing a minor French official.

Political Phase Seen.

Bound up with the Hearst reception in the mayor's mind, according to political observers, is a project to launch Thompson's campaign for re-election. He has not yet announced his candidacy, but through a high powered mailing bureau functioning from his own office, by means of the Thompson ward organization, and with considerable publicity in the local Hearst papers, the mayor and the Hearst papers have managed to draw 150,000 persons to Soldier field, scene of the reception. And it is Chicago day, too.

The mayor returned from vacation a changed man. Instead of being reticent with fishing stories he became loquacious on politics. The next day a reporter for Hearst's evening paper, the Herald-Examiner, arranged for introduction of a resolution in the city council declaring Hearst as "one of the foremost Americans of our time," deploring his expulsion from France, and endorsing the reception with the mayor as chairman.

The resolution was passed unanimously and signed the same day by the mayor. The following morning a Hearst reporter had an almost identical resolution introduced to the county board by its president, A. J. Cermak, and it passed unanimously. That evening, at the mayor's personal request, Mr. Cermak asked Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, to sponsor a similar resolution before that body.

Mayor Wades Into Task.

The resolution, inviting Hearst to be the park board's guest at Soldiers' field, was passed and the stadium was then secured for the reception. The way thus cleared for action, Mayor Thompson waded into his task.

For a starter 50,000 letters were ordered printed, in which the mayor invited the recipients to become members of his committee and, if possible, to parade in flag decorated automobiles. Every attaché of the mayor's office, including even his bodyguard Police Lieutenant Emil Anderson, was pressed at a desk, mailing invitations. Reception First started to boom.

Twenty other clerks were drafted from offices of the mayor's cabinet members to speed the job. Louis E. Cohn, unofficial aide of the mayor, was appointed parade marshal, and Robert M. Perbohner, member of the board of local improvements, was delegated to organize twenty banquets to follow the reception.

80,000 Bids Are Mailed.

The Mayor was told yesterday that 80,000 invitations had been mailed. Cohn reported that he had lined up 100 cars, fifty decorated floats from merchants and manufacturers, the police band, 22 public school bands, a company of National Guardsmen, the Black Horse troop, and 200 professional musicians in bands of ten each with motor coaches for their parade transport.

Of this aggregation only the professional bandsmen and the bus hire need be paid for, since Gov. Emmerson consented to participation of the guardsmen and the Black Horse troop. The police and school bands are nonprofessional organizations.

Officials of the Chicago Motor Coach company said each of the buses would cost about $15 an hour, or a total of $300 for five hours. James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, estimated the service of the musicians at $11,000.

Liberty Interviews Contractors.

Regarding the music item, the mayor, in accepting appointment as the Hearst reception chairman, announced that city contractors might, if they chose, contribute to the cost of the bands. It was hinted that response to the mayor's suggestion was slow, for last Monday Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, called approximately 100 contractors for a meeting in the council chambers, at which the mayor's suggestion was reiterated with emphasis.

Yesterday Golan and Emil Wentzlaff informed the mayor that their plans were complete. To city hall employés and Thompson precinct workers word has been passed to "turn out the crowds for Thompson at the Hearst reception," and the mayor's aides evinced confidence that the stadium would be packed.

Banquet Plan Modified.

One hitch has developed in Perbohner's banquet plans. Informed, it is said, of the Thompson campaign flavor the proposed feasts were taking, Hearst telegraphed the mayor that because of his return to his ranch at San Simeon, Cal., he could not attend any of the twenty banquets, and suggested they be canceled.

"It was his modesty," the mayor chuckled in an interview with THE TRIBUNE. "Hearst hates the spotlight, and, besides, he realized that $5 a plate might be a hardship for many of his admirers in these days of widespread unemployment.

"But we're going ahead with five banquets anyway. Not Hearst banquets. He'll be on a west bound train before we start. They'll be Chicago Day-Prosperity banquets. That's the keynote."

A Prosperity Project.

"I have a plan to lead this city out of the present depression," the mayor continued. "This slump is all psychological. This Chicago Day-Prosperity promotion of mine is the thing to turn the tide the other way and make this town hum. All that's needed is a leader, and if the people permit I'll take the helm."

"Does that mean that you are a candidate for renomination as mayor?" he was asked.

"I haven't said so," the mayor replied.

Hearst is due here from New York this evening. The mayor and executives of the local Hearst papers will meet him at the railroad station. He will pass the night at a hotel, according to present plans.

Tomorrow's parade will be led by Hearst and the mayor, riding in Thompson's red sport touring car. America First will be the keynote.

"Pay as You Go," Policy.

Wentzlaff, another unofficial aid of the mayor, who has charge of the invitations, was asked the cost and intended source of payment for the 80,000 invitations he mailed.

"Getting posey, aren't you," Wentzlaff remarked. "Well, we're paying our bills as we go along. I don't know where the money's coming from. Maybe from the mayor's contingent fund, or maybe the council will appropriate for it. They told the mayor to go ahead."

The mayor was questioned.

"It's coming right out of Bill Thompson's pocket," he announced. "It may be $5,000, maybe $10,000 or $15,000. I'll pay it personally, except what the contractors give for the bands."

Regarding the banquets, Perbohner announced that Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] and former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri would be speakers. Reed will address the mayor's own banquet at the Palmer house and Brookhart will probably be assigned to the banquet sponsored by the board of education at the Hotel Sherman.

Telegrams were received yesterday by Mayor Thompson from Senator Otis Glenn and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston saying they would not be able to attend the Hearst ceremonies.

Rift Appears Healed.

There had been a rift last spring between the local Hearst papers and the mayor. The Herald and Examiner in June said: "Long enough has Chicago tolerated a vanishing mayor. Chicago wants to know if the mayor performs his executive duty by proxy. If he does, then who exercises that proxy?"

But now, observers say, all is well between W. R. Hearst and Mayor Thompson. The Polish citizens have expressed disapproval of the Hearst reception and there has been heard some dissatisfaction on the part of the Bohemians, but generally all is fair. Whether the mayor will formally announce his candidacy for another term tomorrow is not certain.

A letter has been sent by the Cook county council of the American Legion to the commanders of the various posts calling attention to the fact that the council has gone on record as participating in the reception for Hearst and asking members of the Legion to assemble for the parade in front of St. Luke's hospital at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

SURFACE LINES PROTEST HEARST PARADE ORDERS

See Hours of Delay for Shoppers, Workers.

BY HAL FOUST.

Mayor Thompson will be asked by the Chicago Surface Lines this morning to rescind his order for an unbroken Hearst parade that will cause protracted delays for a million street car riders tomorrow afternoon in addition to halting the main arteries of the city's bus and private auto transportation.

"The business of the city will be paralyzed," said C. H. Evenson, superintendent of transportation, "if all the city's main trunk lines are halted for an hour and a half or an hour and forty-five minutes. It must not happen. It would be disastrous."

Alcock Calls In Captains.

Mr. Evenson made his statement after Commissioner Alcock yesterday afternoon assembled his captains and told them that there must be no interruption by street cars, buses, or automobiles in the parade arranged for a visit to Chicago by W. R. Hearst, newspaper publisher. Fourteen hundred police have been assigned to the parade.

"If there's any break in the parade," said the police chief, "the captain responsible will find himself before the civil service trial board. Those are orders from the mayor."

The newspapers owned by Hearst estimate that, with the aid given by Mayor Thompson, they will have 5,000 automobiles in the parade. This would be a line twenty-seven miles long that would take at least an hour and a half to pass any given point. The line of march will throw a cordon around the business district, blocking all traffic on the city's busiest thoroughfares, traffic experts declare.

Sees Delays for Shoppers.

The original police order, issued last Monday, directed that traffic could cut through the parade "if any lulls occurred." On the protest of the street car company this was changed to let cars pass through the parade every five minutes. Then came yesterday's instructions to the captains.

The parade will go north on Michigan avenue from Monroe street to Diversey boulevard, west to Logan boulevard, to Western avenue, to Garfield boulevard, to South Park boulevard, to the Stadium, with one section of the parade using Roosevelt road for the drive east.

"You can see," said Mr. Evenson, "that it cuts all of the important street car lines as well as the boulevards. Unless the mayor's order is changed we will be unable to get loop shoppers and employés home from work without delays of hours. Our cars for the rush hours leave the barns about 3 o'clock; we won't be able to get the cars into the loop."

25 ALDERMEN DISAVOW HEARST RECEPTION IN PRESS STATEMENT

Three Chicago Polish newspapers yesterday carried a statement, signed by five aldermen representing Polish-American constituencies, in which the aldermen declared they were outside the council chambers when the resolution was unanimously adopted giving official recognition to the W. H. Hearst reception tomorrow. The aldermen, Frank Ringa [39th], Frank E. Konkowski [31st], D. J. Zintak [12th], F. H. Landmesser [38th], and G. M. Roszczynialski [38th], stated they will take no part in the reception, declaring that Hearst, through his newspapers, had "insulted the sentiment of Americans of Polish extraction."

CALUMET GROUP TO INSPECT GULF SEAWAY FRIDAY

An inspection tour of the lakes-gulf waterway as far as Joliet will be made Friday by 75 business men and officials of Chicago and suburbs along the Calumet river and Sag canal. The trip is sponsored by the Calumet congress, a group of civic organizations from the district along the Illinois-Indiana state line.

"The trip is being made to picture the benefits that will accrue from the operation of the lakes-gulf waterway," said Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the waterways committee of the congress. "The party will leave at 9 o'clock Friday morning on the launch Mayflower from the 95th street bridge across the Calumet river. The launch will proceed along the Calumet river, Sag canal and main drainage canal."

SEEK HOODLUM IN DEEP LAKE COTTAGE DEATH

Seven months ago an unidentified young woman was found burned to death among the ruins of a cottage at Deep lake. Yesterday the authorities of Lake county began a search for Harry Higgins, fugitive racketeer and gunman, for questioning in connection with the death.

A ring of keys found in the ashes of the cottage were traced to Higgins as their owner. All efforts to identify the body have been futile, and lacking identification the investigators have been unable to assign a motive.

Higgins, an ex-convict and bank robber who turned racketeer after serving 11 years in prison, was known to have been aligned with the Bugs Moran gang, but the authorities have been unable to find a gang connection in the killing.

SCORES FLEECED BY LOVE RACKET, U. S. AGENTS FIND

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—A matrimonial agency that used up to the minute business methods and form letter billets doux was uncovered in Indiana today by postal authorities who arrested five persons charged with using the mails to defraud.

The victims, many of them wealthy, lived in Chicago, Reno, Okla.; Detroit; Jamestown, N. D.; Owensville, Mo.; Colmar, Ia.; Long Beach, Cal.; Benavides, Tex., and Defuniak Springs, Fla. There was an Alabama postmaster who wrote his reply letters in poetry.

Those held are Miss Ethel Rose Prewer-Williams, arrested at Muncie, Ind.; Miss Oda Lippens, arrested at Marion, Ind., and Timothy O'Leary, alias Robert [Bob] White; Ora Thomas, alias Ray Gibbs, and Roxie Chaney Gibbs, all arrested at Crawfordsville, Ind.

According to postoffice inspectors, the agency's business was so widespread it numbered its victims in extensive files and used a mimeograph machine in writing "common" letters. The agency is said to have netted between $6,000 and $7,000.

One victim is said to have sent $1,700 before he was dropped from the list.

BURGLAR STEALS $3,000 IN JEWELRY AS FAMILY DINES

Jewelry valued at $3,000 was stolen by a porch climber last night who entered the home of John H. Victor at 1201 Sheridan road, Evanston, while Victor and his family were at dinner on the first floor. Victor is president of the Victor Manufacturing and Gasket company, 5750 West Roosevelt road.

The thief climbed an outside pipe to the second floor, entering the room of Mr. Victor's daughter, Irene. There he pocketed a $1,500 diamond ring, a $1,000 wrist watch, and a half dozen other articles.

From mud tracks on the floor it appeared that the burglar then started for Mrs. Victor's room, where $20,000 in jewelry lay on a dresser. He was frightened away, police believe, by the approach of Victor's son, John.

OKLAHOMA HAS RARA AVIS; HE'S G. O. P. DEMOCRAT

Senator Pine a Happy Blend of Both.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Republican success in the senatorial election in Oklahoma appears to depend upon the extent to which the G. O. P. candidate can convince the electorate that he is as good a Democrat as he is a Republican.

Senator William B. Pine, millionaire Okmulgee oil operator, is the Republican candidate, seeking a second term. He received the regular Republican nomination, but ever since the primary he has been devoting himself assiduously and ingeniously to taking what he regards as the curse of Republicanism off his candidacy.

He started out by divorcing his canvass from the Republican state committee. He refused to contribute campaign funds to the Republican committee, a circumstance that in view of his ability to contribute has produced great anguish of spirit at Republican headquarters here, and he notified the Republican managers to keep hands off his canvass, which he is conducting independently from Okmulgee.

He's Not a Hoover Man.

The next move made by Senator Pine was to convey to the electorate in many subtle ways the idea that while he may be a Republican, he is not a Hoover Republican. Not only in his speeches and in all the voluminous literature he is issuing does Mr. Pine fail to say a kind word for the Hoover administration, but he does a pretty thorough job of establishing that he has steadfastly opposed Hoover policies at Washington.

He stresses particularly his opposition to the President with respect to the export debenture amendment to the farm board bill, tariff revision, veteran legislation, and the London naval treaty. Finally, Mr. Pine adopted the Democrat state platform as his own.

Takes It to His Bosom.

"The Democratic platform adopted at the recent Tulsa convention could not have been better adapted to Senator W. B. Pine's record and program if he had written it himself," says Pine's campaign newspaper, the Oklahoma Record. "A comparison of the planks of the Oklahoma Democratic platform with the record of Senator Pine's official conduct for five and a half years will show that the Democrats favor nothing that Senator Pine hasn't been fighting for, and that they point out no evil that he hasn't discovered long ago and been fighting to remedy."

Appended to this statement are four columns of commendatory quotation of the Democratic platform, with special prominence given the plank condemning the Hoover administration for its "failure to solve the farm problem" and asserting that it "has practically admitted the mockery of its own remedy."

Has Nonpartisan Background.

Senator Pine calculates that 15,000 Democrats voted for him when he ran 100,000 votes ahead of Coolidge in 1924. These were Democrats who refused to vote for his discredited Democratic opponent, Jack Walton, one of the two governors Oklahoma has removed by impeachment in the last seven years.

Mr. Pine's democratic opponent this time is former Senator Thomas P. Gore, who has continued to live in Washington since he was beaten for renomination in 1920, but has retained a voting residence in Lawton-Okla. Just how valid is his voting residence Senator Pine has questioned, adducing the testimony of Mrs. Charles Wolf that she bought the Gore house in Lawton in 1919 and wished to goodness Gore wouldn't continue giving it as his home address.

Oil Is Campaign Ammunition.

Gore is attacking Pine as an oil plutocrat engaged in despoiling the masses and the Pine management is seeking to tar Gore with the same oily stick. Pine's paper quotes former Gov. C. N. Haskell's speech, stating that Gore received a $25,000 fee from E. L. Doheny, the oil millionaire involved in the Fall scandal, and asserting that the Magnolia Petroleum company, a Standard Oil concern, is financing Gore's campaign.

Gore is chiefly under fire, however, with respect to his war record, which was principally responsible for his defeat by Scott Ferris in the ensuing election and brought about the victory of Senator Harreld, the first Republican Oklahoma ever sent to the senate. Some of the Ferris following are vowing vengeance on Gore this time.

Gore is being kept busy explaining why he voted against the draft and why he introduced a resolution in the senate warning Americans against taking passage on armed ships of the allies.

He was ill when war was declared and was not recorded on the war resolution.

70,000 Legionnaires March To Tunes of '17 In Boston

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Streets that once echoed the tread of revolutionary heroes rang today with the tread of 70,000 American Legionnaires.

Before a crowd that packed every bit of available sidewalk space and peered down from office buildings, the Legionnaires and their auxiliary members marched through flag draped streets to the music of 400 bands. The parade started in the morning sunlight and ended after the darkness had fallen. From overhead the navy dirigible Los Angeles and scores of small planes sent down the steady drone of motors.

There were the tunes of 1917—"The Long, Long Trail," "Hinky Dinky Parlez-Vous," "K-K-K-Katy," and scores of others. It was thoroughly a veterans' day. The business of a national convention was forgotten in the riot of color, the bands, and the cheering.

Pass Faneuil Hall.

The parade route carried them past the cradle of liberty," Faneuil hall; over the scene of the famous Boston massacre, past the old statehouse wherein spoke Hancock and the Adamses, along Bostofi's historic common and over Beacon hill past the present statehouse.

In front of the statehouse sat a group of white haired men, their figures bent, but extending a welcome and a salute to the vigorous men in the prime of life who filed past. They were of the legion that answered the call in '61.

Hurley and Adams Present.

In the stand, too, was Sir William Hickie of Ireland, a distinguished veteran of the British army. With him were Legionnaire Patrick J. Hurley, now secretary of war, and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams of a New England family that has given two Presidents to its country. Also there was National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer of the Legion.

Gens. Pershing and Gouraud received a tremendous ovation as they rode at the head of the parade until it reached the reviewing stand.

In the line of march was a delegation from France with one of the famous "40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux" box cars that wheeled the doughboys to the front.

SAFE CRACKER SHOT TO DEATH IN STOLEN AUTO IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Herbert Irving Roberts, 32, an accomplished con man, gunman and safe cracker, who had left a trail of felonies from coast to coast, was found shot to death at 6 a. m. in an expensive sedan parked on quiet and respectable Hamilton terrace in Brooklyn.

Roberts, who used half a dozen other names, was identified from his finger prints at police headquarters, where an imposing record, starting in 1912, stood beside his name. He had been arrested more than ten times on the west coast, in the middle west and in the east, and had been sentenced five times to jail and prison.

It was found that the car in which Roberts was murdered had been stolen Sept. 15 from a resident of the Bronx. In the back were a brace and fifteen bits, a number of jimmies and wrenches and a complete layout of other burglars' tools.

In his hotel room police found a loaded revolver, three boxes of cartridges, a tear gas pistol, a radio, golf clubs and several pieces of luggage.

Quality Is Being Sacrificed.

By JOHN S. CAPPER, Founder of Capper & Capper.

SHALL we throw our standards to the winds as a temporary expedient? My answer is NO—

It would seem for the past year many merchants have capitulated, seeking temporary makeshifts to increase their sales. There has been a general trading down—down, always down to a price; the cutting of quality here—there—always to make a price seem low. We shall have none of it.

My experience in life is that we usually get what we pay for. One can build a cheap shirt—a cheap suit of clothes or a motor car, or you can build a better one and get value in each instance—but you cannot get "Something for Nothing."

For 38 years Capper & Capper have had a standard that they have held fast to. Merchandise from the world's best makers—none else—and at a price that is right. We shall not change our ways by trading down.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE WANT AD SECTION

IDENTIFY WOMAN SLAIN IN WOODS AS MRS. HACKETT

Dentist Recognizes Teeth; Bullethole in Head.

Two conclusions were established last night in the case of the slain woman whose body was found last Wednesday by an Indian trapper along a swamp road bordering the Lac du Flambeau reservation of the Chippewa tribe in Vilas county, Wisconsin:

1. That the woman had been murdered last July 6, the slayer firing a bullet into the back of her head. The date was established by investigation of District Attorney George O'Connor of Eagle River, seat of Vilas county, and the manner of death determined at a post mortem examination of her skull, performed at Milwaukee by Dr. Edward L. Miloslavich, state pathologist.

2. That the victim was, as suspected, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, a Chicago business woman, twice widowed, who became a bride for a third time in a bigamous marriage in Chicago last June and whose friends had heard nothing from her since she vanished the Wisconsin woods on her honeymoon. Identification was established by her dentist, Dr. J. C. Rupert of Milwaukee.

Finds Bullet Hole in Skull.

The Vilas county prosecutor had sent the woman's skull and her clothing to Milwaukee yesterday morning. On completion of his postmortem examination at 6 p. m., Dr. Miloslavich announced he had found at the left side of the base of the skull a clean cut hole, 6 millimeters in diameter, which, he concluded, could have been drilled only by a bullet fired from a distance.

Identification of the victim as Mrs. Hackett, tentatively established through a girdle she was known to have purchased at a Chicago department store, was confirmed by Dr. Rupert last night. Having treated Mrs. Hackett at various times for 20 years, the dentist said he recognized a peculiar gold inlay on a left canine tooth, as a specimen of work he had performed for her in 1910.

Start Search for Perry.

Meanwhile the police of Chicago and Cleveland were investigating other angles of the case. A search was authorized by the Chicago police for George W. E. Perry, self described ne'er do well son of a wealthy California family, who married Mrs. Hackett on June 13.

Coöperating in the investigation was Mrs. Kathryn Gebhart Perry, legal wife of the fugitive, whom he had married in Chicago last Jan. 3, and who says she supported him until, her patience being exhausted in June, she banished him from her Cleveland home.

How Perry met Mrs. Hackett, widow of a former Chicago secret service man, was described in detail by the missing woman's friend, Mrs. W. H. Rogers, 919 Buena avenue, whose husband started the investigation resulting in the discovery that Perry had another wife.

Meeting with Perry Told.

Early in June, Mrs. Rogers said, Mrs. Hackett noted a newspaper advertisement asking for an elderly woman companion on a trip to California. The advertisements instructed respondents to call at the Y. M. C. A. hotel.

Going to the hotel, Mrs. Hackett was surprised to meet, instead of the woman she expected, a suave, neatly dressed man of 39 years, who identified himself as Perry. Perry introduced himself as the son of a wealthy family, whose mother lived in France, and who was about to come into a $300,000 inheritance from two maiden aunts in Pasadena, providing he married a respectable woman, abandoned his previous habits and entered business.

They were married, went on their honeymoon. Perry is said to have returned alone. Mrs. Hackett-Perry was not seen alive again by her friends.

HOP GROWERS SEEK STATE RIGHT TO MAKE BEER IN WASHINGTON

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Chronicle today says Puyallup valley hop growers will urge passage by the Washington legislature of a bill permitting home manufacture of beer, arguing they have a right to the same privileges given the California grape growers.

The paper says another proposed bill would permit doctors to prescribe liquor for medicinal purposes.

"Advocates of the two measures admit they would face defeat if they made an open attack on prohibition enforcement at the next session of the legislature," the paper says. "They are hopeful, however, that a slight modification in the bill might be granted and might win the approval of the governor."

The state prohibition law forbids prescription of liquor.

DETROIT STARTS BUILDING WORK TO AID JOBLESS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Public construction to cost $4,400,000 was authorized today by the city council as a step toward providing employment for the jobless.

Bids will be received next week on construction of eighteen new schools and additions to existing buildings, estimated to cost $4,000,000.

The contract for building work at the new house of correction was awarded by the council on a bid of $396,090. Work will start at once.

LEWIS TALKS ON THE TARIFF AND FARMERS' NEEDS

Assails Republicans on Present Rates.

Lawrenceville, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Assailing the recent tariff bill as "hypocrisy and trickery being played on the farmer and citizen of Illinois in the name of party politics," James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for United States senator, spoke before a large audience of farmers and their wives here today.

The Democratic candidate declared that he spoke as "a man who always had supported the doctrine of adjusted tariff; not as a party Democrat, but as a citizen of Illinois and as a republican Democrat in the full spirit of the name.

Assails Opponent's Record.

"I call to attention first that the lady congresswoman who is running for senator constantly alluded in her addresses to her friendship for the farmer," Lewis said. "Yet, while in congress, she found it agreeable to her own views and feelings toward the farmer first to vote against the debenture and the particular virtue of the McNary-Haugen bill, and then voted to support the President in his veto of the measures of the farmer.

"Then the lady voted for the tax in the tariff bill on shingles, lumber, cement and sugar that she had denounced in her opposition to Senator Deneen while she was seeking nomination for the senate.

"She denounced Senator Deneen for voting in the senate to support these taxes on Illinois farmers and yet, after beguiling the farmer to the idea she was his friend, returned to the house and voted for the same bill.

"I now call to attention that there is no measure presented by the lady nor her party [as she calls it, the Republican party] of any relief to the farmer, nor any aid or any rescue of the farmer from the predicament and the peril those at Washington have put him in, through misgovernment.

"Now, under the tariff bill," Lewis continued, "there is provided a system by which certain interests can get their money paid as tariff tax returned to them, while the tariff tax laid on the farmer and his necessities must be paid by him without any hope of return or compensation.

Says Farmer Is Obstructed.

"On the other hand, the monopolists of the east are allowed to obstruct the western farmer from shipment of his stuff to distant markets, and the grain of the farm is manipulated by the farm board in such manner that the price of the grain of the farmer of Illinois is kept down to the lowest price of years [indeed, of generations] and nothing done that can give him a chance to realize in the market a just result for his product.

"I appeal to you men and women of Illinois to help end this gross injustice to the people of our state by bringing about the substitution of a tariff that will be fair to the farmer, fair to the industrial worker in the great city, fair to all rather than only to the favored few."

HOOVER ASSAILS BOLSHEVISM IN CAROLINA SPEECH

President rode in daylight across North Carolina. His train was greeted by crowds at many points, including Danville, Va., and Greensboro, Thomasville, Salisbury, Charlotte, and Gastonia, N. C. School children were assembled at most of these towns. The President appeared on the back of the train platform and nodded his greetings. The President started his return trip to Washington tonight on his special train.

Greeted on Return Trip.

President Hoover's Special Train En Route to Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—President Hoover, for the first time since he left the capital on his swing over the east and south, talked a little politics as he sped homeward tonight across North Carolina.

At Salisbury a man in the crowd yelled that "we are for Hoover 100 per cent," and the President replied, "Now that you have the habit, keep at it."

Not since the days of his 1928 campaign has the chief executive taken part in a demonstration like that which greeted him on his trip back across North Carolina, one of the five southern states which gave him its electoral vote in the last presidential election.

Milling masses gathered about the rear platform of his train at each of the small towns, with only a few miles between them. Mr. Hoover spent much of the evening on the platform and beside him, smiling and waving her handkerchief, was Mrs. Hoover.

To the people of Charlotte, where the only pre-arranged halt had been planned, he thanked the people for the overwhelming welcome he had received and praised the progress of the state.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

King's Mountain Battlefield, S. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—President Hoover in his address here today reviewed the history of the 150 years since the battle, saying:

"My Fellow Countrymen: This is a place of inspiring memories. Here less than a thousand men, inspired by the urge of freedom, defeated a superior force entrenched in this strategic position. This small band of patriots turned back a dangerous invasion well designed to separate and dismember the united colonies. It was a little army and a little battle, but it was of mighty portent. History has done scant justice to its significance, which rightly should place it beside Lexington and Bunker Hill, Trenton and Yorktown, as one of the crucial engagements in our long struggle for independence.

"The battle of King's Mountain stands out in our national memory not only because of the valor of the men of the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Virginia, who trod here 150 years ago, and because of the brilliant leadership of Col. Campbell, but also because the devotion of those men revived the courage of the despondent colonies and set a nation upon the road of final triumph in American independence.

Inspires Faith in Humanity.

"No American can review the vast pageant of human progress so mightily contributed to by these men without renewed faith in humanity, new courage, and strengthened resolution.

"My friends, I have lived among many peoples and have observed many governments. Each has its own institutions and its own ideals, its own spirit. Many of them I have learned to respect and to admire. It is from these contrasts and these experiences that I wish to speak today—to speak upon the institutions, the ideals, upon the spirit of America.

"In the time since the battle of King's Mountain was fought our country has marched from those struggling colonies on the Atlantic seaboard to the full sweep of the Pacific. It has grown from fewer than 3,000,000 people to more than 120,000,000. But far more inspiring than its growth of numbers has been the unfolding of a great experiment in human society. Within this land there have been builded new and powerful institutions designed of new ideas and new ideals in a new vision of human relations. Through them we have attained a wide diffusion of liberty and of happiness and of material things than humanity has ever known before."

Growth of All Kinds.

The President then referred to our security at home, the growth of prosperity, the arts, education, science, and the opportunity presented all men, adding:

"This unparalleled rise of the American man and woman was not alone the result of riches in lands or forests or mines; it sprang from ideas and ideals, which liberated the mind and stimulated the exertion of a people. There were other parts of the world even more easily accessible to new invasion by man, whose natural resources were as great as those of the United States, yet their history over this 150 years presents no achievement parallel to the mighty march of the United States. But the deadening poverty of other lands was in the absence of the stirring ideas and ideals which have lightened the path of the whole American people. A score of nations have borrowed our philosophy from us, and they have tempered the course of history in yet a score of others. All have prospered under them.

Existance as a Race.

"These ideas and these ideals were in the hearts and inspired the souls of the men who fought the battle of King's Mountain. They had spurred the migration of their fathers from the persecutions and restricted opportunities of Europe, had been sustained by their religious faith, had been developed in their conflict with the wilderness, and had become the spirit of the American people, demanding for a man a larger mastership of his own destiny. Our forefathers formulated them through the Declaration and the constitution into a new and practical political and social system unique in the world. Devoted generations have secured them to us.

Uphold Faith in Principles.

"It is never amiss for us to review these principles, that we uphold our faith in them, that we search our fidelity to them, that by stretch of our vision over the vast pageant of our accomplishments we should gain courage to meet the difficulties of the day."

The President said America's political system was a revolt from dictatorship either by class or individuals; it was based on inalienable freedom, and the idea that freedom should be based on law sprung from the "expressed wisdom of a majority of the people."

"We have seldom tried to name this system," he said. "Perhaps we might well abandon efforts to define it, for things of the spirit can be little defined. Some have called it liberalism, but that term has become corrupted by political use. Some have called it individualism, but it is not an individualism which permits men to override the equal opportunity of others. By its enemies it has been called capitalism, and yet under its ideals capital is but an instrument, not a master.

"Ours is a system unique with America—an expression of the spirit and environment of our people—it is just American.

"Parallel with us, other philosophies of society and government have continued or developed and new ones have come into the world born of the spirit of other peoples and other environments. It is a function of freedom that we should search their claims with open mind, but it is a function of common sense that we should reject them the moment they fail in the test. From experiences in many lands I have sometimes compared some of these systems to a race. In the American system, through free and universal education, we train the runners, we strive to give to them an equal start, our government is the umpire of its fairness. The winner is he who shows the most conscientious training, the greatest ability, the strongest character. Socialism or its violent brother, bolshevism, would compel all the runners to end the race equally; it would hold the swiftest to the speed of the most backward. Anarchy would provide neither training nor umpire. Despotism or class government picks those who run and also those who win.

Differs from Others.

"Whatever the merits or demerits of these other systems may be, they all mean the destruction of the driving force of equal opportunity, and they mean the destruction of our constitution, for our political framework would serve none of them and many of its fundamental provisions are the negation of them. They mean the abandonment of the nation's spiritual heritage.

"It is significant that some of these systems deny religion and seek to expel it. I cannot conceive of a wholesome social order or a sound economic system that does not have its roots in religious faith. No blind materialism can for long engage the loyalties of mankind. Economic aspiration, though it strongly marks the American system, is not an end in itself, but is only one of many instruments to accomplish the profound purposes of the American people, which are largely religious in origin. This country is supremely dedicated, not to the pursuit of material riches, but to pursuit of a richer life for the individual.

"Our Dangers Lie at Home."

"It would be foolish for me to stand here and say that our political and social system works perfectly. It does not. The human race is not perfect yet. There are disheartening occurrences every hour of the day. There are always malevolent or selfish forces at work which, unchecked, would destroy the very basis of our American life. These forces of destruction vary from generation to generation; and if we would hand on our great inheritance to our children we must successfully contend with them.

"While we cannot permit any foreign person or agency to undermine our institutions, yet we must look to our own conduct that we do not by our own failure to uphold and safeguard the true spirit of America weaken our own institutions and destroy the very forces which upbuild our national greatness. It is in our own house that our real dangers lie, and it is there that we have need to summon our highest wisdom and our highest sense of public service.

Pacifist and Military Perils.

"We must keep corruptive influences from the nation and its ideals as we would keep them from our homes. Crime and disobedience of law are the very incarnation of destruction to a system whose basis is law. Both pacifism and militarism court danger from abroad, the one by promoting weakness, the other by promoting arrogance. Failure of many of our citizens to express their opinions at the ballot box is at once their abandonment of the whole basis of self-government. Manipulation of the ballot is a denial of government by the people. Corruption or even failure of moral perceptions in public office defiles the whole spirit of America. Mere destructive criticism destroys leadership and substitutes weaklings.

"Any practice of business which would dominate the country by its own selfish interests is a destruction of equality of opportunity.

"Tendencies of communities and states to shirk their own responsibilities or to unload them upon the federal government, or of the federal government to encroach upon the responsibilities of the states, are destructive of our whole pattern of self-government.

Purity as Well as Strength.

"It is the first duty of those of us who believe in the American system to maintain a knowledge of and a pride in it, not particularly because we need fear those foreign systems, but because we have need to sustain ours in purity and in strength.

"The test of our system of government and of our social principles and ideals as compared to others may in part be interpreted by the practical results of the 150 years of growth that have brought to us the richness of life which spreads through this great nation. I can give you some measurement both of our standards and of our social progress. In proportion to our population, we have one-fourth more of our children in grade schools than the most advanced other country in Europe, and for every thousand of our young people we have six and one-half times as many in colleges and universities. And I may add that today we have more of our youth in institutions of higher learning than all the rest of the one billion 500 million people of the world put together.

Results of Good Government.

"Compared with even the most advanced other country in Europe, we shall find an incomparably greater diffusion of material well-being. We have twice the number of homes owned among every thousand people that they have; we consume four times as much electricity and we have seven times as many automobiles; for each thousand people we have more than four times as many telephones and radio sets; our use of food and clothing is far greater; we have proportionately only one-twentieth as many people in the poorhouse or upon public charity.

"There is a profound proof, moreover, that the doors of opportunity have indeed been kept open. The posts of leadership in our country, both in government and in other activities, are held by men who have risen to command. A canvass of the leading administrative officials of our federal government, of our industries, and of our professions shows that 90 per cent of them started life with no financial inheritance. Despite the misrepresentations of demagoguery, there are today more chances for young men to rise, and for young women, too, than there were thirty years ago.

Ultimate Goal of Good Citizen.

"We shall not have full equality of opportunity until we have attained that ultimate goal of every right-thinking citizen—the abolition of poverty of mind and home. Happily for us we have gone farther than others on this road and we make new gains every decade.

"But these tangible things which we can reduce to statistics and comparisons are but a part of America. The great intangibles of the spirit of a people are immeasurable—our sense of freedom, of liberty, of security, our confidence of future progress, our traditions of past glory and sacrifice, the example of our heroes, the spiritual enrichment of our people—these are the true glories of America.

"There need be no fear for the future of a republic that seeks inspiration from the spirit of the men who fought at the battle of Kings Mountain."

HOOVER HEARS STRIKER PLEAD LABOR'S CAUSE

Danville, Va., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The President of the United States stood bareheaded tonight on the rear platform of his special train and listened patiently as a striking textile worker pleaded the cause of the laboring man.

Only once during the lengthy dissertation in which the humbly clad striker, wearing no tie, spoke of the mill workers' intention of remaining out until they won their strike in two mills here did the President interrupt.

"The way to win all those things," he said, "is to keep the peace and not through violence."

The striker told Mr. Hoover that there had been no violence in their strike and none was intended; that they had good leaders and expected to "stick" until they won.

As the train moved and ended the unexpected discourse he waved the speaker a friendly good-by.

VOTE 30 MILLIONS FOR NEW GOTHAM PARK PLAYGROUND SITES

New York, Oct. 7.—[Special.]—The board of estimate, sitting today as a committee of the whole, made available for the purchase of new park sites and playgrounds in this city $30,000,000. No previous appropriation ever made for a like purpose in New York history has approximated such a figure.

The sum voted is expected to be spent within the next three years. Adding to it the $10,000,000 already invested by the present city administration in park lands and playgrounds from 1926 through 1929 means that Mayor James J. Walker's administration will have spent $40,000,000 in such recreational facilities when its present tenure of office ends in December, 1933.

The new program calls for 3,550 acres in new park land and about 100 playgrounds. It will bring the city's total recreational acreage up to approximately 16,000, or 50 per cent more than was in use in 1925. Since the advent of the Walker administration in January, 1926, there have been added 2,790 acres of parks and playgrounds, including some extensive tracts in Queens and Richmond.

MURDERER ESCAPES FROM JAIL.

FRESH YEAST strikes at the cause of Intestinal Fatigue. A food, it acts gently and naturally.

No more Sleepy Afternoons

Your pep holds out all day long when you conquer Intestinal Fatigue

YOU know what they are! Dull, draggy, headachy afternoons, when your vitality is gone, pep completely exhausted! It's usually the same old trouble . . . the commonplace evil . . . Intestinal Fatigue!

But cheer up! Here's a way to solve the problem . . . in Nature's own manner! Food causes the trouble and a food can end it!

Intestinal Fatigue comes most frequently because the average diet lacks certain elements that stimulate normal functioning of human organs. Medical authorities have discovered, after 75 years of use and study, that fresh yeast will provide these missing elements.

Eaten as a regular part of the nourishment . . . three times daily, before or between meals, yeast cleans, tones and restores the delicate digestive mechanism, gives appetite a chance to renew itself, and helps us derive the utmost nourishment from the food we eat. It is itself a food, not a drug, and therefore harmless.

So get at the cause of those draggy afternoons. Start in eating Fleischmann's Yeast right now. Eat it any way you like . . . so long as you eat it regularly, 3 cakes every day. The directions are printed on the label.

Each cake of Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in three vitamins indispensable to health—vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D. At grocers', restaurants, soda fountains.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health 3 Times a Day

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

197,145 Names Put on County Lists in 2 Days.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Rain that fell almost continually from the opening of the polling places until they closed cut down yesterday's registration materially.

In Chicago there were 214,622 names put on the books, a figure much below those used by the forecasters. It brought the city total to 1,500,903.

In the country towns 86,920 voters placed their names on the books in the second day of general registration required in the county under a new state law. This figure, added to the 110,225 who registered on the first day, Sept. 27, brought the county total outside the city to 197,145 and the total for both city and county to 1,698,048.

Revision of the city precinct polling books will take place next Saturday night and it has been predicted that more than 200,000 names will be erased because of removals and deaths since the present lists were established two years ago.

LONDON GREETS AIRSHIP VICTIMS IN DEAD OF NIGHT

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 8.—[Wednesday.]—Into the heart of the empire the dead of the R-101 returned early today.

Despite the time — 1:25 a. m.—a crowd of 10,000 gathered at Victoria station anxious to take the first advantage of doing homage to the 47 victims of the worst air disaster in history.

Senior officers of the royal air force and relatives of the victims, including Col. H. R. Brancker, brother of Sir W. Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation, were gathered on the platform, and at 1 a. m. Prime Minister MacDonald, accompanied by his daughter, Ishbel, arrived.

Only the sharp command, "Present arms!" broke the silence as the train pulled in.

The first carriage contained three of the survivors, H. J. Leech, A. V. Bell, and W. H. Binks, who remained in their compartment until the last coffin was taken from the train. Immediately Prime Minister MacDonald greeted them.

The task of unloading the coffins was accomplished quickly and silently, each coffin being borne by six men of the royal air force and placed on tenders. The only sounds breaking the silence were the shuffling feet of the coffin bearers and the muffled sobs of relatives and spectators.

Crowd Watches Procession.

The long line of tenders then moved down the sanded platform to the roadway, followed by several private cars, including Prime Minister MacDonald's, through avenues of silent men and women to the mortuary in Horse Ferry road. An armed air force post will keep guard at the mortuary throughout the night.

Westminster hall has been chosen through special permission of King George for the lying in state of the bodies. The remains will be placed in the center of the hall Friday from 5 a. m. until 10 p. m. The public will be admitted.

Relatives of the airship victims have assented to the plan of burying the dead in a common grave at or near Cardington, the home port of the R-100 and the R-101.

Warship Returns Dead.

The R-101's dead reached Dover aboard the British destroyer Tempest just before 10 o'clock last night. A guard of honor of 50 royal air force men was drawn up on the jetty. Malcolm MacDonald, representing the prime minister, with high air and army officers from the Dover garrison, were present to receive the bodies. The mayor of Dover, in cocked hat and red robes, with members of the corporation, represented the seaport.

France Pays Last Tribute.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOULOGNE, France, Oct. 7.—With guns booming forth a solemn salute and clarions playing British and French national anthems, France today paid her last tribute to the dead of the worst air disaster in history, when a special train carrying the 47 bodies of what had been the crew of the world's largest airship, the R-100, arrived from Beauvais at 4:30 p. m.

Shortly before noon the victims of the R-101 were moved from their temporary resting place in the city hall at Beauvais to the railroad station amid French military pomp. Artillery guns roared salutes and each time a cannon boomed an artillery supply wagon, bearing a single flower covered coffin, drove out of the city hall court.

ONCE BUSY GRAIN BELT TOWN SOLD BY AUCTIONEER

Hickman, Ill., Victim of Changing Times.

Watseka, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The end of a long faltering dream of agricultural empire was written today when an auctioneer sold the skeleton of the town of Hickman in southeastern Iroquois county for $1,039.

Once the largest grain shipping point in central Illinois' eastern range of counties, Hickman had failed to stand the strain of competition, and for fifteen years or more had slowly dwindled away. The railroad discontinued its station there, the grain elevator burned, the hard roads came and the farmers went elsewhere to trade.

Auctioneer Competes with Drizzle.

So today Col. Sam A. Whitesell, auctioneer, mounted the block and strove against the gray drizzle to whip up interest among the 150 men who had gathered.

He got $707 from Henry Marks of Goodwine for a house and four acres of land $75 from L. B. Russell of Hoopeston for another acre, $140 from Roy Crowlaw of Hoopeston for the store and postoffice, $85 from John Van Hovelt of Ash Grove township for two small buildings and $32 from Russell for what remains, principally the scales and office shack, of the grain elevator.

The land was bought by owners of adjoining farms. The buildings went to wrecking firms. The antique grillework of the postoffice was resold immediately to C. B. Baier of Cissna Park for $1.

Old Peter Hickman founded the town when he trekked in from Delaware with his sons. They took all the land in that vicinity. In the midst of the grain producing prairies of Illinois, before the days of the great wheat farms beyond the Mississippi, before antiquated methods had weakened Illinois' black loam and modern agriculture had rescued it, the future of town and family was rosy.

Railroad Comes—and Goes.

The Chicago and Central Illinois railroad built a branch from Cissna Junction to Hickman and Cissna Park and all the farmers of southern Iroquois and northern Vermilion counties poured the tribute of their grain into the town, trading there in return.

Through the '80s and '90s it flourished. But with the turn of the century its importance began to wane. Grain shipments fell off until, in 1910, the railroad stopped its service.

Watseka, Milford, Hoopeston, Rossville, Rankin, and others took away Hickman's trade. Of recent years Hickman has been practically deserted.

U. S. DIRIGIBLES NOT HALTED BY RECENT DISASTER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, announced today that the British airship disaster in France had not affected the navy's plans for the continued use of giant dirigibles. He said that the six and a half million cubic foot airship now being built for the navy at Akron, O., would be completed and delivered probably during May or June of next year. He added that the department has another big dirigible under contract, although he did not state definitely whether this ship would be completed.

"While of course the disaster may play some part in the department's future consideration of the airship question," Mr. Ingalls said, "it is obvious that at this time, when the cause or causes of the disaster are unknown, it would hardly be consistent with the principles for which our navy has stood that an accident should alter an established policy. The navy department is committed to the development of lighter than air ships in this country. Lighter than air is in every country admittedly still in the early stages of development."

Mr. Ingalls expressed the hope that lessons learned from the recent disaster would be the means of a great saving of life and property in the future. He added that the use of helium in American ships made airship operation in this country safer. Many new improvements, Mr. Ingalls said, are being incorporated into the new American dirigible which will increase its dependability.

ACCUSE TEACHER IN KNIFE SLAYING OF 7 YR. OLD GIRL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 7.—Albert Nogaret, otherwise known as Brother Dozite of the Catholic Order of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart at Roussin academy, was found criminally responsible by a coroner's jury today for the death of 7 year old Simone Caron, whose body was found in a potato sack in the cellar of the Roussin academy at Point Eaux Trembles on Sept. 18. Nogaret, who is 48 years of age and who has been a member of the religious order for the last twenty-three years, smiled in an amused manner as he heard the jury's decision.

He was arraigned this afternoon following the finding of the coroner's jury. Appearing before Judge Enright, he pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Oct. 14, when he will stand trial on a charge of murder.

Victim's Brother Is Accuser.

Evidence was given by the 10 year old brother of the victim that Nogaret was often seen trying to entice children, including his sister, into the basement of the school. The jury deliberated only eight minutes before holding Nogaret criminally responsible for the girl's death.

A knife was produce, which Nogaret later identified as belonging to him. Doctors testified that its form and dimensions matched exactly those of the wounds in the child's body. The victim had suffered two knife wounds in the breast, and two wounds in the head from which a cerebral hemorrhage had resulted.

Woman and Lover on Trial.

Another murder case opened in the rural sections of Quebec today when Mrs. Arthur Nantel, 49, and her paramour, Edouard Thomas, 25, were arraigned on the charge of murdering the woman's husband, Arthur Nantel, on Sept. 29. Thomas has admitted killing Nantel. Both he and the woman admitted a love affair extending over four years, but which of late had been the object of Nantel's wrath.

FLOOD POURS IN ON MINING TOWN IN MEXICO; 60 DIE

Four Foot Water Wall Spreads Ruin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7.—Between 60 and 70 persons lost their lives in a river flood in the mining town of Pachuca in the state of Hidalgo last night, according to telegraphic messages received here today. Property damage is estimated at more than $470,000.

Raging waters of the river Avenidas overran its banks after several hours of torrential rains. The wall of water was soon racing through streets at a depth of four feet, sweeping away everything in its course.

Water Smashes in Doors.

The flood smashed in doors of residences and stores. Local authorities at a late hour last night telegraphed they were taking all possible steps to relieve flood victims. Search for others who might have perished was continued through the night.

Pachuca is one of the largest of the world's silver producing centers, but judging by the brief press reports thus far received the mining plants were undamaged.

Traffic on a number of branches and main lines of the National railways around Pachuca is reported to be paralyzed, according to authentic information available this afternoon. Deputy José Rivera, representing that section, tonight will ask the chamber of deputies for an appropriation of $10,000 for the relief of merchants who have been ruined by the flood.

Boat Founders; Ten Drown.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Out of 21 persons who went picnicking to Tizapan on lake Chapala here yesterday only six returned today. The party boarded a launch for the trip across the lake. When about midway to the destination a storm came up and the boat foundered. Ten of its occupants were drowned and five are missing.

Dennis, 3, Travels from Ireland to U. S. Alone

Red haired Dennis McCarthy, 3 years old, arrived in Chicago yesterday after having traveled alone from Queenstown, Ireland, to the United States. He was met on Sunday, after the steamship Brittanica had docked in New York, by his father, Patrick J. McCarthy, 5308 South Morgan street, a building contractor. Dennis was born in Chicago and his mother died four days after his birth. He was then taken to Ireland by an aunt, Mrs. Hannah Donovan.

$11,000,000 CITY 5% WATER BONDS SOLD AT PREMIUM

The sale of $10,997,000 worth of city water certificates to a banking syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. at a premium of $85,000 was announced yesterday by City Controller Schmidt. The terms of the sale provide that the deal must be completed within sixty days and the sale is made conditional upon the approval of the legality of the certificates by attorneys for the syndicate.

The certificates are the remainder of a $12,000,000 issue which the general assembly in 1929 authorized the city to sell without a referendum. A few of the certificates from this issue were sold to city pension funds immediately after the legislature acted, but later on Controller Schmidt refused to sell them after attacks had been made upon their validity.

$19,750,000 Now Outstanding.

The certificates are a direct obligation against the city's revenues from the sale of water and bear five per cent interest. If the deal goes through there will be a total of $19,750,000 in certificates outstanding against the water revenues. The city and pension funds hold $8,753,000 of the certificates.

In the syndicate besides Halsey, Stuart & Co., are the Continental-Illinois Bank & Trust company, Foreman-State National bank and Lehmann Bros. of New York, each of which is taking approximately $2,500,000, and the Northern Trust company of Chicago and Pressprich & Co., of New York, each of which is taking $500,000.

Under an ordinance passed by the council on Feb. 4, 1930 the proceeds of the sale can be used only for the completion of the new Chicago avenue water tunnel, construction of a crib at the mouth of the tunnel, the installation of extensions from the tunnel to two pumping stations and the installation of feeder water mains.

A test case brought by Frank J. Ward, who is said to be an official of the Plumbers' union, to establish the validity of the certificates, is pending now in the Supreme court. A decision in the Superior court of Cook county upheld the legality of the bonds. According to V. S. Petterson, deputy city controller, the city can sell the bonds on the strength of the Superior court decision.

In another deal yesterday Halsey, Stuart & Co., purchased $1,000,000 worth of Cook county 1930 tax anticipation warrants.

Burning Stomach Torture 3 Years

Misery Ends Quick with New Prescription, ACIDINE

"For the last three years I have been bothered by food scuring, causing a burning sensation, that at times I felt like jumping in the river," says Mr. E. J. Moore, Cincinnati, Ohio. "I tried innumerable medicines, consulted a stomach specialist, but no relief. Finally I heard about ACIDINE and got some. No more burning or sour belching and vomiting, no headaches. ACIDINE is wonderful."

Similar reports from all over rave about this amazing new prescription that succeeds where others fail. The reason is that ACIDINE is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes!

Five other ingredients in ACIDINE instantly neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach.

Don't risk serious and more painful troubles. GET ACIDINE from your druggist today. Costs only a few cents. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink, and smoke all you want. Results guaranteed. Maker gives money back if not delighted.

PHYSICIANS WIN POINT IN FIGHT FOR MEDICAL RUM

Britten Protest Causes U. S. to Cancel Rule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Dry law enforcement officials of the department of justice have modified their proposal to place new restrictions on the use of liquor by physicians.

It had been planned and stipulated in tentative regulations that instead of being allowed six quarts of medicinal whisky a year to be withdrawn at the option of the user physicians should be allowed one quart of medicinal whisky every two months. Abandonment of this plan was disclosed today by Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep., Ill.), who interceded in behalf of Chicago physicians, who protested.

Representative Britten made public a letter in which Assistant Attorney General C. Aaron Youngquist, in charge of prohibition, said the regulations now in force will not be changed.

Retain Present Regulation.

"The suggestion that one quart be allowed every sixty days was contained in a tentative draft of the proposed regulation prepared some time ago and submitted to the various bodies interested, including the American Medical association for comment and suggestions," Mr. Youngquist wrote. "The matter has since been discussed with officers of the A. M. A., and it has been decided to retain the present regulation which permits the single purchase of six quarts of whisky annually."

Declaring that the proposed change would have been a constant annoyance to reputable physicians everywhere, Representative Britten said he was glad to be informed of its abandonment.

"Federal prohibition has been made obnoxious and unpopular by intolerant administration of legislative folly," Mr. Britten added. "The Jones law, which made a felony of what most people thought an unimportant social error, is a hideous example of how far the dry fanatics will go to force an acceptance of their narrow views.

Justice by Sane Regulation.

"The department of justice, by sane regulation and recognition of the imperfections of man, can do much good for the cause of temperance, if not for prohibition."

Coincidental with the disclosure of the justice department's change of front on the medicinal whisky regulation it became known that officers of the American Medical association have set out to organize a new campaign against all restrictions on medicinal liquor which they hope will lead up to a drive in congress for amendment of the Volstead law.

Dr. W. G. Morgan of Washington, president of the association, is the moving spirit behind this new effort. "I have pledged myself to this crusade," he said, "and during my presidency I purpose to lift my voice in protest against this and every other unfair restriction to the sane practice of medicine. If I am supported by members of the organization I predict we will go before congress at the next session and urge repeal of the crippling restrictions to which we are subject."

SEES RURAL BRED LEADERS AS KEY TO LIFE OF CITY

Russell, Irish Poet, in Farm Plea.

BY PAUL POTTER.

When city populations can no longer draw upon rural peoples for leadership timber, civilizations such as flower in Great Britain and the United States become endangered.

This was the declaration of George Russell, Irish poet and agricultural organizer under Sir Horace Plunkett, in addressing the agricultural committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday. He is better known in the literary world as "Æ," an author and poet of international note.

Problem Alike World Over.

"The problems of agriculture and rural life are alike the world over," said Mr. Russell. "City people must realize the importance of maintaining more than serfdom on the farm. Good living conditions must prevail in rural areas for at least one-fourth of a nation's population to insure economic and racial well-being."

This he said was not to be gained by governmental subsidy, as "some nations, including the United States, are attempting, nor by communistic endeavor as in Russia." The only way, he said, drawing upon twenty-five years of organizing effort and study in Ireland and other European countries, is by voluntary action to organize countrymen into a rural civilization such as has never been seen before.

Makes Farmer Better Buyer.

There should be no conflict between urban and rural citizens, Russell asserted, because they are fundamentally one. Organization, he pointed out, makes the farmer a better buyer for what the city produces. Farmers as individuals are generally too poor to buy all the expensive equipment which they could purchase if organized.

Four fundamentals were listed by this national Irish leader, who is credited with aiding Plunkett in saving the Free State from disintegration, as necessary in building this rural civilization: The building of not only economic but spiritual and cultural knowledge among farmers; sound business practice and preservation of individual identity in organization; development of other agricultural industries than food production, and the federating of buying and selling power of farmers, to create "national consciousness" among individuals.

Drops Rum Case Against Slayer of Holdup Man

United States Commissioner Walker yesterday dismissed charges of violating the prohibition law against John Ziegler, operator of a tire shop at 3409 Montrose avenue, who was acclaimed as a hero by police and a coroner's jury for the shooting and killing of Washington Megary, a former convict, who tried to hold up the place. Despite the police contention that Ziegler had no connection with a small brewery found in a place next door to his tire shop, prohibition agents pressed charges against him.

HOOVER BOARD MEETS TODAY IN LIQUOR QUANDARY

May Reach Verdict on Enforcement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—President Hoover's commission on law enforcement and observance, meeting tomorrow for its first session since last spring, will renew its struggle with the prohibition question, which is reported to have caused serious dissension among its members.

Although speculation has been rife as to what the commission will or will not recommend as to dry law enforcement, no authoritative information was forthcoming on the eve of the meeting. Until the mass of experts' reports are digested, Chairman George W. Wickersham said today, there is little likelihood of any concrete action. He added, however, that "you can never tell what kind of a blossom will bloom until the plant develops."

One Member's Stand.

Kenneth MacIntosh, a former justice of the Washington State Supreme court and a dry, recently caused a flurry by announcing that he would insist that the commission "go to the guts of the prohibition question" and say whether the dry law is enforceable. Other members, said to be divided on the issue, have remained silent, while several speeches by Mr Wickersham have encouraged both the drys and wets.

Aside from what stand it will take, if any, on the enforceability of the dry laws, interest attaches to the commission's report on pending legislation which it recommended to congress last winter. Its so-called juryless trial and border patrol bills are before senate committees.

Lengthy Session Likely.

All of the members of the commission, including Frank J. Loesch of Chicago, are expected to attend the meeting tomorrow and it is probable that the sessions will continue for several days.

The commission will send its report to President Hoover about Dec. 1 for transmission to congress soon after it convenes for the winter session.

French Government Denies Attempt on Briand's Life

PARIS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Official denial was made tonight of reports that Foreign Minister Briand had been the victim of an automobile accident or that an attempt had been made on his life. It was explained the rumors probably arose from the fact the foreign minister contracted a slight cold during the league of nations meetings in Geneva and was keeping to his room.

FEDERAL APPEALS COURT WILL HEAR LITZINGER CASE

The October session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals opened yesterday. One of the cases to be heard soon is that of Virgil Litzinger, now serving a twenty-five year term in Leavenworth penitentiary for his part in the Evergreen Park mail robbery.

No oral arguments will be required in the Litzinger case, the attorneys for both sides having submitted briefs. The court set Dec. 4 for oral arguments on the appeal of John W. Loftus, former police lieutenant, who was sentenced to two years imprisonment on his conviction of violating the Dyer motor vehicle act.

In the absence of Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler, who is in Washington attending a judicial conference, Judge Evan A. Evans yesterday delivered a eulogy of Judge George T. Page, whose retirement became effective Oct. 1, but who has consented to serve until the vacancy is filled. Judge Evans expressed gratitude over the fact that Judge Page retired instead of resigning, which means that he may sit with the court at any time.

TEACHERS' DESKS IN EVANSTON SCHOOL LOOTED

Evanston police, who have been investigating an epidemic of tomato throwing at buildings in the suburb, were confronted with a new mystery yesterday when Miss Ethel Cloyd, principal of the Willard school, complained that during the night every teacher's desk in the school had been looted of candy bars, small change, and pencils.

The mystery was deepened when it was found that all windows and doors had been securely locked and that none of the locks had been disturbed by the intruders.

Scores of windows in the school bore tomato stains, while a few stray shots had struck near-by homes.

Two Gunmen Rob Special Deputy Sheriff of Auto

Bernard M. Long, Downers Grove contractor and special deputy sheriff in Du Page county, was stopped by two gunmen last night on the Butterfield road between Naperville and Downers Grove just opposite the Arthur Cutten farm and robbed of his automobile.

ANOTHER BOOZE RING RADIO SET IS SEIZED BY FEDERAL AGENTS

New York, Oct. 7.—[Special.]—With the aid of a mysterious radio detecting device a group of federal agents located an unlicensed radio station early today at Highlands, N. J.—one of a chain operated by a syndicate of rum runners, who, according to the department of justice, are doing about $1,000,000 worth of business a month in running liquor from St. Pierre-Miquelon and the Bahamas.

Under the supervision of H. J. Simmons of Virginia, chief special agent in charge of the New York district, six agents swooped down upon the Albion hotel on River street, Highlands, and seized a 250 watt plant equipped for sending and receiving on a high frequency short wave.

No arrests were made. The station is the third to be raided within a year. Last October a similar station was seized by prohibition agents in a bungalow a little distance away from the hotel. The other station was discovered in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn.

FIREBUG BLAMED FOR $8,000 BLAZE IN DES PLAINES

Flames believed to have been started by an incendiary shortly after 8 o'clock last night destroyed the Home Laundry on Oakwood avenue near Lee street in Des Plaines, with an estimated loss of $8,000. Neighbors told of seeing a man run from the rear of the laundry with a torch shortly before the fire broke out. Firemen found three 5-gallon cans which they said had held naphtha. The laundry was started two months ago.

ENGINEERS NOT READY; SUBWAY HEARING DELAYED

Experts Fail to Answer Faherty Questions.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The public hearing on the State street subway which was set for Oct. 17 has been postponed indefinitely. The engineers announced yesterday that they did not have the requisite data ready.

Alfred Brahdy, assistant to Robert Ridgway, chief consulting engineer, suggested that the engineers should be ready in two weeks. If they are this would permit a public hearing on election day, Nov. 4. No definite assurance was given, however, that the engineers would be prepared in the next two weeks.

The meeting of the board of local improvements yesterday, attended by the subway engineers and attorneys, and by Mayor Thompson for a short period, brought the discussion of subway planning out in the open for the first time. At the morning and afternoon sessions it was admitted openly that the actual preparation of plans is being retarded by the failure of the board of advisory engineers to reach fundamental decisions.

The afternoon session was devoted entirely to ascertaining why the board of advisory engineers, composed of George M. Wisner, chairman, David A. Wallace, George C. Lenth, Edward J. Noonan, and Maj. R. F. Kelker as chief engineer, does not reach basic conclusions. Their chief announced reason was lack of data and information.

Mayor Makes a Speech.

The feature of the morning session was a speech by Mayor Thompson in which he said: "No one is more interested than the mayor in getting started on subways—in speedy action, starting the dirt to fly."

He criticized "official Washington" for not spending the money appropriated for a deep waterway to the gulf, thus providing employment. He predicted that when that waterway is completed, which, he said, could be accomplished within two years, "Chicago's business will be doubled" and its population greatly increased. Consequently subways will then be needed. He added that the only thing which might cause him to veto the subway plans would be a design for a subway that would be too small.

When the mayor retired Engineers Wisner and Wallace left the meeting, and they were 25 minutes late in arriving at the afternoon session. On Aug. 26 the board of local improvements asked the board of advisory engineers the answers to 28 questions which were deemed requisite to holding a public hearing. Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, wanted each of those questions answered yesterday, but for some of them the engineers had no replies.

Mr. Noonan was absent from the afternoon session. Mr. Wisner explained privately that the engineer had left the morning session to confer with a contractor on subway matters.

Faherty Questions Engineers.

Mr. Faherty questioned Maj. Kelker concerning the important unsettled questions before the advisory board. He named three—the width of the platforms in the subways, the location of the west side connection with the State street subway, and the question of whether certain sections of the subway shall be built by open cut or by tunneling.

The three principal problems involve others which appear important. The advisory engineers, who were appointed on July 16, have not yet decided what the width of the subway shall be between Madison and Polk streets, which in turn affects the depth of the subway between Madison street and the river, and that in turn affects the design.

The advisers have not decided whether the wires and pipes of public utilities shall be placed in utility galleries in the subways or left in the ground above the subway. They have not decided the depth of the mezzanine floor and therefore do not know whether it will be higher, lower, or flush with the floors of State street store basements.

Asked for their personal views on the pending questions, Messrs. Kelker, Leath and Wisner gave their opinions readily. Mr. Wallace expressed no views and declined twice point blank to express his opinion in answer to direct questions.

"You have all of the experience of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, London, Paris and Berlin," Faherty told them at one stage.

"You have 120 or 130 employés who are wasting their time because you have not made the decisions which the responsibility you have assumed has placed upon you."

CALLS LOBBYING A PRIVATE RIGHT AND PUBLIC DUTY

Lawyer Warns Cost of Government Is Peril.

New York, Oct. 7.—[Special.]—The privilege of lobbying for and against legislation was upheld as a private right and a public duty by James A. Emery, general counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, in an address today at the semi-annual conference of the association's industrial council at the Hotel Roosevelt.

"No right is more sacred than that of the citizen to protect the assurance of secure, stable, and economic government, by informing himself accurately respecting public legislation and appearing before legislative committees to bring his experience, judgment, and legitimate political influence to bear upon the issue presented," said Mr. Emery. "This is no less a private right than a public duty. To every form of improper, corrupt, or underhand endeavor to wrongly influence public action the manufacturer should present stern and determined resistance.

His Economic Interest.

"The manufacturer's economic interest and responsibility would alone compel his interest in these matters. Under the modern forms of business he represents not himself alone, but millions whose savings and investments are intrusted to his supervision and direction."

Mr. Emery sounded a warning that public expenditures, unless checked, soon will consume one-fifth of the national income. He asserted that business men must assert their right to study and analyze the nature and effect of legislation on industrial operations.

"Fifteen years ago, one-fourteenth of the national income was devoted to the purpose of government," said Mr. Emery. Today one-seventh of our national income is devoted to public expenditure. It reaches the colossal sum of $13,000,000,000 annually, the equivalent of more than $40,000,000 each working day, and has been increasing at the rate of $500,000,000 a year.

Cost of Misdirected Policy.

"It means that, unless checked, public expenditures will, within a brief time, consume one-fifth of the national income. Apart, therefore, from the numerous and critical questions of authority and regulation which our voluminous and intricate statutory enactments present, the cost of misdirected policy presents one of the chief issues of public policy in our day."

BRITISH AVIATRIX FOUND IN DESERT AFTER "SOS" CALL

JASK, Persia, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, noted sportswoman who had been lost since Sunday afternoon on a lone flight to Australia, arrived here at noon today in her own plane.

Mrs. Bruce had been forced down by engine trouble on Mount Murabak, 20 miles from here, and when she did not arrive at the expected time a searching party was sent out to scour the lonely desert. The party picked up a distress call from the woman aviator and found her yesterday afternoon.

Her engines were repaired yesterday and Mrs. Bruce flew into Jask today. Her plane is equipped with an automatic radio transmitter. She is attempting to reach Australia over the general route followed last summer by a countrywoman, Miss Amy Johnson.

INDICTMENT OF 5 IS REPORTED IN JAIL BREAK QUIZ

Bench Warrant Out for Lenhardt's Mother.

True bills naming five defendants on a charge of aiding and abetting William (Blackie) Lenhardt, killer condemned to death, in an attempted escape from the county jail were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday.

Four of the five are prisoners in the jail, in the same tier with Lenhardt. The fifth is Joseph Connor, 62 years old, a guard at the jail, who is charged with having smuggled a revolver, cartridges, saws, and a rope into Lenhardt's cell.

The other four reported named in the true bill are Frank H. Bell, who gave the information to Sergt. Frank Donohue of the coroner's office upon which the escape plot was foiled; Howard Soske, an accomplice who waited in a taxicab outside the jail for Lenhardt, and James McNeill and Walter Wheeler, Negro prisoners, who are charged with having secreted Lenhardt's gun at times.

Warrant for Slayer's Mother.

Mrs. Julia Glovka of Cleveland, mother of Lenhardt, who is alleged to have given the gun to Soske, who delivered it to the guard, Connior, who in turn gave it to Lenhardt, was not named in the true bill. The act charged against Mrs. Glovka occurred in Cleveland, outside the jurisdiction of Illinois courts. However, Judge Philip J. Finnegan has issued a bench warrant for Mrs. Glovka, and it is possible that she may be prosecuted under contempt or other charges.

Assistant State's Attorney Malachi Coghlan, who presented the evidence before the grand jury, said that if the defendants are convicted they may be sentenced to life in prison. The law provides that the penalty for aiding a felon's escape is the same punishment inflicted on the felon himself, with a maximum at life imprisonment. Lenhardt is sentenced to die in the electric chair for murder.

Bell to Testify for State.

Bell will receive a severance, and is expected to testify for the state, Prosecutor Coghlan declared. Bell has confessed to participation in two murders, one that of Christ Patras, and the other that of Alfred Lingle. His story of the Lingle slaying is under investigation.

Ten men and eight women seized in raids in Chicago Heights by detectives from the office of Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Frank J. Synakiewicz of Blue Island. Two defendants, Genaro Roberto and George Montesanti, were held to the grand jury on charges of carrying concealed weapons, their bonds being fixed at $5,000 each.

Three others, Al Saldone, Joseph Stella and Frank La Porte, were ordered sent to the bureau of identification, to determine if they have criminal records.

Second Arrest in Cicero.

Meyer Sachs, 34 years old, 1530 West Austin avenue, who said he was a salesman for the Western Battery company, 5538 West 22d street, was arrested by Investigator Roche's men yesterday as he stood in front of the Western hotel in Cicero. A loaded .38 caliber police revolver was found in his pocket.

LEENEY RELATIVE TESTIFIES WIFE THREATENED HIM

State to Close in Trial Today.

Mrs. Florence Leeney made threats against her husband two weeks before she shot him to death and declared she would like to "plant a lilly on his grave." This testimony was given to the jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court yesterday by Mrs. Joseph Leeney, a sister-in-law. The shooting occurred on New Year's day.

"She [the defendant] told me that her husband was no good," testified the witness. "She said she was going to put a bullet in his face. Later on she said, 'I'd like to plant a lily on his grave'."

State to Close Today.

The state is expected to close its testimony at the session today. Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Ross Lee Laird said that they have not altered their plan to ask for the death penalty for the defendant.

The state spent much of the time proving up the replica of the room in which the murder was committed. The prosecutors have brought into court an exact duplication of the room and some of the furniture, including a couch. It is charged by the prosecution that Leeney was shot while on the couch.

Other Relatives Testify.

An attempt to prove by medical testimony that Leeney was shot while asleep failed. Dr. James M. Leonard was the witness. It was hoped that he would say that one of the bullets pierced the upper lid of the right eye, which would indicate that Leeney was asleep. The physician, however, testified it was the lower lid.

Several other relatives of Leeney testified during the day, as did policemen who arrived first on the scene. One of the policemen said that Mrs. Leeney asserted that she had been bruised by her husband, but he said he failed to observe any bruises.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lawrence Warren, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Michael Pinta, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; William Atwood, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 year in Pontiac reformatory; Frank Wojcich and Anthony Wieczorek, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Pilot, 2 Passengers Killed as Plane Crashes, Burns

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Pilot Fred Ziehm, Montgomery, Ala., and two passengers, Robert Ditzon and John Dimmock of Bryson City, N. C., were killed today when an airplane in which they were flying caught fire and crashed near Bryson City, near Asheville, according to telephone messages received here. The plane caught fire and Ziehm would not use his parachute and made an effort to land the ship, presumably hoping to save the passengers, who were strapped in. The plane was owned by S. B. Lyons of Augusta, Ga., and had been doing flying stunts at various county fairs.

DIVINE LAW IS TRUE CODE, SAYS CARDINAL HAYES

Blesses New School at Notre Dame.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 7.—[Special.] Cardinal Patrick Hayes, head of the premier Roman archdiocese in the world, and Gilbert K. Chesterton, England's celebrated doctor of wonder, did their intellectual daily dew on the rain swept campus of the University of Notre Dame this afternoon.

Mr. Chesterton's contribution to the day's utterances was the snappiest. The cardinal's was the sagest.

In the course of his walk in the rain—a species of locomotion that resembled the gait of a sailor on a slippery deck in heavy weather—Mr. Chesterton rallied to the defense of the Victorians.

"They talk of the Victorian age," he said, "as an age of old maids. The only Victorian I ever saw that looked like an old maid was the poet Swinburne and by that I mean no disrespect to either poets or old maids."

Thereupon "G. K." laughed the hearty laugh that matches his hair.

Cardinal Hayes Suave.

The cardinal archbishop of New York was in his suavest mood, despite the weather. He tucked up his purple-lined robe as he bestrode the platform, and uttered pithy laconisms on the law, for the occasion that brought him hither was the dedication of the university's new building for its college of law, a half million dollar structure in the collegiate Gothic style which the Fathers of the Holy Cross congregation of the Holy Cross have erected without borrowing a dollar, and without the gift of a dollar.

The fathers had asked the cardinal to pause in his journey from New York to the Pacific coast to bless the new building and this afternoon he stepped off the private car of the New York financier and papal marquis, George J. MacDonald, to do it.

"There are," he said in plaintive tones that was assuaged by the twinkle in his eyes, "a lot of law schools in New York, but nobody ever asked me to bless a law school before."

"They may need a blessing; we all need one."

The twinkling man, who wears his sixty-three years as lightly as he wears the robes of his rank, was rather bothering about man-made law when it loses step with what he called "natural law," or God-given law as imparted to man on Sinai and in the Sermon on the Mount.

Then came his contribution to the intellectual calisthenics of the day.

"Any law," he said, "that is in violation of natural law is an attack on law."

At this point Mr. Chesterton, who is here for six weeks of lectures to the students, and who is said to be missing his ale, looked up responsively, and the reporters at the press tables in the beautiful law library whispered one to another, "He means the Volstead law. We must try to get him to expand that."

So, later, we did try to, but you don't trip cardinals with leading questions.

"Did you mean, your eminence," asked one who thought he was beginning adroitly, "that this country is burdened with too many man-made laws?"

"No," the cardinal replied, "I did not mean that, for if the man-made laws are in conformity with natural law, with God's law, the number of man-made laws would make no difference."

A Hint and a Twinkle.

"In fact, your eminence," spoke up another, "you know what your questioner just now was driving at?"

"I think I do," he replied and twinkled from rose hued stockings to rose hued skull cap.

And then he added: "But my views on what our friend was driving at have been freely expressed in New York and, kind as you gentlemen are, I doubt whether the rest of the American people are waiting for them."

And that was all we got out of the cardinal archbishop on Volstead made law.

After that courtly snub we resumed transcribing our notes of the informal and impromptu little speech which the cardinal made in dedication of the new building.

Here are some of the outstanding things he said:

"If we have the right conception of law, it means self-control.

"For law, after all, is only a light to guide us. Penalties are an excrescence of the law. Loyally viewed, truly understood, law is the light. It is what the polar star and the lighthouse are to the mariner—the star to guide him, and the lighthouse to warn him of dangers.

"He is free to ignore them both. He is free to run on the rocks."

"But is that freedom?"

"We are living at a time when some appear to take that view and to call that freedom. But we call it insanity.

"By obeying the law that is the light, man is conserving his living.

"He is living by obeying.

"We don't build the law when we simply make laws. Christ said not only be just to every man, but love him. That is charity. That is the great fundamental of the law.

True Law Is Divine.

"Law in its true mission of polar star to mankind is such a thing that it must proceed from God, and if it does not it is opposed to His will.

"Man makes law only in the sense of penal codes and traffic regulations. The source of fundamental law is Sinai and the Beatitudes. That is the law that persuades the will. Man-made law has to force the will, and it has to do it at the cost of jails and prisons.

"A university student is a privileged student. He has received a talent and we have the right to expect that he is going to use it.

"The most essential thing in America today is a sound public opinion, and the university bred man has failed in his mission and betrayed his training if he does not contribute to the creation of a sound public opinion.

"He must be true to a lofty ideal.

"An ideal is not always arrived at, because you are going to run into the human average all the time. But without an ideal to shoot at we wouldn't get anywhere."

Upon his arrival on the campus the cardinal was greeted by a great concourse of students headed by their capital band, which played lively tunes.

He called the lads "my dearly beloved sons of the student body" and "my dear boys," and told them that when he was a young man what first made him love Notre Dame was the little magazine which a great scholar—Father Hudson—had made literature and which was called the Ave Maria.

Then he gave the boys his blessing, saying: "All remain standing; I do not wish you to kneel."

As he rode away, thousands of voices were lifted in Notre Dame's "Victory song":

Cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame,
Wake up the echoes, cheering her name;
Send a volley, cheers on high;
Shake down the thunder from the sky.

Mr. Chesterton was asked by the reverend president of the university, Father Charles O'Donnell, to speak at the dedication of the law building. Last night he consented. This morning he changed his mind, saying, "No, I won't team it with a cardinal archbishop. I have a sense of proportion."

Received by College Heads.

The hosts of the day in attendance on the cardinal were President O'Donnell, Vice President Mulcaire, Father James Burns, provincial of the United States province of the Congregation of the Holy Cross; Father Thomas Irving, assistant superior general of the congregation, and A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation and president of the lay board of trustees of the university.

The keen regret of the day here was that Prof. Hoynes, founder of the law school and now its dean emeritus, was prevented by infirmities of age—he is 87—from attending the dedication. So was the eminent scholar, Father Hudson.

In honor of his visit classes were dismissed for the afternoon and amid prodigious cheering, it was announced that the Friday after Thanksgiving day would also be made a holiday in remembrance of the visit.

In the evening the cardinal departed for Chicago, resting there a few hours, and then starting on his journey to San Francisco for the diamond jubilee of St. Ignatius college and to Los Angeles for the consecration of St. Vincent's church.

The college of law, founded in 1873, moves into its new home with 145 students and a faculty of 15 professors and lecturers, at the head of whom is Dean Thomas Konop.

Upon the death of Mrs. William P. Breen of Fort Wayne, the school will inherit a quarter of a million dollars, such being the provision of the will of the late banker and lawyer, her husband. The bequest is for the endowment of law professorships.

MAN IN MINNESOTA IS KILLED IN GUN BATTLE WITH LIQUOR RAIDERS

Austin, Minn., Oct. 7.—(AP)—George Holgate, about 50, was shot to death in a gun fight with officers here today after the latter had raided the home of Andy Nelson and seized a small quantity of liquor. Chief of Police Lee Sargent was wounded slightly in the head by a shotgun charge.

Sargent and Deputy Sheriff A. Enochson had entered the house and seized the liquor without resistance and had gone into the back to search further when Holgate barred the door and refused to permit them to enter. Enochson tossed a tear gas bomb into the house and in reply Holgate opened fire with a shotgun.

The officers returned the fire and then forced open the door. They found Holgate dead on the floor with a bullet wound in the chest. Sargent was struck in the head by several shotgun pellets. Nelson, whose home was raided, was reported to be out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mikrut and their nine children, who were taken ill Monday following their evening meal at their home at 502 South Kildare avenue, were reported out of danger last night. Dr. Israel Balkovich, 5106 Archer avenue, the attending physician, diagnosed the case as poisoning, possibly from an insecticide on cabbage of which the family had eaten.

Cheap coffees are pouring into America, but you needn't care

... for you can buy MAXWELL HOUSE at the LOWEST PRICE* in YEARS

A PRODUCT OF GENERAL FOODS CORPORATION

THE coffee plantations of South America have suffered from over-production; the coffee crop has backed up until prices broke.

Now, coffees of all grades are at the lowest prices in years, and new low-priced brands, strange to you, are crowding onto the market.

You have no way of recognizing these coffees—until the sorry moment when you taste them.

They appear to the eye much the same as any fine blended coffee, and their prices are temptingly low.

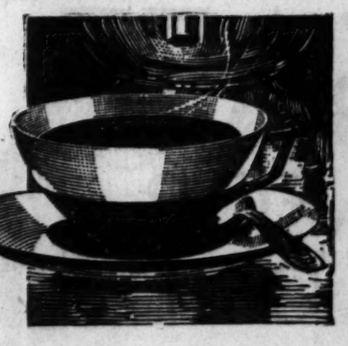
But they dismally lack that rich mellowness of flavor, that honey-like smoothness, that cordial and satisfying authority, which have made fine coffee—Maxwell House Coffee—America's favorite brew.

Now of all times you will find it wise to insist upon Maxwell House.

It will enable you to avoid coffee disappointment—and it has never been so good as now.

It is waiting for you in the friendly blue tin at your grocer's, and because of the general coffee situation, priced at the lowest point in years.

Both purse and palate recommend Maxwell House now more than ever before.



"GOOD to the LAST DROP"

*Since July 1, 1929, Maxwell House Coffee has been reduced 11¢ a pound to the wholesale trade. This reduction parallels the reduction of high grade green coffee prices

LET US ALONE, FOE OF CUBAN CHIEF ASKS U. S.

Opposition Leader Tells His Side of Story.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 7.—Events in the Cuban political crisis moved rapidly today. While President Gerardo Machado acted to strengthen his hold on the republic, Dr. Cosme de la Torriente, opposition leader, appealed to the United States public "to take no part in Cuba's political crisis, and to maintain a strict neutrality while the republic works out its own problems."

"All we ask of the United States," said Dr. Torriente, one time president of the league of nations, and former ambassador to Washington, "is that the Americans know all that is going on in Cuba. I do not think that the United States should interfere in any way or mix with President Machado."

Police Fire into Air.

Meanwhile there was a minor disturbance in front of the offices of the opposition weekly La Semana, when police, acting on orders from President Machado, suppressed the publication and seized copies already in the hands of newsboys. One Nebro boy was reported to have been killed and three wounded, but the police denied any one was dead. According to the best information, two were slightly wounded by clubs, the police only firing into the air.

The fact that La Semana published a picture of a student killed last week during the rioting, along with a biting editorial, was the reason for the suppression of the magazine. No arrests were made, but police were stationed in front of the magazine office this afternoon, and this added to the general tenseness of the situation.

All in all, today has been the most active, both on the part of the government and the opposition, since the riots last week, which resulted in the closing down of the university until after the election scheduled for Nov. 1.

Will Display Air Strength.

Reports in military circles, as yet unconfirmed by the president's office, told of a plan to stage an air spectacle at Columbia flying field, in which pursuit planes and bombers will simulate actual warfare. Dummy bombs will show the public how the government could put down a revolution. Cuba's airplane strength is eight fighting planes and pursuit ships carrying four machine guns each. An aerial fighting exhibition has never been staged here, and it is causing considerable excitement in Nationalist or opposition circles.

"They cannot scare us by such demonstrations," Dr. Torriente said this afternoon. "But it seems unusual to do such a thing at the present time of unrest. But then again, President Machado wants a revolution."

Dr. Torriente, who fought side by side with President Roosevelt at the battle of Santiago, talked freely of the possibility of a revolution, but said that the Nationalists, of which he is one of the leaders, did not want bloodshed, and if there was a revolution, "it would be brought about by the Machado government."

Fight "Dictator" Machado.

The Nationalist group is fighting the dictatorship of Machado and wants the elections postponed until next May, giving them a chance to organize fully and obtain constitutional amendments permitting them to put candidates in the field. The present conditions, with President Machado granted the power to suspend constitutional guarantees, and which he exercised for the first time since it was voted by closing down the newspaper La Semena, do not permit the Nationalists any part in the elections, they claim.

Dr. Torriente, after the interview, handed me a copy of the statement he made a few weeks ago. This statement was not forwarded to the United States at that time. In it he says:

"We are again confronted by the fact that mistakes have been made in the reports of another ambassador, Harry Guggenheim, who, although his intentions are good, knows little of our affairs, nevertheless announced to his nation some weeks ago that public affairs in Cuba had improved and that it was the intention of President Machado to reëstablish public liberty when, in fact, he is steadily strangling it. This report may lead to an error by the American people and the government at Washington.

Threat of Rebellion.

"If the Americans are not informed of what is happening in Cuba, they may give their moral support to the ruling powers and permit them to do away on Nov. 1 with those few liberties which are left to us by securing the reëlection of the congress and taking over for many years the public powers of the Cuban states.

"When this happens, and at some future day the people of Cuba become desperate, they will take the only step left to them in the future, that of rebelling against those who are oppressing them.

"Cuba is suffering heavily today because of two crises—political and economic. In order to take care of the latter evil, it must remedy the first."

Tomorrow afternoon loyal Machado adherents plan a big demonstration in front of the palace.

GEN. CHIANG CRUSHES REBELS AND DEMANDS NEW RULE FOR CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7.—China has decided to scrap her Russian inspired, Russian modeled form of government. This important information was promulgated officially today in a telegram sent to Nanking by President Chiang Kai-shek, who urged the government to immediately call the fourth national congress of the Kuomintang into session for the purpose of adopting a resolution fixing the date for the promulgation of a permanent constitution.

Gen. Chiang, whose Nationalist troops occupied Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's rebel stronghold of Chengchow in Honan last night, immediately wired the Nationalist capital declaring that the successful conclusion of the present civil war makes it necessary that the Chinese people prepare for the inauguration of a constitutional form of government.

"The suppression of the rebellion constitutes a prelude to permanent peace," Gen. Chiang said, "and the establishing of a foundation of real national unification. Since the government has received the support of the Chinese people, it is necessary to give realization to the wishes and aspirations of the peoples."

Gen. Chiang added that the step he asks the government to take is according to the advice of the late Sun Yat-sen.

He reviewed the recent political developments since the inauguration of the Nationalist government at Nanking and said that the presence of the feudalistic military groups made it impossible for the calling of a national convention. He added that the present warfare had effectively eliminated the feudal militarists, crooked politicians, rebels, and outcasts."

U. S. Warship Fired On.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The U. S. gunboat Panay was fired upon early today by Chinese on the right bank of the Yangtze river, two miles below Havoc Rocks beacon. A message to the navy from Admiral Charles B. McVay Jr., commander of the Asiatic fleet, said the craft silenced the fire with rounds from three inch guns and machine guns.

BRAZIL RUSHES FORCES TO HALT MARCH ON RIO

This vanguard is being rapidly followed by 5,000 insurgents under Col. Souza Filho. The second body yesterday crossed the state of Santa Catherina.

Claims Victory in North.

The communique also said the triumph of the revolutionaries in the rubber producing state of Para, in the north, had been confirmed. It added that in the northern state of Piauhy all the federal troops had joined the revolution under the vice president of the state, Dr. Arca Junion.

Mention was made in the communique of a rebel destroyer said to be pursuing a ship aboard which the state presidents of Rio Grande do Norte and of Pernambuco had attempted to flee to Rio de Janeiro. If this is true, part of the Brazilian navy in the north is cooperating with the insurgents.

The state of Parana is reported to have put 26,000 men into the field for the revolutionary army. They were equipped with war material, including artillery, captured from the federals at Curityba, capital of the state.

Rebels Shoot Down Airplane.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Dispatches to La Nacion today said that a federal airplane dropping bombs upon the city of Bello Horizonte, capital of the insurgent state of Minas Geraes, had been shot down by the rebels. Its two occupants were taken prisoner.

A message, signed by Christiano Machado, rebel "secretary of the interior," said that another federal army plane flying over Bello Horizonte had landed, and its aviators had joined the insurgents. Their names were Casimiro Montenegro and Antonio Lemos Cunha.

Communications Closed Down.

The tightening of control on all means of communication by both federal and revolutionary authorities in Brazil resulted today in scant reports of the trouble reaching Buenos Aires from either source.

For the first few days after the rebellion was opened in Rio Grande do Sul news poured through Uruguayan border points and from there was sent to the outside world. Now the revolutionists have imposed a censorship which is even more strict than that operating in Rio de Janeiro, including all wire, wireless, railway, and even postal communications. Newspapers in all affected areas are prohibited from publishing reports of armed activities on either side.

Since all railway rolling stock has been utilized by the rebels in their advance toward the northern capital, railway travel between Brazilian and Uruguayan points has been paralyzed.

American Property Attacked.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—News of an attack upon American property in Brazil came today coincidentally with a statement from Ambassador S. Gurgel do Amarel of that country saying his government would resort to bloodshed to quell the revolution "when bloodshed was inevitable."

His statement came shortly before the state department received word from S. Walter Washington, American chargé d'affaires at Rio de Janeiro, that the American owned street car service and elevator service between the upper and lower levels of the city of Bahia had been attacked Saturday and Sunday. State police were understood to have stood off the attack. The cablegram added that the service would be resumed tomorrow.

JAILED AS DRESS SHOP ROBBER.

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS HOTEL
WORLD'S GREATEST SPA

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS—
BROUGHT TO YOUR HOME
IN A BOTTLE

DOWN in the Cumberland foothills in Indiana lies a pleasant valley that the Indians and the early settlers knew as the home of health.

Here natural health-giving waters bubble up from unknown depths in the midst of a pleasant glade. Here the pioneers came, and here they built the first French Lick Springs Hotel. A rude tavern it was in those early days, yet it was the rendezvous of thousands who came to drink and to carry away the natural mineral waters of the springs that surrounded it.

Today a huge 800-room fireproof hotel stands on the site of that first inn—mecca of health-seekers from every corner of the world—a concrete testimonial to the efficacy of Pluto Water. By train and motor car they come, jaded, tired, surfeited. Here in this pleasant valley they drink those same waters—they play—they leave with the glow of new-found health in their faces.

The fame of French Lick Springs has spread far and wide—it has become even better known than those ancient baths and spas of Europe . . . Wiesbaden, Aix, Carlsbad, Vichy.

Not everyone, however, can find the time, nor perhaps the means, to visit French Lick Springs and enjoy the health benefits that these marvelous natural mineral waters contain.

But thanks to a nation-wide distribution of bottled Pluto Water from French Lick Springs, you can enjoy these same health benefits without going farther than your own corner drugstore!

Pluto Water contains all the essential mineral properties of the famous natural springs at French Lick. It is in effect French Lick Springs in a bottle.

For more than fifty years doctors have prescribed Pluto Water. Not only for constipation, but in the treatment of other, more serious, diseases that have their beginning in the absorption of poisonous waste matters from the intestines.

Both European and American doctors are outspoken in their praise of a saline water laxative. Arthur F. Hurtz, M.D., F.R.C.T., Guy's Hospital, London, says:

> "A saline physic does not disturb the digestion like many vegetable purgatives, such as cascara sagrada and castor oil." A prominent American doctor says, "A saline mineral water laxative, such as Pluto Water, dissolves accumulated wastes and gently but surely flushes them out of the system. In my practice I prescribe Pluto Water in preference to irritating types of laxatives."

Thousands of other doctors agree with these authorities about the superiority of a saline water laxative. They all say the same thing: "Salines produce prompt elimination without griping"; "Salines are harmless"; "Saline laxatives stimulate natural bowel action"; "Salines are the best laxatives that can be used".

What better proof that Pluto Water—America's saline water—is the laxative for you?

Go to your druggist today for your supply of Pluto Water!

Keep a bottle or two on the bathroom shelf for emergencies—make Pluto your constant traveling companion—take it each morning upon arising, diluted in plain water, for bad breath, stomach disorders, irregularity. Two sizes—20c and 45c, at all drugstores and fountains.

PLEA FOR BEER PRESENTED TO LABOR SESSION

Another Resolution Asks Dry Repeal.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Change in the prohibition policy of the American Federation of Labor from modification to repeal was requested today in resolutions submitted to the annual convention. The federation now favors modification to permit the use of beer of 2.75 per cent alcohol content by weight.

Support of the movement to obtain repeal of the 18th amendment and control of liquor dispensing by states was asked in a resolution submitted by Robert Hesketh of Cincinnati, delegate of the Hotel and Restaurant Employés and Beverage Dispensers' International alliance.

Solitary Sumptuary Statute.

The amendment was referred to as "this solitary sumptuary statute, the intrusion of which into constitutional realms has so severely hurt our country."

The resolution was referred to a committee headed by Matthew Woll, third vice president of the federation.

A resolution which delegates predicted would produce much discussion in the convention was one submitted by Thomas A. Slavens of Newport, R. I., asking for the federation's support of unemployment insurance legislation.

Help to Organize Workers.

Help in organizing workers in the garment manufacturing centers was asked by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union. A resolution to that effect said it might be necessary to resort to strikes to obtain "humane and decent living conditions" in those centers.

Other resolutions presented:

Favored extension of the age limit for applicants for employment in federal government service.

Protested against the labor policy of chain stores.

Correct Patent Abuses.

Urged the federation to call for the establishment of a bureau for study of the effect of chemical compounds on the health of workers.

Salt Lake City, Utah, through its state federation president, M. I. Thompson, launched a campaign today to bring the 1931 convention to that city. Other cities which extended invitations were San Francisco and Philadelphia.

Gary Police Investigate 2 Bombs; See Vice War

Gary police last night were investigating a double bombing which damaged four Gary hotels and caused damage of $25,000 early yesterday. The bombs were hurled a few minutes apart at the Wabash and Liberty inns, alleged disorderly houses. Both inns and the Torres hotel and People's inn nearby were damaged. Detectives believed the blasts were part of a war among vice interest rivals.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Hearings by the senatorial campaign expenditures investigation committee prior to the November election will be confined to two or three states, Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.] announced following a special meeting of the committee today.

"We have definitely decided to postpone until after the election the investigations in Illinois, Massachusetts, West Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware," Senator Nye said.

He added that the committee will resume its investigation of the Norris primary in Nebraska about Oct. 25, and possibly will enter Tennessee and North Carolina.

The Story of An Automobile Insurance Policy

Nothing which concerns the use and ownership of an automobile is more important than proper insurance protection.

Years ago the legal department of the Chicago Motor Club drafted an automobile insurance policy, the kind of a policy we thought would properly protect our members. It was free from all technicalities—a valued form policy (which means that in case of a total loss, the insurance company must pay the face value of the policy). Accessories were insured against theft without any additional premium charge. No short rate would apply in case our member for some reason should want to cancel his policy.

Further, we provided that our members should participate in the profits of the insurance carrier. We believed our member was a preferred risk, and we tried to get some responsible insurance company to write that policy.

They said it could not be done.....

Consequently, sixteen years ago we organized our own company, the "Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club." We have written that same policy ever since.

Today the "exchange" is carrying insurance on more motor vehicles in this territory than any other insurance company. The insurance department has prospered. It has accumulated assets in excess of an entire year's income. The members have profited. Not only have they enjoyed a good insurance service at a minimum cost, but each and every year they have received a cash dividend of 20% or more on their insurance premiums. During the year 1929 the cash savings returned to subscribers amounted to $711,332.11.

This insurance service is available only to members of the club. If you are not a member, join and take advantage of this service.

In addition to insurance service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

THE COURTS AND CONTEMPT.

Well considered proposals for limiting injunction and contempt procedure in the courts will have the support of THE TRIBUNE and every citizen who has given the subject fair minded attention. It must be conceded by any one who respects civil guaranties that this procedure has been expanded to an extent subversive of civil rights and injurious in the long run to the proper prestige of the courts themselves. The demand for a check upon an inordinate expansion of the summary power of courts is by no means confined to the radicals and agitators who have been checked by it. It comes also from intelligent conservatism, which realizes that an unrestrained or inadequately restrained power in any agency of government whatsoever is not consistent with American principles and not conducive to the security of our institutions.

Several proposals for limiting the scope of the injunction and contempt process have appeared, but they are unsound and shortsighted. They would restrict the power of the court to compel respect for its lawful mandate and its ability to protect lawful rights and interests from irreparable injuries. It is the tendency of the courts to extend the judicial definition of contempt so as to prevent the criticism and protest to which all agencies of government are lawfully and wisely subject, in our American system of ordered liberty, which needs to be clearly and decisively checked. It is perversion of the process by which such a guaranty as trial by jury is evaded that calls for correction.

On the other hand, no legislation which, in the guise of restraining inordinate and oppressive extension of injunction and contempt procedure, strikes at the power of the court to defend the individual and the community from such an evil as racketeering should be accepted by congress or any legislature. Injunction and contempt proceedings in labor disputes are delicate matters, arousing strong feeling in both parties to the dispute. Some judges have overextended the limits of legitimate action and, although these instances have been fewer of late years than formerly, they have given to labor's demand for restriction a good deal of plausibility. But they should not obscure the fact that a legitimate field for judicial action exists and that injunction and contempt, within well considered limits, are necessary to the proper functioning of the courts and the proper protection of individual rights and community welfare.

MAKING CRIME, NOT MORALS.

Of the 35,849 criminal cases pending June 30 in the federal courts, 22,671 are based on the federal dry law. The result of this is a congestion in the federal courts which of course seriously retards proceedings in the prosecution of serious crimes and in civil litigation. The chief justice recommends legislation to remove certain existing limitations upon appointment to the District bench, provision for five new judges, and that the attorney general make a survey of the subject of the best means to promote economical, efficient administration.

More important than the administrative problems created by liquor law prosecutions is the fact that after a decade of the prohibition experiment there are twice as many cases charging offenses against the dry law as offenses against all the other federal criminal statutes. Prohibition has increased criminality, not, as the prohibitionists predicted, decreased it. As a creator of public morality the dry law is a notorious failure. No wonder the revolt of good men and women all over the nation spreads and grows stronger day by day.

BALKAN POLITICS.

The betrothal of the king of Bulgaria to the daughter of the Italian king is a reminder that dynastic politics is not yet obsolete in Europe. We are in the twilight of monarchism and the powers of surviving kings have faded to shadowy forms, yet enough remains to make it worth while to express the alliances of practical international politics through intermarriage. The union of the Bulgarian king with a royal princess of Italy does somewhat more than symbolize the relations of Bulgaria and Italy. It might be called a marriage of Bulgaria with the Italian army, and both Jugo-Slavia and Greece, though hardly surprised, cannot be pleased at the union. The French will let off no fireworks to celebrate the nuptials, and every chancellery in Europe has underlined it as a factor, not new in the European situation, but one which takes on a greater permanence and a more assured significance.

Jugo-Slavia especially has reason for anxiety in the strengthening of the ties which have been forming between Bulgaria, her eastward neighbor and unforgetting foe, and her powerful and ambitious neighbor on the west. France must view the development as giving a renewed validity to her policy in the Balkans. Indeed, the explosiveness of the Balkan temperament and the ruthlessness of its intrigue were sufficiently advertised in 1914 and before to give concern to every government desirous of peace and stability in Europe.

Out of the movement toward new balance of power there rises the bloody ghost of that former balance which offered no security for peace, but on the contrary an assurance of wider and more serious involvements than the squabbles and rivalries of the petty and backward Balkan states ought to be permitted to create. There is no greater irony in the European complex than that the fears and ambitions which entangled Germany, Austria, Russia, France, and, despite their reluctance, England and even finally the United States in the rustic irresponsibilities of the most backward peoples of Europe, brought western civilization to the brink of ruin and threaten it still.

AN OPPORTUNITY OVERLOOKED BY THE RAILROADS.

It is somewhat astonishing that the managements of the railroads, aware as they are of the growing competition of water carriers, are not showing a greater interest in electrification. Electrification promises in a measure, at least, to give the railroads an advantage over ship and barge lines which can scarcely be overcome.

Ships have to carry their own fuel, whether coal or oil. So do steam locomotives, which carry surplus water for their boilers as well. That additional weight must be dragged along with the pay load. It is costly to haul, and the space occupied by fuel yields no income. The electrically operated locomotive requires no tender loaded down with fuel and water and to that extent its pay load is increased. The coal which supplies it with energy is burned in the most efficient of steam power plants instead of in the least efficient, the steam locomotive. Less coal is required, and the coal that is used undergoes a minimum of costly handling.

The railroads can never expect to defeat the competition of successful water carriers with the prevailing types of steam locomotive. The electric locomotive promises more economical operation and thereby a means of gaining an advantage over the ship and barge lines.

SOCIAL CHANGE IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Underlying presidential turnovers in South America and the brief fireworks of political revolution are slow changes and a social revolution in important parts of the southern continent of far profounder import. Upon the land of Argentina agrarian immigrants from Europe have been settling for years, to build there a stable mass of independent owners. In Peru for several years farms in the hinterland of Del Norte have been turned back to the Indian, and the new owners have been trained in modern agricultural methods. Elsewhere in South America, as in Mexico, a slow but very real development and distribution of the natural wealth and resources has gone on. From a medieval state of overlordship and concentrated ownership of land a democratic and agrarian system is appearing. It has the magnitude of social revolution in some cases, and is far more important on the southern continent than the various enforced changes in the presidencies.

This social revolution will bring slowly with it a greater understanding between the two Americas. With the decline of South American landed aristocracies, trained in Europe to contempt for business and for the business man's ideals, a new people and a new power will come south of the Rio Grande down to the southern cape. Farmers and workers and men of business will increase in power and education and in numbers and find credit and community of interest in the United States. From an old world institutional framework and a medieval psychology and sense of values South America is moving toward a similarity in temper with the United States. The change and democratization will be of mutual value.

Exchanges between the continents, from students to bank credits, from cultural values to sugar, coffee and tobacco, will take place more freely. The social growth and the prosperity in South America of small farmers, workers, tradesmen, and men of business will mean much to both Americas.

Editorial of the Day

STILL FAIR GAME.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The Dunkirk [N. Y.] High school football team got a terrific drubbing in the fall of 1928, an event of interest nowhere perhaps except in Dunkirk and the home town of the squad which administered the defeat. But the fraternity of sporting writers everywhere should be interested in the result of a lawsuit which grew out of the game and which has just been decided by the New York Court of Appeals.

A local newspaper, stung by the football team's unsuccessful year, attacked it in such words as "Coaching System Condemned for Terrific Lacing Given Dunkirk High Football Team — Squad Has Abundance of Latent Ability Which Has Not Been Brought Out by Proper Drilling—Lack Fundamental Knowledge of Game," etc. It was alleged that "the majority of plays are so ancient that an up-and-coming coaching staff may never have heard of them" and that possibility of victory lay only in the hope that the opposition "will not be on its guard against antiques." Whereupon the coach brought action, claiming that he had been slandered.

The learned court, after saying that it is impossible "to disassociate a sport contest of any magnitude from public criticism, hero worship and excuses for defeat" and referring to "the keen enjoyment and satisfaction which the spectators take in shouting advice and criticism to the players," thus delivers itself:

> When the plaintiff assumed the position of physical instructor and coach to the football team of the Dunkirk High school he was no exception to the habits and customs which have become a part of the game. His work and the play of his team were matters of keen public interest; victories would be heralded, defeats condemned. The same enthusiasm which welcomed the homecoming of the Roman conqueror now finds expression in the plaudits of the bleachers and the grand stand. The conquered now appear, not in chains, but what may be far worse, amidst ridicule and derision—the boohoos of the crowd.

Having cleared away the underbrush with this lyric outburst, the court concludes that the Dunkirk High school team and its coach were therefore "the subjects of fair comment and criticism in the public press and in sporting circles, and that no matter how severe, caustic or ridiculous this criticism was, it afforded no occasion for an action of libel or slander" unless it was written maliciously.

One shudders to think what would have happened had the court decided otherwise, opening the way for every butter fingered ball player, every pugilistic palooka, every bum football player, to have the law on sporting writers for calling attention to their deficiencies in the prevailing vernacular.

LITTLE TYPHOID IN CITIES.

So far as the larger cities are concerned typhoid has become a negligible disease. It is also declining in the rural districts and in the towns and cities, though the exact facts as to these are not so easy to get at. The indications are that within another ten years we will practically be free from this menace, and the arguments for pure water, pasteurized milk, clean foods, and fly eradication will need to find other foundations.

The American Medical association has recently made its eighteenth annual report on the prevalence of typhoid in the large cities of the United States. This report shows an average typhoid rate of 1.56. In the group of 81 large cities, in which live thirty-four million people, there were only 531 deaths due to typhoid. Chicago alone had more than three times that number in 1891, when it had scarcely one million inhabitants.

Of the 81 large cities five had no typhoid deaths. If Proctor Knott could come back to life he could remake his Zenith City speech for Duluth lead all the rest. Twenty-eight cities had rates of less than one. Such large cities as Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit—all in the over a million class—were in this list. In 53 the rate was less than two. New York and Boston were found in this larger list. In 20 the rate was over two, but less than five. In 7 it was over five, but less than ten. Only one city—Nashville—had a rate that was higher than ten, and theirs was only 12.8. This looks bad for Nashville, but the picture has another side. The record shows that in 1906-'10 Nashville had a typhoid death rate of 61, and as late as 1911-'15 it was 40. To improve from 61 to 13 in twenty-three years is something to brag about.

This record was begun in 1906. At that time 74 cities were covered. Two had rates of over five and less than ten, and 72 scored more than ten. In that first five year period—1906-'11—only 7 cities had typhoid rates lower than Nashville had in 1929. These were Cambridge, Worcester, Bridgeport, Camden, Yonkers, Jersey City, and San Diego. Most of these were in the east, in which section the effort to control typhoid was begun earlier than elsewhere in the United States.

A full generation ago nearly all the elderly people had had typhoid and were immune to the disease. There must have been hundreds of thousands of typhoid carriers. Ten years from now persons under forty who are immune because of having had the disease will be few in numbers. On the other hand, there will be very few typhoid carriers. In that day an army can be called together without causing typhoid to run riot as it did in the American army as late as 1898.

DIET FOR FOUR YEAR OLD.

Mrs. N. M. writes:

1. My child is just 4 years old. Does she still need grade A milk?
2. Quite often she gets a fever for three or four days. What is the trouble with her?

REPLY.

1. She does. Children need one pint to one quart of milk daily. They need it especially in the years of rapid growth.
2. My guess is that these are attacks of acidosis. If so, feed more vegetables and fruit, more buttermilk, skim milk, cheese, and less butter, cream, fat, meat, cereals, sugars, sweets, and bread.

TREATING TRENCH MOUTH.

P. J. S. writes: Could you tell me if there is a cure for trench mouth? I have used Fowler's solution on the recommendation of my dentist, and have been treated with carbon arc light, but both give only temporary relief.

REPLY:

The Hardgrove treatment consists in applying a watery solution of chromic acid, followed immediately by peroxide of hydrogen. A home treatment should not make use of a solution of chromic acid that is stronger than 10 per cent. To have a dentist apply a stronger solution is better.

Many cases are cured by the use of perborate of soda in saturated solution and also in a paste.

NOTES MAY BE RENEWED.

Whiting, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can notes on a mortgage [under a sealed contract] be renewed, if impossible to meet payments? 2. Are all banks in the state of Indiana under state supervision, and are they compelled to be? M. T.

1. Yes, if both parties so agree. The creditor is not obliged to permit renewal.
2. Write to your state auditor, Indianapolis. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DANGEROUS FOR BALL PARK.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—The 800 block of Claremont avenue has been turned into a public ball park, judging from the number of small boys who are out there every day playing ball and raising the roof with their noise. There are playgrounds in the neighborhood. Why can't they go there? It would be far less dangerous for them and a boon to the residents of this block. NEIGHBOR.

The captain covering the 23d district detailed some officers to investigate and they report that aside from small boys playing ball on the street occasionally there was nothing serious to complain of. The officers further report that after dispersing several small boys who were playing ball in the street they instructed them to play ball at the various playgrounds in the district and not to play in the streets. The officers further report that upon succeeding visits to this location no ball playing was observed nor did they observe or hear of any noise nuisance.

Station complaint entry has been made of this complaint and all members of this command have been instructed to give this their attention and should nuisances occur to take the necessary action.

JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Commissioner of Police.

YOU PAY.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I rented an entire house for living and rooming house purposes at a stipulated monthly rental. Who has to pay the city water bill, the owner or myself? Nothing is said in the lease regarding this feature. R. D.

If the matter is not covered even by implication, we would say that the payment was up to you.

HAIL TO THE COW—

Today, friends and fellow citizens, we celebrate Mrs. O'Leary's cow. This famous animal, now a patron saint of our beloved city, fifty-nine years ago kicked over a kerosene lamp and started a conflagration that burned up about everything in Chicago of that day except the river and the southeast corner of the lake. Some might rashly say that a cow who caused as much damage as that should not be highly honored. But remember that the Chicago that was burned away in the Great Fire was old and dingy, and that when it had been wiped off the map a new, modern city was built far better than the old had been. Mrs. O'Leary's cow was no ordinary cow. She was a cow of vision, a cow who, while she gently chewed her cud, could envisage a greater, a more beautiful Chicago than the one she knew. But she realized that humans are stolid, that they are creatures of habit, that they accept the conditions around them as things that cannot be changed.

"Our buildings are small and dingy and cramped," said the people in the hearing of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, "but here they are and there's nothing to be done about it."

Mrs. O'Leary's cow stood this as long as she could. Then she saw her opportunity. She reached around with her left hind leg and took a vicious kick at a kerosene lamp which, with great dexterity, she hurled into a pile of hay. Nobody thanked her at the time, but today she is hailed as a great public benefactor. It is too bad that Mrs. O'Leary's cow didn't survive the fire. With a vision such as hers, with such splendid aim and kicking ability she might have done much more for our city. She might have kicked away the shackles of conservatism and narrowness and impelled the citizens to dig a subway. She might have given some leading citizen the same sort of a swift kick that she gave the kerosene lamp and led him to say that Chicago should not remain a medieval city with a moat around it and drawbridges that had to be hauled up every time some old sand barge came snooping along. All honor to Mrs. O'Leary's cow! She did her damnedest!

CHICAGO.

In this Chicago let us build our world
Of deed and dream; here let there be unfurled
Let earnest years evolve a master plan
Whereby this wondrous age may have a voice,
Wherein all generations shall rejoice.
Our destined task is not to reckon gold,
To build wide marts where goods are bought and sold.
Let Beauty bloom! Let Art have here her way
Amid these towers and battlements of gray.
For poet-prophets let large gifts be made.
And let there grow fair temples unto God
Who raised our stately portals from the sod.
Then shall our town adorn the honored line
Of Greece and Rome—a citadel and shrine.

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

IF YOU'VE LOST money betting on a race horse you can get a rebate on your income tax. But you have to get the name of the horse's great-grandmother and give the number of teeth the race horse had and how many hairs it had in its tail and the names of the people in the grand stand on the day you made the bet and a letter from the horse saying he saw you put up the money and that the race was on the square. So what's the use?

Doggone It, We've Got to Admit It.

R. H. L.: I was about to write you that your baseball story, à la Cal, was the funniest thing you have written, when along comes Cal with his own baseball story, and it's twice as comical as yours. Ain't you ashamed? CMC.

WELL, FOLKS, HERE WE ARE IN CONGRESS.

They seem determined to put the mike in congress and make us listen to the proceedings. Of course, one can tune 'em out like they do the lady sopranos, if they don't happen to care especially about lady sopranos, but suppose you got hold of Senator Heflin making a speech and listened to him, say maybe a dozen words before you knew who it was talking. It would simply sour the milk and make the baby sick and make Uncle Albert fall over a chair and break his leg in his efforts to escape and start the dog to howling and mess things up generally. Oh, do not put the radio in congress. Have a heart! Have a heart!

LYRIC.

Drink with me to the morning
Whose flying feet have passed;
Drink with me for an evening,
Though the pleasure will not last.

Yonder the sun goes home;
Now all the sky is red,
As it will be again
Long after we are dead.

Sweet, turn your lips to mine,
Of all life's moments sure,
Of all the sorry and sweet
Only the sweet endure.

THERE'S so much crime news nowadays that it looks as though the front page will have to be increased three or four times in size so as to print it all. And we remember the far off days when we were a Temperance Cadet and the speakers told us that if the mean old saloon was voted out there would never be any more crime. We are beginning to think that somebody was kidding us.

AND NOW after all the lamenting over the long dry spell we have nothing but rain, rain, and more rain. There should be some sort of a national commission appointed that would equalize things better. R. H. L.

STIRRING UP THE NEST

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 8, 1914.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's Rialto — consisting of that section of Randolph street between Clark and Dearborn streets—was thronged at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon when gunmen staged the city's wildest downtown shooting affray. In less than a minute the street was deserted and five wounded men lay stretched on the sidewalk, while a sixth nursed a bullet wound in a store. The wounded are Christian P. (Barney) Bertsche, convicted confidence man, ex-convict and police fixer; Detective Sergeant "Bill" Egan, formerly in charge of the "spook hunters"; Detective Sergeant James Monaghan, Egan's partner; Nathan Spira, convicted firebug and reputed brains of the "arson trust"; Ted Owens, a barber, and Joseph Schmidt, a clerk. It is said a hired gunman named Kelly was waiting to "get" Bertsche, as the latter and Spira came along the street. Just then Egan and Monaghan came up. There were words between Bertsche and Egan, and they grappled. Then Kelly is said to have shot Bertsche. Immediately a general shooting affray was on, with bullets flying every way, the details of which are hazy to the police and state's attorney's office. There has been bad blood for years between Bertsche and Egan.

LONDON.—Official dispatches given out in Paris claim that the allied left has retaken the ground lost between Chaulnes and Roye. This has been the center of the most desperate struggle along the whole battle line for the last week. The statements also said that the French had advanced at several points in the center of the line.

LONDON.—The bombardment of Antwerp was begun by the Germans today.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—All is in readiness for the opening game tomorrow of the world's series between the Boston Braves and the Philadelphia Athletics, which promises to be the most fiercely fought contest in baseball history.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 8, 1900.

CHICAGO.—Newsboys with hoodlum instincts threw mud on Gov. Roosevelt and greeted him with insulting language as he was departing from Trinity Dutch Reformed church, Marshfield avenue, near Polk street, where he had been attending services.

CHICAGO.—State's Attorney Deneen and other prosecuting agencies of the county laid hands on what they regard as one of the startling crimes of the country's history. Charges of conspiracy, back of which are insinuations of murder, are lodged against three men, two of whom, Dr. August M. Unger, physician and surgeon, and Frank H. Smiley, an operative of the Mooney & Boland detective agency, are under arrest. The other accused man is F. Wayland Brown, assistant manager of the detective agency, who it is expected will be arrested today. The case grows out of the death of Miss Marie Defenbach, who died suddenly under mysterious circumstances last August after she had taken out $12,000 life insurance. It is charged the trio conspired to collect the insurance.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 8, 1880.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—John C. New, chairman of the Republican state committee, declared there are now in this city and on their way here more than 1,000 shoulder hitters, plug-uglies, ballot box stuffers, and election manipulators who have been sent here from New York and other eastern cities to aid the Democracy in stealing the election on Oct. 12. He says the men are noted for their expertness in organizing gangs of repeaters.

CHICAGO.—Thomas Hughes, M. P., well known to Americans as a writer of charming books, and especially well to Chicago because of his work in securing them a public library after the great fire, is a visitor in the city. After the fire he evolved a plan in London of having distinguished English writers, notably Disraeli, Carlyle, W. E. Forster, and the duke of Argyll, make gifts of their works, and the result was that nearly 2,000 volumes of the best works of English living authors of the time were donated. These formed the nucleus of the Chicago public library.

PERILOUS DIRIGIBLES.

Elmhurst, Ill., Oct. 6.—It is apparent to a layman that a huge balloon filled with the highly inflammable and explosive hydrogen gas and propelled by gasoline motors, which create intense heat and often emit sparks, is bound to meet with misfortune. I may be the numskull, but I cannot conceive of a lighter than air craft built strongly enough to withstand even moderate atmospheric disturbances, much less the adverse wind currents found on air lanes now traveled by heavier than air craft. Any sailor will tell you that ocean-going vessels warp and bend from stem to stern in heavy seas. These ships are built of steel. Now imagine an airship light enough to float and yet strong enough to safely ride out atmospheric disturbances.

It is my opinion that the government of the United States will profit by heeding this recent experience of Great Britain with dirigibles, and not spend another cent on the construction or maintenance of such craft.

CHARLEY STOOKEY.

HOW CAN HE BUY?

Chicago, Sept. 28.—One would think that a man of Mr. Lamont's ability would have more intelligence than to say that the people should buy their normal needs to bring back prosperity. How can a man employed part time, a man who has not worked at all for months, a man who works on and off, buy his normal needs? How can thousands of others buy the normal human needs when their salaries are so low that they can barely eke out their existence in the slums? If any one institution can bring back prosperity, it is business itself. By hiring instead of laying off business can again put money into normal circulation, because those not working have no great amount of money to circulate and hoard the little they have. Unemployment leads to more unemployment.

The modern business world depends on the rapid circulation of money, which is impossible as long as people are unemployed, thus devoid of money to circulate, as long as our financial institutions remain unstable, as long as business becomes more dominant as time goes on. JOHN SCHREIBER.

BLAMING HOOVER.

Attica, Ind., Oct. 1.—When the accredited national leaders of the Democratic party undertake to make political capital out of the present widespread unemployment and present depression by blaming it on to President Hoover and the Republican party, they are patently insulting the intelligence of every member of the Democratic party. An unbiased observer would be justified in believing that they assume them all to be fools.

This is a fatal mistake, as they will learn to their cost if they persist in such tactics. E. H. CARQUEVILLE,
President, Arcadia Book Company.

ENTRANCE CLEAR.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—An editorial headed "Improper Parking" appeared in the Sept. 6 issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE referring to parking congestion in front of the Washington street suburban entrance of our Chicago passenger station. This parking congestion, which existed because the ordinance was not enforced in full, has been corrected.

On Aug. 13 we called the attention of Capt. J. J. O'Connell, in charge of the traffic division, to the fact that the signs conflicted with the ordinance. On Sept. 9 Capt. O'Connell had the original signs changed to ones reading "Parking at Any Time."

Mounted police along Canal st. state that there is no longer any congestion in front of these entrances and that cabs and private automobiles have free access to the curb to discharge or pick up people. C. A. CANON,
C. & N. W. Passenger Traffic Manager.

FOR MISS SEARS.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Twenty cities of the United States have recently reported at a national meeting in New York a crippling situation imperfectly realized by the general public.

According to the statements of the directors of the family welfare agencies of these leading cities, poverty and unemployment are now, in October, pressing so heavily on these great communities that most of these large societies are working on a "disaster" basis, the immediate need of providing food, shelter, and clothing for multitudes of the families of the unemployed.

The United Charities of Chicago, founded in 1857, reports the largest emergent demand from the want of the city since the days of the civil war.

Serious as this need is in itself now, its gravest aspect is its occurrence on the brink of winter, which must inevitably bring need still more serious.

In this situation the most important issue for Chicago at the November polls is the local election of an honest and competent board of county commissioners.

The range of the county board's power is enormous. It spends over fifty million dollars in public funds every year. Of this sum its most vital expenditures are those for the destitute and the sick in this community. In its services in the Forest and at Cook county hospital the county commissioners provide for the daily average population of six thousand people. The county board administers the mothers' pensions, the board funds for dependent children, and in the last year has supplied relief to over ten thousand families and nearly ten thousand men, women, and children in their own homes. The work of the private relief agencies, valuable as it is, is but a drop in the bucket as compared with the aid supplied for poverty by the public provision in the hands of the county commissioners.

The county board has other important functions, but in the present crisis its most important function is that of guardian of the poor of the community.

All of the fifteen members of the board are to be elected this fall. The power placed in their hands for the protection of the helpless requires honest, economical, and wise administration beyond that of any other service, of the local government.

In my judgment the best qualified candidate for county commissioner now running for office on any ticket is Amelia Sears of the Democratic ticket. Thirty years of professional work in the firsthand experience of the ten widely varied districts of the United Charities, in the bureau of public welfare, the public schools, the Civil Service association, and other civic activities of the community, added to her own powers of tremendous kindness and strong common sense, have equipped her pre-eminently for the honest and wise administration of public funds for the merciful, constructive, and nonwasteful relief of poverty. WINDOW IN EAR OF RABBIT MAY BE CANCER CLEW

Way Discovered to Watch Growth of Cells.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—(AP)—An announcement was made today by the University of Pennsylvania's school of medicine that a new method, through a "window" in a rabbit's ear, has been developed whereby scientists for the first time may study over a long period the microscopic details of the growth of living tissue in a warm-blooded animal.

Through its use, the announcement said, the cellular changes in living tissue can be studied as by no other method, and fundamental information regarding the manner in which abnormal cellular reactions occur in infectious diseases, such as tuberculosis, tissue growth, and cancer, will be obtainable.

That such cellular reactions occur, the announcement says, "has long been known by the results seen in these diseases, but by enabling the observer actually to see the entire process of cell changes the new method opens the door to enormous advances in knowledge.

Aided by Rockefeller Board.

"The method, for whose rapid perfection and extension the Rockefeller Foundation has made a $75,000 grant to the university, consists of the introduction of a transparent, double-walled chamber, or 'window,' into a small hole in the ear of a rabbit, the perforation being made in much the same manner as the human ear is pierced for the wearing of certain types of earrings.

"One side o fthis 'window' is of shield or glass, and the other of a very thin sheet of mica. The edges of the space intervening are left in contact with the tissues of the ear and from them the blood vessels and other living tissue invade the chamber until they form a complete new layer.

"This new layer, only two-thousandths of an inch in thickness, is quite transparent and it is necessary only to place the 'window' under the microscope to see with the most extraordinary clearness at 1,000-fold magnifications the minutest elements —the individual cells—of which animals are made.

Repeated Observations Possible.

"Since the new tissue is permanent and the chambers can remain in place for months without causing any discomfort to the animal, it is possible to make repeated observations and careful studies not only of the exact way in which the new growth occurs, but also of the way the tissue elements behave in conditions of health and disease."

The development of the new method grew out of a number of research projects in which Dr. Elliott R. Clark, professor of anatomy at the university and director of the anatomical laboratory, had engaged, and in many of which he collaborated with his wife, Eleanor L. Clark.

Dr. Clark's studies had been devoted to living structures in the lower forms of life, such as fish and tadpoles, cold-blooded animals, in whose transparent tail fins or gills it is possible to see with great clearness the finest details of cell structure. It was Dr. Clark's desire to extend these studies to higher animals, and at his suggestion and under his direction the preliminary experiments were carried out by Dr. J. C. Sandison of the department of anatomy.

WOMAN GUEST JOINS IN A FIST FIGHT AT FAIRBANKS' DINNER

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Following a three cornered explanation of the fist fight in which Ernst Lubitsch, as dinner dance guest of the Douglas Fairbankses at the Embassy club last Saturday, punched Hans Kraly and in turn was punched by the recently divorced Mrs. Lubitsch the latter today declared she would marry Kraly when her interlocutory decree of divorce becomes final.

Lubitsch said he would take Kraly "to the cleaners if he crosses my path again," but was gallant enough to admit that "Mrs. Lubitsch has a pretty strong punch and when she develops her punch a little better, she should have a great future."

Kraly formerly was Lubitsch's assistant when the German director was creating film successes in Germany. They had been close friends for fifteen years.

Actress Gladys George Wins Divorce for Cruelty

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Gladys George, stage actress, got tired of acting as a punching bag for her actor husband, Arthur Benjamin Erway, she told Judge John Fleming today and won a interlocutory decree of divorce on grounds of cruelty.

JAPAN TO TEST NAVAL PACT IN SHAM SEA WAR

Mikado to Direct Fleet Operations in Person.

TOKIO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—To determine how far the limitations imposed by the London naval treaty have "crippled" Japan's sea defenses and to what extent more airplanes can take the place of 26,000 tons of submarines which that pact lopped off the Japanese naval program is the purpose of the 1930 grand maneuvers of the imperial navy.

To use the vague phrase of the navy ministry, this sham campaign will be fought in "the seas somewhere south of Japan," and when its critical stage is reached, between Oct. 20 and 23, Emperor Hirohito will be directing operations in person from aboard his flagship. In spite of hard times and its difficulties over revenue for next year's budget, the government has appropriated $2,000,000 for these war games.

70 Warships to "Fight."

About 70 warships of the first line will participate. It is known that the defenders, the blue fleet under Vice Admiral Eisuke Yamamoto, with the superdreadnaught Mutsu as its flagship, will be based at Kure, the naval port in southwestern Hondo, and will steam out to meet the invading Red fleet approaching from the south.

The main forces are scheduled to engage between Oct. 20 and 23 south of Shikoku, probably in Tosa bay. The "enemy" will be commanded by Vice Admiral Ryozo Nakamura, aboard the Nagato, sister of the Mutsu.

Preliminaries of the war games began today with units of the blue fleet moving toward its concentration at Kure and the "enemy" ships shifting mysteriously in southern waters, as far down as Formosa.

Plans to Participate.

The ships participating in the sham war will include four battleships, two battle cruisers besides the emperor's flagship, eight first class cruisers, smaller cruisers, destroyers, and submarines. Since aircraft is to play a leading rôle, nearly all aviation forces will be mobilized, including the three aircraft carriers, the Akagi, Kaga, and Hosho, and hundreds of planes from the naval air bases at Kasumigaura, Oppama, Tateyama, and Omura.

PRICE QUOTING IS ADMITTED BY NEWS STATION

WMAQ Defends Action; Asks Super Power Permit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Chicago's ruffled radio situation moved into the foreground of the "super power" sessions of the federal radio commission today with charges and counter charges involving the two principal newspaper stations of the city, W-G-N, operated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and WMAQ, of the Daily News.

With William S. Hedges, president of WMAQ on the witness stand testifying in support of the station's request for an increase in power from 5,000 watts to the maximum of 50,000 watts allowed stations, Louis G. Caldwell, counsel for W-G-N brought out that the News' station permits direct advertising and price quoting, which he described as a practice frowned upon by the radio industry. Mr. Hedges testified under sharp questioning by Mr. Caldwell, that the quoting of prices of commodities is permitted over WMAQ during daylight hours.

Answered "No" to Question.

It is a matter of opinion as to whether price quoting is of public interest, continued the WMAQ executive. The large foreign element in Chicago, which cannot read, but understands the language benefits from these particular programs, he asserted and advisers have reported increased activity as a direct result of these programs.

Pressed by counsel for W-G-N, Mr. Hedges admitted that in the last four or five applications of station WMAQ for renewal of its broadcasting license filed with the commission that it had answered "no" to the question as to whether or not it permitted direct advertising.

Mr. Caldwell called attention to the sentiments of broadcasters, as reflected at general radio conferences, that direct advertising is a practice not considered in the best interests of radio.

End WCFL Arguments.

At the hearings today the commission heard concluding arguments on behalf of station WCFL, Chicago, operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor, for the channel now occupied by W-G-N, and for 50,000 watts power, as well as a pessimistic report on the possibilities of synchronization of high powered stations on a single channel. This latter testimony came from officials of station WHO-WOC, at Davenport and Des Moines, Ia., which has been experimenting with synchronization, for the last four months. The station is one of the eight in the fourth or middle western radio zone seeking a boost in power to 50,000 watts.

Charges Monopoly.

Although it applies for the W-G-N assignment, station WCFL did not attack THE TRIBUNE station or any other Chicago station individually. Consequently counsel for all Chicago stations waived cross-examination of Edward N. Nockels, secretary of the federation, the only witness to appear for WCFL.

Mr. Nockels charged, however, that a group of capitalists are "trying to control and monopolize the very atmosphere we breathe," and said that in Chicago six big stations are operating on cleared channels, whereas the "mouth piece" of organized labor is restricted to a limited time station with low power.

PINKERTON CHIEF DIES IN N. Y. CITY; GASSED IN WAR

Allan a Grandson of Agency Founder.

New York, Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Allan Pinkerton, 54 years old, president of the Pinkerton National Detective agency, died today in the Presbyterian hospital of the effects of gas wounds suffered in France during the world war. Relatives who survive are his mother, Mrs. Robert Pinkerton; his widow, a son, Robert A., who is a director of the detective agency, and two sisters, Mrs. Lewis Gibbs and Mrs. Jay F. Carlisle. Mr. Pinkerton was a nephew of Mrs. William J. Chalmers and a cousin of Mrs. W. C. Pullman, both of Chicago. Funeral services will be private. Burial will be in the family plot in Graceland cemetery in Chicago.

Mr. Pinkerton had been ill since the war, but not until he went to the hospital ten days ago was his condition regarded as critical. The first two years after the armistice he spent at western resorts where it was hoped the climate would benefit him. Since then he has attended to his office duties during most of the year. He went abroad in July for a rest, but evidently the final stage of his malady had begun for, on his return Aug. 29, he was unable to walk from the ship.

Served on Pershing Staff.

When the United States declared war Mr. Pinkerton offered his services to the government. He served on the staff of Gen. Pershing at Chaumont, later as assistant provost marshal at Tours and Bordeaux. Finally he had charge of the division of criminal investigation of the provost marshal general's department. He had the rank of major.

Mr. Pinkerton was a grandson of Allan Pinkerton, the Scotsman who migrated to Canada in 1842 to escape punishment for his part in the Chartist movement and settled in Chicago before the end of the year. Later he founded the detective agency and guarded Lincoln in his journey to the inauguration and exposed a plot in Baltimore to assassinate the President Elect.

The first Allan was head of the federal secret service during the civil war and the system he established contributed much to Union success.

Shares in Father's Business.

The two sons of the founder of the agency, William A. and Robert, shared the direction of the business on their father's death in 1884. William presiding in Chicago, Robert, the father of Allan, making his headquarters in New York.

On the death of Robert Pinkerton in 1907 Allan, as a partner, worked with his uncle, William, until the latter's death in 1923, when the agency was incorporated and Allan became president.

Allan Pinkerton was known in the social life of the city and of Long Island. He was a member of the Meadowbrook club, a polo enthusiast, played the game himself, and owned a string of ponies. His son, Robert, also is a polo player.

From a rich man's plaything to the everyday necessity of nearly everybody, the automobile in 30 years has remade the world. Through these years, the Chicago Tribune has fought for good roads. It has championed the motorists' cause against irksome, discriminatory legislation. It has stimulated public interest in the automobile by publishing complete news about motoring activities and the motor industry.

As a result, this newspaper from the start won the interest and good-will of automobile owners and prospects, not only in Chicago, but in thousands of towns and cities in the five states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin as well.

That's why motor manufacturers almost unanimously have given more automobile advertising to the Tribune than to any other Chicago paper.

On one day alone—Sunday—the Chicago Tribune carries more automobile advertising than any other Chicago paper carries in a full week's issues, whether published six days or seven!

To auto owners: Today, as yesterday, your guide to motor car values is the Chicago Tribune.

To auto makers: Today, as yesterday, your largest, most responsive audience of automobile prospects in the Chicago territory is in the Chicago Tribune.

MacDONALD RAPS CAPITALISM AND U.S. SPECULATION

Premier 'Lays Down Law' to British Labor Party.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Prime Minister MacDonald was in a fighting mood when he faced the annual meeting of the Labor party at Llandudno today to give an account of his stewardship. He began by declaring that he had no apologies, "none whatever," to make, and then he hit out right and left at the Liberals, Tories, malcontents in his own party, and capitalists, American speculators, and many others.

The delegates, representing Labor voters all over the kingdom, cheered him, and when the time came for "Jimmy" Maxton, the idealist young left winger, to move a vote of censure it was evident that Mr. Maxton had little joy in his job and the audience less in listening to him. The vote will not be taken until tomorrow, but it is considered certain that Mr. MacDonald's policies will be indorsed.

Indorses Free Trade.

The prime minister left Llandudno immediately after his speech for the imperial conference in London. From a world viewpoint his most important statement today was a definite repudiation of the "protection policy" with which some of his colleagues in the Labor government have been flirting. He gave plain notice to Great Britain and the dominions that he would have no truck with any interference with free trade.

After discussing the imperial conference Mr. MacDonald said the government was determined, if a new system of trade protection of any kind were started, on the necessity of seeing this country benefited by not quixotically giving up all for the benefit of some one else.

Calls Tariff "Quack Method."

"The present political conditions are not the same as those of the nineteenth century," he declared, "but that is no reason why the government should go on adopting ideas that are not new, but very old—tariffs, protection, and so on. We cannot cure the ills of this generation by going back to quack remedies of generations before."

In discussing unemployment the prime minister said that it was world-wide and due to a number of causes, naming among others the Hatry smash on the London Stock exchange and Wall street speculation, "in which some of you may have taken part." He gave a variety of other reasons. If any one had a cure, he said, he was perfectly willing to give him all the credit, whether Liberal, Tory, or any one else; but he deprecated half formed plans, which he said only made matters worse.

Ireland Balks British Plan to Settle Empire Disputes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The imperial conference went to committee work today. The chief activity consisted of two sittings by the committee on constitutional questions, under Lord Chancellor Sankey, which explored two troublesome problems—the proposed empire tribunal to settle legal disputes among the dominions and the question of empire nationality.

The empire tribunal is now reduced to simply a panel of judges from which a court would be drawn, when necessary, to settle differences between states. The much more important question of the right of a citizen of a dominion to appeal against the supreme court of his own state to the privy council has not yet been touched. Even on the question of an empire tribunal, however, there are possibilities of serious trouble.

Ireland Refuses Reservation.

With the exception of Ireland, Great Britain and all the dominions have signed the optional clause agreeing to submit all questions between the states to the Hague court, with a reservation which excepts matters between the states and the British empire. Ireland alone signed unconditionally and has since let it be known that she intends to preserve the right to appeal to the international court in case of a dispute with Great Britain or any other state.

It was rumored tonight that Gen J. M. B. Hertzog, South African premier, threatens to repudiate the reservation on the ground that the South African delegate who signed the clause was not authorized by his government to do so. This was impossible to confirm.

No decision was arrived at today on the question of empire nationality, which was discussed in a general way. This question is whether British empire nationality should be broken into seven distinct nationalities, such as Canadian, Australian, South African, etc.

Plenary Session Today.

Tomorrow the conference will meet in plenary session to hear the chiefs of the various delegations lay before it economic proposals for the betterment of empire trade conditions.

It was reported tonight that Premier Bennett of Canada is displeased with the British plans for bulk purchases of wheat, preferring a protective tariff against foreign wheat with free entry for dominion wheat, but is disposed to agree if Great Britain guarantees that the wheat will be stored in Canada until needed.

British warehouses want the business, however, just as much as the Canadians and there is liable to be a struggle over this.

There is no fruit better adapted for giving dishes a real individuality than the colorful, piquant cranberry in any of its versions you may choose. × After all it's the individual touch that glorifies the standard recipe. Why stir up day after day, dishes that are trite and familiar—there is no zest in cookery of that sort. × Make your meals interesting by giving them new flavors and new combinations. Always serve fresh Cranberry Sauce with meats or fowl. Cranberry shortcake is a most wonderful dessert. × By canning and preserving a goodly supply of Eatmor Cranberries there is no excuse for uninteresting menus at any time.

Ten Minute Cranberry Sauce

4 cups (1 pound or quart) cranberries 1½ to 2 cups sugar 2 cups water

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops. For a thinner sauce, just bring water and sugar to a boil—then add berries and let them cook until they stop popping.

GROVE, EARNSHAW SEEK A'S FINAL VICTORY

MALONEY WINS 10 ROUND DECISION OVER CARNERA

BOSTON BOXER HANDS ITALIAN FIRST DEFEAT

Jimmy Tires Near End of Fight.

Fight Decisions

At Indianapolis, Ind.—Jackie Fields, Chicago, knocked out Tommy Jordan, New York (1).

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney, considered a "ham and egg" heavyweight everywhere except in his home city of Boston, upset the pugilistic world here tonight by winning a ten round decision over Primo Carnera, 255 pound Italian, in the Boston garden.

Outweighing 65 pounds to the giant, Maloney carried the battle to him in every round except the first two and landed the cleaner punches throughout a furious battle that caused more than 12,000 spectators to yell themselves hoarse in every round. The gate receipts were estimated at $50,000.

Makes Carnera Miss.

Maloney, once he found a way to prevent the giant from pushing him into a corner or against the ropes, belted Carnera's head with wide rights and short straight lefts into his body. Many of these blows hurt the Italian much, but from the third to the ninth rounds they stung enough to make him miss often. While Maloney gamely slugged on, Carnera instinctively closed in on him and battered his head and body with short blows.

This chopping wore down Maloney gradually but he took his punishment in impressive fashion and beat Carnera to most of the punches up to the ninth round.

The defeat was the first suffered by Carnera since he started his American campaign early this year. He piled up a record of 23 victories, 22 by speedy knockouts, but disquieting rumors followed most of his contests. The boxing public, however, appeared ready to judge him by his showing against Maloney.

Maloney Eludes Primo.

Carnera was impressive only at close quarters. Giving away such weight, Maloney had to depend upon his footwork and it was seldom that the Italian could land a clean blow.

Even against the ropes or in a corner, Carnera was only able to chop short, hard blows on Maloney's head, neck and body. But he did not even stagger the Boston fighter at any time.

The Italian giant towered almost eight inches over Maloney and during the first two rounds he used his great weight and height to turn and twist his foe into position for heavy lefts and rights to the head and body.

Boston Fighter Improves.

Maloney was able to avoid these tactics in the third, when he held Carnera even; and then the Boston boy improved in every round. Starting with the fourth, his best round, Maloney scored lefts to the body and lead rights to the head almost at will. He evened matters in the fifth and won the favorable verdicts of Referee Johnny Brassil and Judges W. F. McDermott and W. A. McMenimen by giving the points in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

The ninth found Maloney weary. Carnera's bulk and gigantic strength served him down considerably, but Jimmy, tired, was as courageous as ever and his head continued clear enough to escape the traps that the towering Italian tried to make against its repose.

Carnera Wins Last Two.

Maloney had to hold frequently during the final two rounds, which Carnera won with his close quarter slugging, but the Boston boy always managed to escape the knockout blows that the desperate Italian launched. They were slugging toe to toe at the final bell, which they failed to hear, and had to be pried apart by their seconds.

The Associated Press score card called the third round even and gave Maloney credit for the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth. The card also revealed that Carnera landed a total of 195 blows to Maloney's 192, but the latter's were cleaner.

Four Ministers Earn Places on De Pauw Varsity

WHAT CHANCE HAVE MAROONS WITH BADGERS?

Fighting Spirit to Be Big Factor.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

What chance has the University of Chicago to defeat Wisconsin on Saturday at Madison?

Perhaps the wording of the question grants superiority to the Badgers. At any rate, the Maroons have not won from Wisconsin since 1927, when they triumphed, 13 to 0. In 1928 Chicago lost, 25 to 0, and last year the score was 20 to 6. Certainly Chicago's squad is no better than last year's. From the report of Jim Pyott, who scouted Wisconsin last week for Coach Stagg, the Wisconsin squad is at least the equal if not superior to the one which defeated the Maroons in 1929.

The chill, driving rain yesterday afternoon curtailed Chicago's practice, a loss of time ill afforded. Under the high arched steel girders of the stands at the north end of Stagg field the Maroons gathered for their daily lesson. Of necessity practice was limited to signal drill and preparation of plans for defense against Wisconsin's plays.

Study Badger Plays.

Again and again, with two sets of backs alternating, the team went through its plays. Lateral passes, slants off tackle, with an occasional smash over center, kept the first string men busy. At one end of the stands the red shirted freshmen drilled under the direction of Pyott in Badger formation. Then they lined up for inspection by the varsity.

The double wing backs of the freshmen eleven was Coach Stagg's topic for an extended lecture on play possibilities. Later, passes were considered.

When Chicago's men line up for the kickoff Saturday, they will have a well prepared system of attack involving running plays and passes. Greater perfection may be achieved later in the year, but working from open formations, Chicago may accomplish its scoring more easily than Wisconsin, which is expected to use a smashing attack. The Maroon forwards lack weight and experience to check such an attack, but if other games and other years are a criterion, spirit and enthusiasm may be the counterbalance for these handicaps.

Backs Should Gain.

"Wisconsin has a magnificent squad," Pyott said yesterday. "Their victories over Carleton and Lawrence furnished them with excellent offensive drill."

The Maroon backs should gain against Wisconsin. Errett Van Nice, Paul Stagg, Joe Temple, and Walter Knudson are the regulars. Don Birney, Ed Stackler, Bob Wallace, and Lou Kanne are good reserves. All have been drilled in the four back field assignments. Temple is a fair kicker and was used in this capacity against Ripon last Saturday. Kanne is his superior and will do the punting when he's in the game.

Victory for Chicago, however, rests with the line. Its blocking for open plays will pass muster. What it can do on defense against the Badger attack will decide the result. The men on whom Coach Stagg will depend are: Wren, Cowley, and Horwitz, ends; Trude, Riewitch, Cassels, and Maneikis, tackles; Toigo, MacKenzie, and Hamberg, guards, and Brislen, center.

Red Sox Call Off Deal with Joe McCarthy

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Robert Quinn, president of the Boston American league baseball team, announced tonight that he had called off all negotiations with Joe McCarthy, recently deposed manager of the Chicago Cubs, to manage the Boston Red Sox and that under no circumstances would the Red Sox consider him as manager.

"After conferring with McCarthy for more than an hour," Quinn said, "and finishing up by making him the most generous proposition ever made to any one connected with the game of baseball, I am satisfied I have done everything humanly possible to secure his services.

"During the course of our conversation he impressed me with the fact that he preferred to handle a ready-made ball club that requires little or no managing, to one that needed attention. So, after several days' serious consideration, I have come to the conclusion that it would be a mistake to let McCarthy 'shop around' and then come to the Red Sox if he could not land elsewhere.

"Therefore, under no circumstances, will the Boston Red Sox further consider McCarthy as manager."

HOGAN, GIANTS' PLAYER, STABBED IN N. Y. HOTEL

New York, Oct. 8.—[Special.]—Francis [Shanty] Hogan, catcher for the New York Giants, was stabbed in the right shoulder last night in the corridor of 315 West 79th street, where he lives, by Joseph King, Negro elevator operator in the house. The wound was not serious, but Hogan was taken to the Knickerbocker hospital for treatment. King was arrested on a charge of felonious assault.

Hogan was at a party in the rooms of a tenant when one of the guests wandered into the hall and invited King in for a drink. Hogan objected to King's presence and the elevator operator was ejected. A few hours later, as the catcher was escorting some friends to their automobile, King came at him with a knife and a small baseball bat. Luke Salabanda, another tenant in the house, disarmed the Negro after he had slashed Hogan.

FIELDS KNOCKS OUT JORDAN IN THIRD ROUND

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Jackie Fields of Chicago, former world's welterweight champion, knocked out Tommy Jordan of New York in the third round of a scheduled ten round bout here tonight. An uppercut to the short ribs ended the bout. The men fought at catch weights, Fields weighing 153 and Jordan 150.

FOOTBALL CROWDS.

WHETHER football attendance would be affected adversely by the current business depression was a source of minor worry to several Big Ten business managements. Opening day crowds and sales of season reservations, so far as we have learned, indicate worry on that account was wasted.

Football admission fees are not high compared with other forms of amusement, especially theaters or prize fights. A season ticket for all home games at Chicago or Northwestern was only $13. Students, of course, have a lower rate for their season books.

Inasmuch as applicants for season tickets, good at all games, secure better seats than those seeking to buy only for individual games, the tendency is to take season tickets even if all games are not attended. For instance, any one wishing to see the Chicago-Princeton affair at Stagg field, or the Northwestern-Notre Dame final struggle feels it worth while to take bookings for the whole year.

Whether pilgrimages to out of town contests will be as large as usual remains to be proved. Our opinion is that so-called hard times will have little effect. An alumnus who retains his interest in athletics usually makes at least one trip back to the old home campus, especially if his eleven is having a good year. So strength of the eleven rather than weakness of the pocket book will determine the Mecca proposition.

Notre Dame Now at Home to Its Football Friends

BY ARCH WARD.

They'll start a new era in athletics at Notre Dame this week-end. When the midshipmen from the United States Naval academy come west to help dedicate a $750,000 stadium at South Bend it may be an event of only passing interest for the sport world in general, but it is more than that for Notre Dame. It's another chapter in an athletic record already crowded with achievement.

For years Notre Dame has boasted of football teams that ranked with the nation's best. Now it has a stadium that compares favorably with any. Never have the fighting Irish played a representative schedule before their student and home town admirers. Their plant was too small to attract the leading teams. To meet the schools with whom they wished to mingle they had to travel from coast to coast.

This now is changed. Notre Dame will travel, of course, but its long jaunts will be less frequent. It is equipped to entertain the biggest attractions in football.

They are going to call it "Notre Dame stadium." More appropriate perhaps would be Rockne field, for if Rockne didn't build it, who did? But no matter what they call it, the new structure will be a lasting monument to the man who made it possible.

When Rockne listens to the dedicatory address Saturday afternoon we wonder if he won't recall the day 12 years ago when he first became head coach. The stands then held about 2,000 and rarely were they filled. The big home game of Rockne's second season as head coach, 1919, was with Michigan State. It drew less than 3,000. The press stand consisted of a table along the west side of old Cartier field, from where two or three correspondents dictated running stories of the game. There are accommodations for 264 writers in the new stadium.

The turnout at the Michigan State contest led Rockne to ask for funds to add 5,000 more seats the following year. He promised to pay for them with the receipts from the first game. He did. Business picked up steadily thereafter until eventually the old stands had room for 25,000.

Some of the tradition of Cartier field will be retained in the new structure. The same sod over which trod George Gipp, Gus Dorais, Lou Salmon, the Four Horsemen, and other football immortals has been transplanted.

Wonder if the old turf will make as good a record in new surroundings.

It looks like a sad year all the way around in Big Ten competition. All the schools apparently are preparing for the worst.

Here is some of the recent comment:

George Huff, athletic director at Illinois: "Don't see how we can have much success this fall, that is, if you measure success by games won. We haven't a regular player left over from last year's squad. This is no a bear story. I don't have to drop around spreading pieces like that. There are plenty others to fill that rôle."

A. A. Stagg, athletic director at the Chicago: "Our material is pretty fair, as material runs at the Midway, but I doubt if we will be far enough advanced to defeat Wisconsin so early in the season."

George Little, athletic director at Wisconsin: "Don't let any one tell you Chicago will be a setup for Wisconsin. We'll have to play at peak form to whip the Maroons and maybe that won't be good enough. No matter what kind of material Stagg has, he always turns up with two or three great games."

Rain Threatens Series

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The prospect of the sixth world series game between the Athletics and Cardinals was none too promising tonight. The weather man predicted increasing cloudiness for tomorrow, probably followed by rain, in the afternoon or evening.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphi, Pa., Oct. 7.—In the resumption of the world series in Philadelphia the two ball clubs will be housed underground again, in the customary dugouts, where the sign language will not be visible to sensitive persons among the patronage. This will be well, because in the two games played in St. Louis the players sat on benches in the open where their running fire of approbrious finger comment was plainly visible to all present.

It is strange, but true, that of the two ball clubs, Connie Mack's body of refined and exemplary young sportsmen indulged in expressions which were by far the more impolite, not to say shocking, and if the series had had any further to go under these conditions, his honor K. M. Landis, the Will Hayes of the baseball industry, probably would have felt called upon to censor the conversation in the interests of the sport.

Set No Example to Kids.

The boys sitting on the bench with Mr. Mack were setting no very fine moral example to the little dirty mouthed kids in the street, and the repartee was becoming so coarse that his honor might have felt called upon to handcuff or put mittens on them to avoid a scandal.

Sitting in dugouts, however, the athletes may continue to converse in the most insulting terms by hand without giving offense to any one except those for whom offense is intended, and the boys just now are guilty of the most offensive intentions.

The Athletics's special train rolled along with a headway of about one mile over the baseball writers' special on the trip from St. Louis to Philadelphia, and as the latter train, also known as the Hyena train, followed on, blushes were seen mantling the cheeks of the ladies and little children in the steel and coal settlements of Pennsylvania. At Harrisburg the baseball writers' train momentarily overtook the Athletics in the train shed, and there, on the back stoop of the ball players' observation car, Mr. Ed Rommel, the pensioned pitcher, who has only a conversational part in the world series, was seen agitating his fingers with great fluency, rehearsing a new speech to be addressed to Mr. Burleigh Grimes, who has borne the brunt of the insults so far.

Mr. Rommel Practices.

Mr. Rommel has been declaiming his oration as the train passed through the wide open spaces of Pennsylvania, and it was noticed that the foliage of the trees was blackened and withered for miles along the right of way, although this may have been due to the fumes of the mills which adorn the countryside.

There was only one lady on board the Hyena train, and this one, when she caught the gist of Mr. Rommel's rehearsal, quickly pulled the shade of her compartment window, remarking: "If he means what I think he means, I am sure I don't understand him."

The experts whiled away the night, also most of the day, at an innocent diversion called craps. In this game two dice are used and the score is kept by means of money. The one who has

Writers Name Wilson Most Useful Player

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, outfielder of the Chicago Cubs who smashed all National league home run records this year and led both circuits with 56 homers, was proclaimed tonight his league's most valuable player by vote of a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The selection was unofficial, inasmuch as the National league last year abandoned its annual custom of picking the most valuable performer and rewarding him with $1,000. However, it was made by the same committee that functioned on behalf of the league last year.

Wilson won distinction, for the first time, after a close contest with Frankie Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Bill Terry, first sacker of the New York Giants and the new National league batting king. Wilson received 70 votes out of a possible maximum of 80. Frisch received 64 and Terry 58. No others were close.

Wilson, in addition to his record of hitting 56 home runs, created a new all time major league record for runs batted in, totaling 190. Frisch's all around playing was a feature of the rapid rise of the Cardinals to the top and he batted .346. Terry topped the hitting list with an unofficial mark of .401.

Hack Wilson, Chicago	70
Frank Frisch, St. Louis	64
Bill Terry, New York	58
Babe Herman, Brooklyn	35
Chuck Klein, Phillies	33
Kiki Cuyler, Chicago	27

Today's game at Shibe park, 12:30 p. m. [Chicago time]. Seventh game [if necessary] Thursday at Shibe park.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Entertaining feelings similar to those that manifested themselves four days ago when they were journeying westward, the Athletics and the Cardinals completed their twenty hour cross country hop back to Philadelphia today to resume their world's series combat tomorrow, when the sixth and perhaps the concluding contest will be played at Shibe park.

For the Mackmen the trip again was strikingly pleasant. True they had been jolted rather severely in the first two of the three games played in St. Louis, but they had won the last one on the strength of Jimmy Foxx's dramatic homer in the ninth, and this victory once more had placed them in front with an advantage even more imposing than that which they enjoyed when they traveled westward after winning the first two games in Philadelphia. They are now leading in the series, three games to two, and need only one more victory to win the world championship for the second consecutive year.

Defeat Rankles Cards.

The Cardinals again made the trip with nothing but bitter thoughts for company. They had made a spectacular fight of it by winning the first two in St. Louis, but had faltered when they had a chance to forge ahead, and this rankled deeply, although not a member of their cast felt the least bit inclined to place the blame for that defeat upon Burleigh Grimes. What hurt was the fact that they had been unable to back up Grimes' superb effort with anything more than three hits off Earnshaw and Grove.

"Grimes pitched one of the greatest games I ever saw him pitch," declared Frankie Frisch, "but the rest of us blew it for him when we didn't come through with a couple of hits when we had the chance to score."

"But, be that as it may," interrupted Manager Gabby Street, "I know no reason why our chances aren't as good as they've ever been. I think we have shown all year that this is a team that fights best with its back to the wall, and I'm confident we'll pull through once again. Bill Hallahan will left-hand them to death tomorrow just as he did in the third game, and after the series stands all square tomorrow night I'll let them have Jesse Haines again."

A's Rely on Grove and Earnshaw.

The Mackmen, of course, were once more exuding confidence, though the conservative Mack had considerably less trouble in holding his boys in restraint than on their trip to St. Louis.

"If you will remember what I said on that occasion," said Mack, "I pointed out that I considered the Cardinals a team that might give us a terrific fight any moment. Well, they certainly did, and we don't mean to forget it when we go after that final game tomorrow."

In sharp contrast to his tactics a year ago, Mack also left it quite clear that he plans to press on to final victory with a two man pitching staff—Grove and Earnshaw, who between them have accounted for all three of the Athletics' victories. It was Grove who won the first game, Earnshaw the second, and it had been their combined efforts that made yesterday's victory possible.

May Revise Order.

As Earnshaw pitched seven innings yesterday and Grove only the last two, it is now generally expected that Mack will simply reverse the order tomorrow, starting with Grove and holding Earnshaw in reserve.

This is almost certain to be Mack's program, unless at the last minute he elects to change his mind and take a chance on some other pitcher in order to leave himself better fortified for the seventh game, in the event a defeat is sustained tomorrow.

The only matter that really seemed to concern the Cardinals was the condition of Charley Gelbert's leg, for it has come to light that the young star, whose spectacular playing has been one of the sensations of the series thus far, is suffering from a recurrence of a muscle injury in his thigh which put him out of action for a time during the championship campaign. He has been playing the last three days with his leg tightly taped in bandage, but insists he will stick at his post to the end.

The return of the Athletics and the Cardinals has stirred interest in the concluding game or games to a new pitch, few fans having expected the Cardinals to prolong the battle beyond the three games in St. Louis. The 30,000 reserved seats for tomorrow's game have been sold and fans are clamoring for tickets, but while speculators have plenty of them, they are letting them go only to those who are willing to pay $15 apiece for seats.

MY DANDY SETS FAST PACE; WINS HAWTHORNE DASH

Leads Martie Flynn Home by Six Lengths.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Despite a steady rain which fell throughout the day a big crowd gathered at Hawthorne yesterday to see a battle between two famous brothers of the turf.

The two brothers, My Dandy and Flag Bearer, both sons of Port Drapeau-Scepter and Staff, came together in the Chateau handicap, a dash at six furlongs for horses of all ages. Five of the fleetest sprinters here accepted the issue over a sloppy track.

It was a question whether 5 year old My Dandy could whip his little brother Flag Bearer, a 4 year old, and that was the way the crowd wagered, forgetting all others in the race. As they finally went to the post Flag Bearer had mustered the greater number of supporters. He was a slight favorite.

Flag Bearer Takes Lead.

When the break came Flag Bearer was rushed to the lead. My Dandy was after him but was three lengths back as they splashed their way down the back stretch.

Then maybe My Dandy should something at his kid brother. It might have frightened Flag Bearer. At any rate My Dandy moved up alongside Flag Bearer much like a big brother should handle his young kinfolk. My Dandy had Flag Bearer whipped on the lower bend. He flew out into a long lead.

Perhaps My Dandy whispered to Flag Bearer to get completely out of the race, for as they headed into the stretch Martie Flynn and Nusakan had both passed him.

My Dandy moved on in his easy going machinelike stride and held all of them safe. Martie Flynn was second six lengths back. Flag Bearer rallied again in the final stages and snatched third money away from Nusaken and Supreme Sweet.

My Dandy Pays $6.18.

My Dandy's race was remarkable. A downpour was falling throughout the race. The track was deep in soppy mud and water, yet he stepped his six furlongs in 1:12 2-5, which is as fast as most horses gallop over the same course when the going is at its best.

In the rush of support for Flag Bearer, My Dandy was slightly overlooked. The price against him kept going up and in the final mutuels he paid 6.18 to win, 5.04 to place, and $2.48 to show. Martie Flynn's place price was $6.74 and his show price $2.96. Flag Bearer paid $2.48 to show.

Maybe some day when My Dandy gets to be a sort of an old man of the turf, Flag Bearer will beat him, but surely not for a few years at least.

'A. A. HEADS WILL MEET TO DISCUSS POLICY ON DRAFT

Representatives of the three class AA baseball league will hold a conference in Cleveland either tomorrow or Friday to consider their policy on the draft question.

The majors have asked the International, Pacific Coast, and American Association, to meet with them two days after the final world series game in Cleveland to thresh out the draft problem.

"We intend to go over the question among ourselves a day before conferring with the majors," President Thomas J. Hickey of the American association, said yesterday.

RESUME TRIAL OF THE $700,000 HOCKEY SUIT

Trial of the $700,000 damage suit brought by Edward J. Livingstone, hockey promoter of Toronto, against Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, proprietor of the Chicago Blackhawks, and two of his employés, was resumed yesterday before Federal Judge Carpenter. A mistrial was declared in the case last week. McLaughlin is accused of conspiring with officials of the two major leagues to wreck Livingstone's team, the Chicago Cardinals, and to force him out of the American association. A jury was selected and the opening statements heard.

Jim Dandy Has Wet Laugh on Gold Cup Foes

As the rain beat down on the Hawthorne track last night and turned the racing strip into a sea of mud, Jim Dandy, the only horse that has beaten Gallant Fox this year, was reported to be laughing in a very unrefined manner. It was one of those old fashioned haw-haws, according to those who were near his stable.

Jim Dandy goes to the post on Saturday in the $25,000 added Gold cup and he must have figured that if the rain keeps up he has a chance, for it was in the muddy going at Saratoga that he beat Gallant Fox in the Travers midsummer Derby.

There was an atmosphere of sadness around Sun Beau's stall as the rain continued to pepper down. He is here to fill the engagement in the Gold cup.

Last night there were thirteen prospective starters in the race as follows:

Horse—	Jockey.
Sun Beau	F. Coltiletti.
Spinach	R. Fisher.
Lady Broadcast	G. Woolf.
Jim Dandy	F. J. Baker.
Plucky Play	D. Trivett.
Pigeon Hole	R. Finnerty.
My Dandy	M. Knight.
Karl Eitel	J. Kellum.
Chicago	W. Johns.
Alcibiades	K. Russell.
Jem	J. M. Jones.
Ironsides	W. Moran.
Saxon	P. Gross.

The Lady Broadcast supporters were not so sure what she might do in the Cup race in the event of a muddy track. Pigeon Hole and Alcibiades, both noted mud runners, were reported to be heading for Chicago to fill their engagements in the Cup.

The race is at a mile and a quarter. It was won last year by Sun Beau and was run over a lightning fast track.

GOVERNOR TO SEE GAME.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Lord Willingdon, governor general of Canada, will attend the Queens varsity intercollegiate football game at Queens university stadium on Oct. 25.

VON PORAT AND SNYDER FINISH SERIOUS WORK

Otto Von Porat and Angus Snyder, who clash in the eight round windup of the boxing card at the Coliseum Friday night, will finish serious training today at their headquarters in the loop. Von Porat, back from a vacation in the Wisconsin woods, will seek a quick knockout over Snyder whom he once outpointed in a bout at St. Paul.

Knocking out opponents was nothing new for Von Porat up until the time he met Willie Stribling last June. Then the tables were turned, and Otto was knocked out in the first round.

Snyder, a native of Kansas, who boasts the profile of a photoplay hero, has improved considerably since his previous meeting with the Chicago Norwegian and recently gained a ten round decision over Babe Hunt of Oklahoma.

One of the most colorful fighters on the card is Eddie Ran, Polish welterweight, who meets Johnny Hayes of Philadelphia, in another eight rounder. Georges Le Clere, Ran's manager, picked him up in Europe after he had won the Polish welterweight championship and brought him to America a little more than a year ago.

Ran, who is 22 years old, has had 33 fights. He won 14 by knockouts, 13 by decisions, and boxed four draws. He lost the decision in the other two contests.

Forty rounds of boxing will be on the Coliseum program. Among the other bouts will be one between Edgar Norman and Chick Raines, light heavyweights, and another featuring Dave Forbes and Colognate Oreste, heavyweights.

BANNER BRIGHT WINS CHURCHILL DOWNS FEATURE

Churchill Downs, Ky., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Banner Bright, the consistent 3 year old filly from the Audley farm, easily captured the Bit Stone Gap purse, the best offering on the card here today. Saxon, from M. J. Crennan's stable, was second, with Bell Smith, from J. T. Weaver's stable, third.

The race was an allowance affair for 3 year olds and upwards at a mile and a sixteenth and was worth an even $1,000 to the winner, which covered the distance in 1:46 4-5 and paid $8.10 for $2 in the mutuels.

KURTH PROMOTED TO VARSITY LINE AT NOTRE DAME

GANNON IN NAVY BACKFIELD.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—The work of Johnny Gannon, veteran back, in the game with William and Mary last Saturday appears to have won him a regular place on the Navy football team for the game with Notre Dame Saturday.

Gannon did by far the best passing for the Navy Saturday; in fact the Navy's aerial game was anything of a success until Gannon, who had been on the second string, entered the game. As this style of play will be a large part of the Navy offense Saturday, Gannon must be counted in.

The backfield was strengthened today by the return of Dale Bauer, one of the most experienced backs of the squad. He started the season as regular quarter back, and is likely to be used there during a portion of the game at least.

Gannon's entry may cause a shift in the backfield, but Kirn and Hagberg are certain of places in the first lineup.

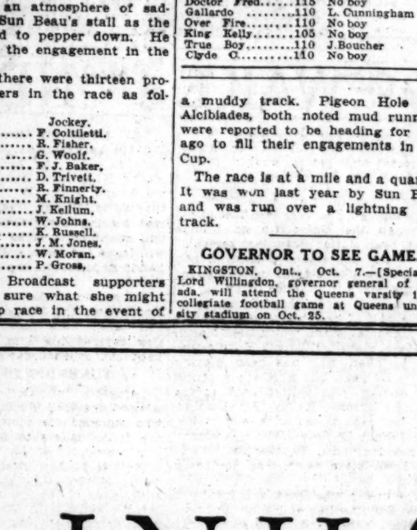
INHALE?

If you do inhale, take in only clean smoke. Clean smoke is better for you. That's why we "air-wash" Wings tobacco.



WINGS are undoubtedly cleaner, keener and cooler than any smoke you've ever lit! All the Wings tobacco is "air-washed." That means that every hint of dirt, burn, grit or sting is "air-washed" out of the fine blend of Turkish, Virginia and Burley tobaccos.

Judge Considers Kearns Temporary Alimony Order

A motion to vacate the order that Jack Kearns, boxing manager and promoter, pay Legana Kearns $500 a month temporary alimony and $1,000 solicitor's fees was taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Otto Kerner yesterday.

BASEBALL CLUB'S WORK IS NEVER DONE, IT SEEMS

Now Comes Old Search for New Talent.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sports fans who have been concentrating on baseball these last six months this evening or tomorrow evening will be in a position to give all their attention and enthusiasm to football and soccer, with a few minutes each day to basketball, hockey, and other day like prospects. But the baseball business will continue without interruption for many baseball executives.

The poor baseball folk must carry on without inspiration from the clicking turnstiles or the yells of the customers. Running a baseball plant when there are no games is indeed a tough life.

Here's Winter Schedule.

Take the programs of the two Chicago clubs, for instance. Here's a suggestion of the winter work that confronts these two organizations:

CUBS: Deals, cash or for other clubs, which will bring to the team three or four good pitchers, one or two good infielders, another good catcher, and another good outfielder.

WHITE SOX: Deals, mostly with cash, which will bring to the team another good catcher to assist Tate; two or three good pitchers; three good infielders, a couple of outfielders, the foregoing to include above everything some giants who can hit.

The foregoing assignments involve plenty of worry, the demand in the player market greatly exceeding the first class supply. This demand is most urgent in the following cases:

ROBINS—Must have another outfielder and a second baseman.

Pirates Must Have Shortstop.

PIRATES—Must have a shortstop and a couple of pitchers.

BRAVES, REDS, AND PHILLIES—Must add a lot of talent, but especially pitchers.

YANKEES—Must have about a half dozen good pitchers, and quick.

INDIANS—Pitchers and infielders mostly.

TIGERS AND RED SOX—Pitchers and anybody who can hit.

There isn't a team in either major league, except the Cardinals, that isn't in a desperate need for pitching help. Of course the A's can get along as long as nothing happens to Grove and Earnshaw, but with either of these hurlers out of the picture the efficiency of the A's would wither with astounding rapidity.

Yanks, Cubs Need Pitchers.

Of the contending teams the Yankees and the Cubs have the greatest need for pitching replenishments. The Yanks were a poor third almost solely because their pitching was off and the Cubs were lucky to be in the first division with the brand of pitching the club got in more than half their games.

Besides the arduous task of buying pitchers when there are no pitchers for sale, the baseball nabobs already are at work on their spring training schedules.

No announcements have been made but it is said that neither Cubs nor Sox will make any great changes in their training programs, except that the Cubs will play exhibition games in San Francisco and Oakland and the Sox will have new training grounds in San Antonio.

Giants May Play Sox.

The New York Giants also will train in San Antonio and again, so it is probable that there will be another New York-Chicago exhibition tour of 11 games or more, including dates at Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Little Rock, Evansville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, and Toledo.

The Cubs in all probability will follow the innovation of last year, that of eliminating exhibition stands on the way back from California, other than the usual series at Kansas City. The Cubs will open the season at home next year, so the team will jump direct from Kansas City to Wrigley Field about April 12.

The Sox expect to pitch camp about May 14, while the Cubs will be on display three or four days later.

Canadian Geese Use Lake Geneva as Winter Hotel

BY BOB BECKER.

Probably forced down by drought conditions in the north, a small flock of Canada geese upset all the records and schedules by coming into Lake Geneva in southern Wisconsin late in August this year. They have been using the broad expanse of Geneva as a resting ground ever since then, making occasional trips to nearby fields for food.

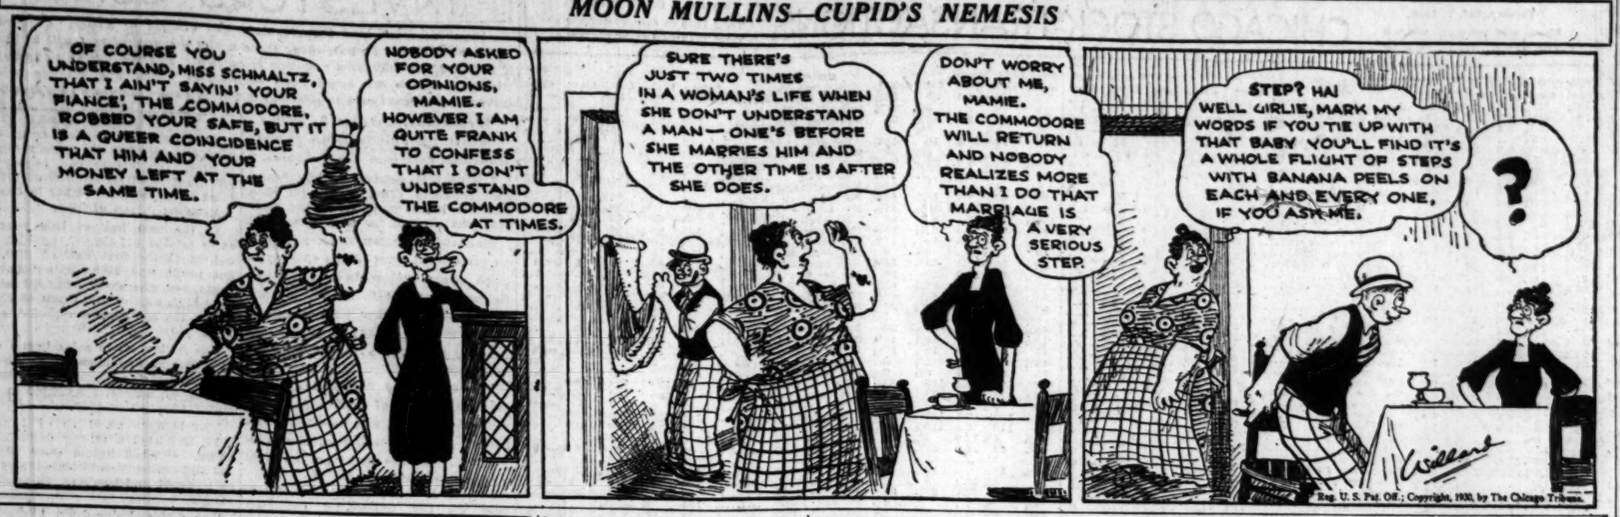
It was on the shores of Lake Geneva a few days ago trying to get a view of the early geese, whose numbers have been increased since August by several more small flocks.

While we were standing on the golf ground at Conference Point in Williams Bay, a part of Lake Geneva, in company with Prof. Edwin B. Frost of the Yerkes observatory, we managed to see a few of the geese far out in the lake and apparently pretty well surrounded with mudhens. The latter looked like bodyguards for the wary birds which each year, both in the spring and fall, use the lake.

There are few lakes in the central states which are used by so many wild geese as Lake Geneva. For years the visitors have shown a marked preference for that beautiful body of water which is set in the rolling hill country of southern Wisconsin.

Prof. Frost was telling us a few days ago that last spring one of his assistants made a count of the number of feathers on the lake before they passed on to the north, and using a unit and counting a block of birds and then estimating the whole flock, it was decided that more than 20,000 geese were utilizing Geneva as a temporary hotel.

MOON MULLINS—CUPID'S NEMESIS



OF COURSE YOU UNDERSTAND, MISS SCHMALTZ, THAT I AIN'T SAYIN' YOUR FIANCE', THE COMMODORE, ROBBED YOUR SAFE, BUT IT IS A QUEER COINCIDENCE THAT HIM AND YOUR MONEY LEFT AT THE SAME TIME.
NOBODY ASKED FOR YOUR OPINIONS, MAMIE. HOWEVER I AM QUITE FRANK TO CONFESS THAT I DON'T UNDERSTAND THE COMMODORE AT TIMES.
SURE THERE'S JUST TWO TIMES IN A WOMAN'S LIFE WHEN SHE DON'T UNDERSTAND A MAN—ONE'S BEFORE SHE MARRIES HIM AND THE OTHER TIME IS AFTER SHE DOES.
DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, MAMIE. THE COMMODORE WILL RETURN AND NOBODY REALIZES MORE THAN I DO THAT MARRIAGE IS A VERY SERIOUS STEP.
STEP? HA! WELL GIRLIE, MARK MY WORDS IF YOU TIE UP WITH THAT BABY YOU'LL FIND IT'S A WHOLE FLIGHT OF STEPS WITH BANANA PEELS ON EACH AND EVERY ONE, IF YOU ASK ME.

Grove Gets Chance for Place Beside 3 Immortal Pitchers

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Should Bob Moses Grove, that lengthy, serious minded southpaw who performs under the direction of Connie Mack, step in and accomplish a win today in the current struggle for the world championship, he will be entitled to enroll himself in baseball's most exclusive society.

If Bob pitches and wins this afternoon, or wins tomorrow if the series should go down to the seventh game, it will mark his third successful effort against the Cardinals, and three victories are as many as any other man has compiled in fall classics of the past. And only a few have done that well.

The society of three time winners in one series is made up of Christy Mathewson of the Giants, Babe Adams of the Pirates, Jack Coombs of the Athletics, and Urban Faber of the White Sox.

Matty turned in his highwater performance, probably more sensational than any of the others, in 1905, when he hurled the Giants to three shutouts—3 to 0, 9 to 0, and 2 to 0—over the Athletics.

In 1909, when the Tigers carried the Pirates into seven games, Adams won the opener by 4 to 1, the fifth by 8 to 4, and the seventh by 8 to 0.

Coombs used the remnants of the one time great Cub machine as a stepping stone to the record held by Matty and Adams. In 1910 Coombs defeated the Chicagoans by the loose scores of 9 to 3, 12 to 5 and 7 to 2. As was the case in 1929 the Cubs won only one game in 1910.

Faber in the course of 9 days in the fall of 1917 pitched four games against the Giants, losing one by 5 to 0 and capturing the others by 7 to 2, 3 to 2 and 4 to 2.

If Burleigh Grimes, the star spitballer of the Cardinals, thinks himself the all time champion of hard luck because of losing two five hit games in the current series, he can console himself by taking a glance at what happened to Jim [Hippo] Vaughn of the Cubs in 1918. That peerless southpaw lost the opener to the Red Sox, Ruth opposing him, by 1 to 0. He lost his next start to Carl Mays by 2 to 1. In his third start he whipped Sam Jones by 3 to 0. Allowing only three runs in three games and yet losing two of the battles constitutes some kind of a record.

Occasionally there are happenings that indicate the baseball magnates are not altogether money mad. Here's an item never before printed. In 1926 Grover Alexander was moved from the Cubs to the Cardinals because he refused to abide by regulations. What he did to assist the Cards to a world's title that fall needs no mention. The following spring when Alex signed there was a clause in the contract calling for $5,000 if he abstained throughout the season. The race was about 24 hours old when Alex violated the clause. Sam Breadon, president of the Cards, did not want to take the money and still didn't want to hand it to Alex in a lump. It wouldn't have lasted long.

The $5,000 was placed in a trust fund. Alex never will get the principal, but he is getting the income and will get it as long as he lives.

As soon as the world series closes there will be a gathering of minor and major league baseball dignitaries in Cleveland. They will go into session there with hopes of ironing out the present difficulty over the draft. The majors want the draft to be made universal. Five leagues—American association, Pacific Coast, International, Western, and Three Eyes—recognize it only in a limited form.

A's Find Hand More Caustic than Tongue

Your correspondent was eliminated quickly and painlessly in the qualifying round and put in the rest of the time peering ahead around the corners at the back porch of the Athletics' train, which seemed to have locomotives fore and also aft. However, that which seemed to be the rear end locomotives was not an engine but merely Mr. Mose Grove, the melancholy left hand pitcher who won two world series ball games, incinerating a large cigar which some fan had given him in St. Louis. Mr. Grove is not addicted to large cigars, but he is a ball player after all and a ball player cannot be expected to turn down a free cigar.

The social life on the Athletics' train was polite but subdued. There were a few ladies in the party, but the Athletics are not very high strung socially.

Why Talk, Grove Asks.

Mr. Grove, for instance, is a reticent character of mournful mien, who cannot understand why people should sit and converse when they have nothing to say, and Mr. Mickey Cochrane, when he wishes to be entertaining, finds it necessary to play the saxophone.

The Cardinals' train, which arrived some time earlier, was presided over as hostess by Mrs. Sam Breadon, who has red hair and sings "Sweet Adeline." Mr. Breadon himself being a Greenwich Village, New York, boy of Irish parents, has an uncontrollable tendency to burst into Irish ballads at times, being probably the best endurance singer in the major leagues at this time, and beyond question the loudest. So, the world series, while it has its business aspects for the Breadons, is also something of a festival and a very enjoyable time has been had by all members of the family party, not including the athletes, of course, who are very grim about it all, with a matter of some $2,000 apiece at stake.

He's Youngest Magnate.

Mr. Breadon is the youngest of the major league magnates now and magnates always have been just as young as their arteries. Twenty years ago Charlie Comiskey, Gerry Herrmann and Ban Johnson were just as young and durable and even more festive. You could not say that the joy has been unconfined with the Breadon party during this world series, but it has been considerable less cramped than its customary among the magnates now that most of them have grown old and attentive to their physicians.

N. Y. Boxing Commission Suspends Justo Suarez

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Justo Suarez, Argentine lightweight, today was suspended for sixty days by the New York state athletic commission. The New York boxing board acted on the suggestion of Referee Eddie Forbes, who said he warned Suarez three times for hitting low in his bout with Ray Miller at Madison Square garden last Friday. Suarez won the fight on points.

Mickey Walker to Battle Johnny Kline at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Johnny Kline, now on the Pacific coast, has been signed to meet Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, in the main bout of a boxing show at the Coliseum here, Oct. 17, Mique Malloy, promoter, announced today.

PRACTICE SHOWS JUST WHO'S WHO ON BADGER TEAM

Madison, Wis., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—The team that the University of Wisconsin will pit against Chicago in the Big Ten opener here Saturday began to take shape in practice tonight.

On the first team, in scrimmage against the freshmen, were Kruger, center; Molinaro and Kabat, guards; Smith and Bratton, tackles, and Casey and Gantenbein, ends. In the back field were Wimmer, quarter back; Behr and Rebholz, half backs, and Lusby, full back.

A second back field, which probably also will see action, included Goldenberg, quarter back; Schneller, full back, and McGuire and Linfor, half backs. Other candidates likely to get into the game are Lubratovich, tackle, Swiderski and Tobias, guards, Oman, full back, and Jensen, end.

ILLINI DRILL FOR PURPLE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Although the University of Illinois must beat Butler Saturday before it starts the conference season, Coach Robert Zuppke started planning for Northwestern in practice today.

The Illini went through an hour and a half of hard scrimmage against the freshman team, which used Northwestern plays. "Tiny" Huddlestun, 215 pounder, who has been playing tackle all year, but who was a center last season, was shifted back to the pivot position. Henry Schumacher, who has been at center, was at tackle, and Johnny Ovelman, who was scarcely heard of until Zuppke put him in the Iowa State game, was used as a guard.

The lineup was Owen and Swanson, ends; Schumacher and Stan Bodman, tackles; Jensen and Ovelman, guards; Huddleston, center; Root, quarter back; Yanuskus and Useman, half backs, and Schultz, full back.

Zuppke tested his forward passing attack in the rain for the first time. Hall and Useman did most of the passing in the absence of Gil Berry.

Yost Hurries Up Michigan Eleven for Purdue Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Michigan coaches are going the limit this week to give the Wolverine eleven all that it will need to beat Purdue Saturday. Evidence of this is the fact that Director Fielding H. Yost has been giving more time and attention to the drills and to individual players yesterday and today than he gave at any time last year, except during the week prior to the Harvard battle.

FIELDING H. YOST.

Yost hasn't put on a uniform so far, but he has been pointing out defects in play and generally aiding Harry Kipke in interpreting new plays and some of the formations that made Michigan teams of the past real scoring machines. Whether he will continue to assist in coaching or will leave the team entirely in Kipke's hands depends on the showing made this week.

Efforts to make a tackle out of Roddy Cox, the 195 pound sophomore full back, were halted today when Cox injured his arm. He may be kept out of Saturday's contest.

YUNEVICH IN FORM.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Alex Yunevich, Purdue's full back, who supplied the punch that enabled the Boilermakers to defeat Michigan last season, 30 to 16, looked like the Yunevich of old here this afternoon as he romped through the last hard scrimmage of the week in preparation for the game with the Wolverines at Ann Arbor, Saturday.

Yunevich and Lewis Pope were the only two regulars who scrimmaged for any appreciable time.

Another hard workout on forward passes will be held tomorrow afternoon, with a light tapering off drill scheduled for Thursday. The squad will leave here Thursday for Chicago. Friday morning the journey will be continued to Ann Arbor, where a light workout is scheduled in the stadium in the afternoon. The squad will go to Ypsilanti for the night.

GOPHERS POLISH DEFENSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—With scouts back from California with Stanford plays, the Minnesota football team got a long drill in defensive tactics today. It was apparent that Peewee MacDougal will be used at quarterback Saturday in place of Walter Haas. He has been advanced to the regulars because of his showing against Vanderbilt.

Clinton Riebeth took no part in today's scrimmage, but it seems certain that he will be in the Stanford game part of the time.

INDIANA SOPHS IMPROVE.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Saluski, at half back, and Kuchins, at tackle, showed improvement today as Indiana held a long scrimmage in preparation for the game with the Oklahoma Aggies here Saturday. Both Saluski and Kuchins are sophomores. Dickey and Blagrave, end, also did good work. Most of the Hoosiers' practice time this week will be spent in improving their offense.

Risser, Veteran Drake Guard, Lost for Season

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Bob Risser, veteran guard, has been lost to Drake football team for the rest of the season. A shoulder injury received several weeks ago was aggravated in the Bulldogs' game with Oregon last Friday.

LOYOLA DRILLS FOR DUQUESNE AERIAL ATTACK

Loyola's gridiron team is devoting special attention this week to improving its defense for Duquesne university's aerial attack. The Ramblers play Duquesne here Friday night. Because of inclement weather yesterday the entire squad was forced indoors. After a short skull session in the gymnasium the back field players spent more than an hour attempting to break up passes.

Last year Duquesne beat Loyola 7 to 6 through the accurate passing of Joe McCarthy, quarter back. McCarthy will be piloting the Pittsburg eleven again this fall.

Friday's game will be a renewal of gridiron rivalry which started more than a decade ago in Davenport, Ia., between Elmer Layden, Duquesne coach, and Eddie Norton, Loyola mentor. At that time Layden was full back of the Davenport High school team, while Norton was left half back on the St. Ambrose academy eleven. Rivalry between the teams was very spirited.

DE PAUL BRUSHES OFFENSE

Although several regulars were on the sidelines with bad colds, Coach Eddie Anderson ordered a long scrimmage yesterday for De Paul university gridders. More than an hour was devoted to drill on offensive work.

Work of the line on offense was particularly displeasing to Dr. Anderson. The forwards were sluggish in their charging in the opening game last Saturday and lacked finish in blocking.

RAIN FAILS TO KEEP WILDCATS AWAY FROM GRID

N. U. Eleven Goes Through Blocking Drill.

A driving rain yesterday failed to keep the Northwestern football squad from getting its usual workout. The scrimmage scheduled with the freshmen was called off, the players went through a long blocking drill in the mud.

Ohio State is expected to flash a powerful driving attack inside the tackles Saturday, which will place much of the burden on the Wildcat line. In yesterday's workout Marvil, Riley and Woodworth, the aces in the Purple forward wall, were especially effective in piling up this sort of offense.

The Wildcats expect to meet an Ohio team which will be 50 per cent improved over last year's eleven. Wesley Fesler, for two years an all-American end, is the biggest threat of the invaders. In the Northwestern-Ohio game last year he scored the Buckeyes' lone marker by snaring a Purple fumble and running 98 yards for a touchdown.

Capt. Hank Bruder and Harry Kent, regular guard, are the only members of the Wildcat squad on the hospital list. Bruder is confined to the infirmary, but may be permitted to get back into a uniform today if the weather improves. Kent is being given a rest to permit an injury on the side of his head to heal up.

Will Lewis, quarter back, and "Agate" Martin, sophomore half back, will probably see service Saturday.

BRUDER WORRIES OHIO

Columbus, O., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—The Ohio State varsity football team was sent through a long scrimmage tonight, getting its first view of Northwestern's attack as exemplified by the Buckeye reserves. Special pains were taken to build up a defense to stop Capt. Hank Bruder of the Wildcats. Several times the coaches got into the lineup and demonstrated means of stopping the Purple's star back.

Holcomb, who was saved from last Saturday's game with Indiana for use against the Purple, was unable to take part in scrimmage. Another injury developed during the day when Charles Campbell, punter, suffered a severe bruise on his hip. Campbell alternates with Wingert at left guard. Both are sophomores.

With the exception of the right half back, full back and end positions, the Ohio lineup is practically settled. If Fesler starts at full back, Rabenstein will start at right end. If Horn starts at full back, Fesler will appear at end. The half back positions were filled at various times today by Carroll, Embrey, Greenberg, Varner and Grady.

CHICAGO STOCKS DECLINE, THEN STAGE A RALLY

Early Losses Reduced as Liquidation Ends.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Moving unde the momentum of Monday's decline stocks on the Chicago exchange sold down again in the early dealing yesterday, but rallied neatly as the day progressed. The finish was around previous closing prices and in some instances moderately higher.

Hangover liquidation spent its course around midday and the professional selling eased, enabling stocks to wipe out early losses in some cases and reduce them in others.

Trading was broader and more active. Transactions amounted to 203,600 shares, an increase of nearly 20 per cent over the previous day's volume.

No News Features.

The day's trade news provided no feature to account for the upturn; the affair being largely a technical matter. By some the turn was attributed to the letup in professional dumping brought about by the New York exchange's pronouncement on short selling.

Among the issues which made noteworthy recovery were Middle West Utilities, Majestic, Commonwealth Edison, and Auburn Automobile. The first three rallied from early lows to close with small net gains and the latter finished unchanged after dipping 5 points below Monday's last price.

In the early trading the utility stocks were among the hardest hit. The pressure on the utility shares in New York induced offerings here. Cities Service was actively dealt in. Easing on early trades, it later shared the general improvement and closed a fraction up. Insull reduced its early loss to a fraction on fairly heavy trading.

U. S. Radio declined sharply during the morning. The later trading carried it back within a point of the previous close. Grigsby moved within a narrow range and closed slightly higher.

Hits Low for Year.

On light sales Great Lakes Dredge sold off to its year's low of 22 and retrieved only a fraction of its loss. Libby also finished lower. General Theaters and Electric Household each gained a fraction.

C. O. Hodge, secretary of the Brown Fence and Wire company, said yesterday that sales for the quarter ended Sept. 30 were off approximately 7 per cent from the corresponding period of 1929. Earnings for the quarter, which is the first in the company's fiscal year, were satisfactory, despite unfavorable conditions and the fact that it is the company's dullest season, he stated.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were steady but quiet today in the gray goods division. Moderate sales were being made in finished goods lines. Wool goods were selling more freely in small lots for immediate cutting. Silk sales were generally light. Knitters report that dull lustre rayon yarns were not plentiful for prompt shipment. Burlaps were easy and quiet.

Standard American Trust Shares.

I have been advised to buy Standard American Trust Shares. I have $1,000 to invest now, but do not know just what is best for me.—Mrs. A. C.

Standard American Trust Shares is an investment trust of the fixed type. Each share represents a 1-500 participating interest in a unit of common stocks, together with a proportionate interest in any cash or other property held by the trustee under the indenture.

The underlying deposited common stocks are those of leading American railroads, utilities, and industrial companies. They are well selected and diversified. All are listed on the New York stock exchange.

Income is derived from dividends paid on the underlying deposited stocks and money received from the sale of rights. Stock dividends and stock received as a result of splitups are retained in the unit, except fractional shares, which are sold.

The daily offering prices of the shares are determined on the basis of the New York stock exchange quotations of the deposited stocks, taken at odd lot prices and adding actual brokerage commissions, together with the proportionate amount of accumulated cash and other distributible assets held by the trustee plus 15 cents per share to cover cost of deposit and fees. In addition 6 per cent of the sales price is added to cover costs of distribution and to provide a profit.

Hupp Motor Car.

Any information you can give me on Hupp Motor, listed on the New York stock exchange, will be very much appreciated.—M. T. G.

As a result of decreased demand for cars in the first half of the current year Hupp Motor Car corporation sales and earnings exhibited a marked decline. Passenger car registration for the first seven months of 1930 totaled 18,757, against 26,527 in the corresponding period of 1929.

In the first half of this year net sales totaled $17,458,647, against $28,644,103 in the first half of 1929, and net profit was $509,053, equal to 34 cents per share on 1,512,092 shares [par $10], against net profit of $2,821,382 in the six months ended June 30, 1929.

The falling off in sales began early in 1929 and was most pronounced in the final quarter. Sales for 1929 totaled $52,505,642, against $75,128,909 in 1928, and $44,734,430 in 1927.

The balance sheet as of June 30, 1930, indicated a strong financial position. Current assets were $20,258,867 and current liabilities were $5,130,898. Profit and loss surplus was $16,841,247.

The dividend due Nov. 1 has been passed. The stock is speculative.

NASH BELIEVES UPTURN COMING IN AUTO TRADE

Company Declares Usual Dividend.

BY O. A. MATHER.

President C. W. Nash and directors of the Nash Motors company believe a revival in the automobile industry is not far distant and that the future for their own company is bright. They manifested this confidence last night by declaring the regular quarterly dividend of $1, thereby dispelling rumors that the payment would be reduced.

C. W. NASH.

Mr. Nash commented on the fact that manufacturing of 1930 models was discontinued in July in order to enable dealers to dispose of their stocks of cars. A complete new line of cars will be announced tomorrow. Although the company shipped no cars for half of the quarter ended Aug. 31, net earnings for the period were $1,777,270, equivalent to 65 cents a share on 2,730,000 shares outstanding. Income was figured after all charges including a large sum expended in bringing out the new line.

Conflicting Reports.

Other news of trade and industry presented the same conflicting aspects that have prevailed recently. The slowness of general business in entering the usual autumn season of activity again was shown in the railroads' weekly report on commodity movements. Revenue freight loading for the week ended Sept. 26 totaled 950,811 cars, a decline of 2,131 from the preceding week, and also a decrease of 252,738 from the corresponding week in 1929. Miscellaneous freight fell 107,870 cars below a year ago and coal showed a decrease of 57,818 cars.

On the other hand, the petroleum industry continued to make progress toward holding production to demand and even reducing storage stocks. The daily average gross crude oil output last week totaled 2,386,950 barrels, a decline of 2,800 barrels a day from the previous week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute. Production east of California increased 5,300 barrels a day, but this was more than offset by a decrease of 8,100 barrels a day in California.

Refiners Take Less Oil.

Refiners took somewhat less oil last week and operated at 67.2 per cent of capacity, compared with 70.3 per cent in the preceding week. Gasoline stocks were further reduced by 781,000 barrels, now standing at 36,441,000 barrels, while gas and fuel oil stocks also declined moderately.

The steel industry produced both good and ill news. The Colorado Fuel and Iron company announced a $2,000,000 order for rails from the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. The order calls for 47,500 tons, which will afford employment for several thousand workers. It represents part of the rails needed for relaying 370 miles of track, which program was announced by President W. B. Storey on Monday. Orders for 13,650 tons of rails also have been placed by the Pere Marquette railroad.

Sees Signs of Revival.

There will be no cutting of wages in the steel industry, according to a prediction by Tom L. Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation. He also said there are signs of revival, with steel buyers showing interest in purchases for future delivery and willing to take advantage of current prices, which have fallen 12 per cent in the last year to the lowest level since 1915.

On the other hand, the American Iron and Steel institute reported that steel production in September was the lowest for that month since 1924. Output last month was 110,307 tons a day and the industry operated at 55.10 per cent of capacity, compared with 218,850 tons a day and 59.46 per cent in August and 181,115 tons a day and 81.31 per cent in September, 1929.

Opposition to Marketing Act Now Becomes Vocal

BY SCRUTATOR.

Opposition to the federal agricultural marketing act may not be any more stern than it was during and immediately after its passage by congress, but it is becoming more sure of its ground and more ready to voice its views.

One of the foremost duties of the federal farm board, which attempts to carry out the enforcement of the act, is to minimize speculation. Speculation therefore is something evil in legal phraseology. This attitude toward speculation is nothing new; the reason for taking it is.

In the older days the speculator was held up to contumely because he bought low and sold high. The public considered him, in agricultural commodities, the force that caused food to be high. The new thought has made him the man who runs prices down for the producer. As an antidote for him government agencies have been set up with the idea that they can get more for the producer without raising prices to the consumer.

Lose in Long Run?

There is a good deal of evidence, in stock markets, in grain exchanges and in all business, to show that speculators in the long run lose more than they gain. The example given by L. B. Kilbourne, president of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association, was apt. He estimated that on all the eggs put in storage last spring, the men who bought them stand to lose a thousand dollars a carload, or a total of thirty million dollars. Some dealers who attended the convention of the association yesterday declared the estimate was low and that forty-five millions was nearer the mark.

The cold storage men are speculators. We consider it necessary to have eggs to eat in the months when hens don't work hard at their natural trade. Any person who puts an egg away for future sale has to speculate. The eggs are put into a cooler at a known price, to be taken out at a time when price is uncertain. If everything were ideal in the business world eggs would go in at a determined price and come out at a price just enough higher to pay fairly for the storage and handling charges.

Would Fight for Repeal.

Lacking the ideal, either private persons must speculate in some degree or the government must take the risks. So far private enterprise has been allowed to keep the egg and poultry storage business, but so serious is the threat of government entry into the business that the association without dissent passed a resolution calling on all the members to fight for the repeal of the farm board act.

There can be no question that the farm board has minimized speculation on the grain and cotton exchanges, where its corporations have been dealing. It speculated itself when it lent on unsold grain more than it would bring on the market. Figures have tended to prove that the losses incurred have been as much as the losses of the big butter and egg men.

Basis for Opposition.

Some form of speculation will be necessary as long as prices remain unfixed by fiat and goods are consumed long after they are produced. The opposition to the government taking on this function is based on the sound ground that it has the advantage of unlimited funds; it can't go broke within a term of centuries, no matter what speculative mistakes it makes.

The butter and egg men and some of the grain exchanges are becoming louder in their condemnation of such government activity; they are insistent on their right to make and lose money and honestly confident that no more economical system of distribution can be founded by legislation.

FAVORS EXISTING RATES ON COAL TO LAKE PORTS

Chicago hearings by the interstate commerce commission on a proposal to make rates on lake cargo coal, which would force southern mines to pay proportionately more to get their coal to the lakeside, continued yesterday.

Coal operators of Ohio and Pennsylvania claim that southern operators in West Virginia and Kentucky, who now pay 35 cents a ton more for hauling to Lake Erie ports than their closer in competitors, are unduly favored.

F. H. Whitaker, vice president of the Chesapeake and Ohio road serving the southern mines, testified that any widening of the differential would force the southern mines completely out of this market. He stated that economic depression would follow in all business served by his railroad if the difference in freight rates was made greater, and asked that the commission let the present situation stay unchanged.

American Eagle Aircraft Votes Capital Reduction

Kansas City, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Stockholders of the American Eagle Aircraft corporation of Delaware have voted to convert the capital stock from 2 million to 200,000 shares of no par value stock and to issue $500,000 of 6½ per cent debenture bonds. The action was erroneously reported yesterday to have effected a reduction from 2 million dollars to $200,000. The Associated Press is glad to make this correction.

BARS INTERVENORS FOR MODIFICATION OF CONSENT DECREE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—The District of Columbia Supreme court today denied the National American Live Stock association, the National Wool Growers association, the Kansas Live Stock association, and the Texas and Southwestern Live Stock association permission to intervene in the petitions for modification of the packers' consent decree.

Briefs seeking the right to intervene in the case, hearings on which opened today before Justice Jennings Bailey, were filed a week ago. Justice Bailey held that to allow the live stock groups to intervene would open the doors to all parties. He gave them the right, however, to file briefs setting forth their views.

Petitioners in the case are Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. of Chicago, who are seeking to be released from the agreement whereby they bound themselves not to engage in retailing food products, among them fish, vegetables, fruits, confectionery, preserves, coffee and tea, flour, bread, cereals, sugar, and milk.

Attorney Frank Hogan, counsel for the packers, in his opening argument pointed out that the food bill of the United States in 1929 was six billion dollars. Two-thirds of the food sales, he said, were handled by chain stores. Stressing the growth of the chain store groceries, he asserted that the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company did business amounting to more than a billion dollars in 1929, as compared to 119 million in 1920. Such gigantic concerns, he argued, could not be put out of business by packers' retail stores. Hogan declared that the A. & P. stores in 1929 realized a profit of 2½ cents on each dollar sale, while Swift & Co. realized only 1⅛ cents and Armour & Co. less than 1 cent.

Best Cattle, Hogs and Lambs Coining Money

Best grades of all classes of live stock met good demand yesterday. Prime yearling steers advanced to a new high for the season at $13.35, while top hogs brought $10.60, highest in two weeks, and lambs at $9.00 equaled the highest since middle of last month.

Combined receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at the seven leading markets the first two days of this week at 492,000 compare with 568,000 a week ago, and with 490,000 a year ago.

Strong to 15c higher prices were paid for the supply of hogs yesterday, prime 271 lb. butchers selling at $10.60, while the general average price showed 10c gain at $9.70. The average was above the corresponding day in 1929 for the first time since middle of September.

Another advance in the wholesale market for fresh pork loins at Chicago, coupled with brisk demand on eastern account, resulted in a quick clearance of hogs soon after the opening. Only 4,000 remained at the close. Shippers in two days bought 17,200 head at Chicago, against 15,531 a week ago, in spite of a decrease of 11,700 in receipts.

Hog Futures Higher.

Hog futures sold slowly, but at steady to 10c higher prices yesterday. January light brought $9.00. Mediums for October opened at $9.75 and closed at $9.70. Butchers averaging 210@260 lbs. were bid $10.50 for today's delivery, but there were no offers at this figure. However, sellers were willing to deliver that range of weight next Friday at $10.50. Light weight packing sows for today were bid $9.75.

Light and yearling steers sold quickly at advanced prices yesterday, while medium and weighty stock finished weak when an estimate of 11,000 was posted for today. Twenty-eight Illinois yearlings averaging 934 lbs. topped at $13.35, while a string of 115 averaging 1,013 lbs. brought $13.15. Prime 1,319 lb. beeves brought $12.60.

Bulk of all steers sold at $9.50@12.00, while a fair number of plain kinds sold at $8.50 and below. Butcher stock sold mostly steady. Stockers and feeders were unchanged. Calves ruled steady to unevenly lower.

Feeding Lambs Advance.

Feeding lambs scored the first advance in four weeks on yesterday's trade, selling mostly 25c above the close of last week. Fancy light black face stock is quoted up to $7.25. Bulk of white face feeders sold at $6.00@6.50.

Fat lambs changed hands quickly at strong to 25c higher prices, nineteen carloads of westerns, mostly from Colorado, making the $9.00 line. Bulk of natives sold at $8.25@8.50, with packers and city butchers paying $8.75 at the finish. Aged sheep and yearlings sold steady to 25c higher.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs and 23,000 sheep, against 8,522 cattle, 15,982 hogs and 22,388 sheep the previous Wednesday and 11,344 cattle, 20,293 hogs and 22,690 sheep a year ago.

WALGREEN DRUG STORES' SALES MOUNT 3.9%

Sales of Walgreen drug stores for September were $4,082,342, as against $3,927,687 for September, 1929, an increase of $154,653 or 3.9 per cent, the company announced last night.

For the nine months of 1930 sales were $38,686,746, as against $33,120,919 for the same period in 1929, an increase of $5,565,826 or 16.8 per cent. The total number of stores being operated on Sept. 30 was 440.

Richard Whitney, 'Change Head, Talks Here Friday

"Speculation" is the subject of the address to be delivered by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, Friday evening before the Illinois Chamber of Commerce at the Stevens hotel. The occasion will be the twelfth annual banquet of the commerce body. More than 1,000 leaders in business and industry will attend the meeting. Mr Whitney's address will be broadcast between 9 and 9:30 o'clock by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 7.—There was a ruthless, red-handed showdown on the floor of the New York Stock exchange today. The bear forces, goaded to defiance by the exchange's semi-official threat to put an end to destructive speculative selling, hurled down the gage of battle at the very outset of trading and proceeded to launch one of the most vicious selling drives of their whole current campaign.

Raid after raid was made upon a selected group of leaders and assorted specialties and prices were battered to new low levels for the year throughout the list as big bundles of high-priced shares of one great corporation after another went under the hammer. By noon a large majority of all the issues listed had established fresh 1930 minimums with losses ranging anywhere from 1 to 10 points.

Declaration of War.

The declaration of war took the form of a warning that brokers risk disciplinary action for selling or assisting in the sale of securities "for the purpose of bringing about a condition of demoralization in which prices do not fairly reflect market values." Its purpose was to put an end to reckless selling campaigns which, Wall street operators said, would be to discourage short selling

EUROPEAN REPRESENTATIVE—LONDON

THERE ARE MANY ACTUAL BARGAINS IN BONDS TODAY

The public mind swings from one extreme to the other... Last year marked the climax of a period during which the conservative attitude toward investment was singularly lacking. The reaction of many is now to seek ultra-safety... causing unusual demand for the limited supply of that type of bonds which are best known and most marketable. The usual market for so-called "gilt-edged" bonds is thus expanded and prices have gone up accordingly.

Not everybody needs the kind of bonds which have been most in demand lately... Banks, insurance companies, institutions, trustees and corporations are logically the largest purchasers of highly marketable issues... to provide quickly liquidable assets or to meet requirements of law governing their investments... Most individual investors' needs are likely to be better met by sound bonds which afford ample safety... and with it the highest consistent rate of income.

Not since 1920-21 has there been a time when bonds of the sort which may be put away and safely held for income, could be obtained at prices and at rates of yield comparable to those available today.

Many readers of this statement may have purchased bond income back in 1920-21 and enjoyed, meanwhile, a rate of return which seemed too good to be true... Looking back over the records of that former period of bond bargains, we find that this house was then offering a number of diversified 5 per cent coupon bonds at prices to yield the investor from 6.90 per cent to 13.20 per cent in income... Now, many of these same bonds are selling to yield from 4.30 per cent to 6.80 per cent... Such financial history has a way of repeating itself.

Twenty-five Opportunities for Safe Investment at High Yield

From among the list of issues underwritten by ourselves in recent years... issues which we know at first hand to be sound... there are some twenty-five which, at today's market, yield approximately from 6.06 per cent to 11.05 per cent. In variety, type of security, and range of maturities, there are issues that will fit logically into almost any investment account where well-secured income is the objective.

May we emphasize this... these outstanding bond values to which we refer are issues which, for the most part, we do not have on hand to sell... we must buy them on the open market to fill orders... Our purpose in calling attention to them is primarily to point out to our customers, and others, the sound intrinsic values and the extraordinary rate of yield now available to investors who wish to take advantage of current conditions in the bond market... It is also our belief that these distinct bargains in investment bonds will not remain available for very long... Phone, write or call if you are interested in going over this list to consider and select issues suitable for your own purposes.

MAY ADD TWENTY STORY TOWER TO PLAISANCE HOTEL

New Owner Has Eye on 1933 World's Fair.

BY AL CHASE.

Glendon A. Richards of Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday purchased the Plaisance hotel at the southwest corner of Stony Island avenue and the Midway. Mr. Richards heads the Plaisance Hotel corporation, just formed, which will own and operate the hotel.

The new owners, it was stated, already are looking forward to the 1933 World's Fair business and contemplate erecting either a 20 story tower in the rear of the hotel or else adding four more floors on top of the present eight story structure. The hotel is to be entirely refurnished.

WILL ADD 50% to Floor Space.

Either of the contemplated improvements will add approximately 50 per cent to the present capacity of the hotel. The Plaisance was opened for business on May 1, 1921. It has 248 rooms divided into 126 housekeeping suites. The building is of concrete throughout, both floors and walls. The new manager is C. C. Sadler of Grand Rapids and Detroit.

Mr. Richards purchased the property, ground, building and contents, from the Levitt Building corporation, an undisclosed consideration, subject to $500,000. A part purchase money mortgage of $37,000 was given to Mr. Richards. The building was originally owned by the Plaisance Hotel corporation, which has since been dissolved, and later it was purchased by Samuel Levitt, who died last December.

Has $400,000 Capital.

The new Plaisance Hotel corporation has a capital stock of $400,000. The incorporators are: Mr. Richards, Charles F. McElroy and Walter Wilson Pearson. Builder, has sold his Illois Grader, twelve flat building at 1424-26 ome avenue, to Nicholas Steinmetz, a reported $99,000, subject to $54,- Harton avenue was given in part ment at $45,000. John J. Kern & were brokers and will continue to nage the apartment property.

SUGAR.

W YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A firmer undertone and a much better demand featured the sugar market today, with prices about 5 higher at 3.14c for spots, duty paid. Futures were more than recovered in price that the Cuban committee seeking cancellation of the sugar industry was meeting with more general approval in Cuba, and Java producers were also more friendly to the stabilization plans. Final prices were 2 to 3 points above the previous close. Estimated sales, 40,150 tons. Prices follow:

DEFIANT BEARS TURN BIG GUNS ON STOCK LIST

of all kinds, although the business conduct committee of the exchange made it plain it was only concerned with "bear raiding."

As the first step in the campaign, the conduct committee called several brokers before it and questioned them at length regarding recent operations. The penalty for trading operations which have the effect of demoralizing the market ordinarily is suspension of membership, although the exchange authorities have the power to order expulsion.

Public Aids Professionals.

Liquidation by a thoroughly depressed public aided the professional short selling campaign—as it usually does on such occasions. So openly defiant did some of the bears become of the measures being taken to end their rampage that some brokers reported having received—and, in some instances, refused—orders to sell stock "at the lowest prices obtainable," short selling orders are usually "at the market."

Some commentators were sending out today that the exchange could, if it believed such measures necessary, move quickly to put at least a temporary halt to short selling, or bear raiding. The means to that end is right at the fingertips of the authorities of the institution. The fact remains that the trader selling a stock for short account must move to protect his position through the medium of "borrowing stock" against such a transaction. Thus, it is pointed out, the stock exchange could make it mighty difficult to borrow, admonishing member firms against lending securities to be so used.

Continues Unabated.

The selling continued practically unabated up to the last hour. Then the market, short position evidently became overcrowded and a rally developed which restored 1 to 3 points among the leading stocks. Closing prices, however, were generally lower, with recessions of 1 to 4 points predominating.

Today's selling had all the earmarks of a deliberately planned offensive designed to show defiance to the stock exchange authorities and to the state attorney general's office, which joined the war on professional shorts by promising prosecution of traders guilty of circulating false rumors with the intention of "breaking" the

LONGS UNLOAD WHEAT, CAUSING DROP IN PRICES

Net Losses Are 2½@2½c; Corn Declines.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Weakness in the New York stock market and more favorable weather conditions in Argentina and Australia proved too much of a handicap for the bulls in wheat and prices dropped as much as 3c from Monday's finish as longs started to unload. An overbought condition was disclosed during the day and, while there was a moderate rally from the inside figures, net losses were 2¼@2½c, with December closing at 80@80¼c March 83⅝@84c, and May 86⅝@87c.

A break of 3¼@3½c in wheat futures at Winnipeg added to the feeling of pessimism, which was in strong contrast to the bullish sentiment so much in evidence of late. At times there was only a fair class of buying. The continued lack of foreign demand for North American cash wheat, with reports that Russia had several cargoes of unsold grain at United Kingdom ports and was offering it at low prices, were factors that inclined longs to take the selling side.

Bullish news attracted little attention, although the world's available supplies increased only 5,762,000 bu for the week and are 429,461,000 bu, compared with 436,481,000 bu in 1929. This was the first time in many months that the total has been less than during the corresponding figures of a year ago.

Spreaders Sell Wheat.

Spreading operations between corn and wheat, the latter being sold, was a factor in making the decline. Liverpool declined ⅝@2d, the latter on May. Traders there were selling freely on the lack of demand for cash wheat and on reports of further rains in Australia. However, it was claimed that the leading producing area in the latter country had received only showers. Good rains fell over the American winter wheat belt, which will be highly beneficial, and the forecast indicated further precipitation.

Reports that the decline in wheat futures here. Part of the selling during the day was regarded as having been by eastern interests who were recently on the buying side.

A local house reported selling 40,000 bu durum wheat to the New England trade for feeding purposes during the day, and it is understood that wheat is being heavily substituted for corn in chicken feed throughout the country owing to the relatively low price. Buenos Aires futures closed 1⅝@1⅝c lower, with October at 72⅞c or ⅛c above the same delivery in Winnipeg.

Corn Resists Pressure.

Wet weather over the corn belt, with further reports of disappointing husking returns, caused that market to show stubborn resistance to pressure. Weakness in wheat, however, carried prices lower and the finish was at net losses of 1¼@1½c, with December 84¼@84⅝c, March 35⅞@86c, and May 87⅛@87½c at the last. There was spreading and back spreading between wheat and corn. Country offerings to arrive were small, and the eastern demand rather slow. May corn at the last was nearly 1c over May wheat, compared with a fractional discount the previous day.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bullish sentiment in wheat has had a sharp jolt, due largely to continued weakness and decline in the stock market, with eastern speculators more in evidence on the selling than the buying side and the general public not taking hold in the same forceful way that they did in the closing days of last week. Rains in the southern hemisphere and small export business have created a feeling in certain quarters that caution should be used on both sides of the market for the next few days.

One of the largest local traders expressed the opinion at the close that there was too much wheat in the world, provided Argentina and Australia raise good crops, and with the rains in the last two days prospects there have improved, he said. Asked as to corn, he expressed himself as bullish.

Monday, Oct. 13, will be a holiday on the Chicago Board of Trade to celebrate Columbus day. A number of other exchanges will also be closed.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Dr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 6:10 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. Only an hour before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and blames the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20, a clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always known to be fast.

Lettice Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then go to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked towards the vicarage.

Lawrence said Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol missing and thought Anne must have taken it.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an accomplice and is suspected of the theft of some valuable old silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe. His secretary, Gladys Cram, is also under suspicion.

The vicar receives notes from three women parishioners, Miss Hartnell, Miss Wetherby, and Mrs. Pew Ridley, asking him to call as they have important information to tell him about the murder. The first two implicate Mrs. Lestrange, a mysterious newcomer to the village, who is known to have called on Col. Protheroe the night before he died.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

THE DOCTOR'S SECRET.

"I am glad. Well, that is all I have to say. I wash my hands of the whole affair."

Mrs. Price Ridley leaned back and closed her eyes like one weary of the world. I thanked her and said good-by.

On the doorstep I ventured to ask Clara about her mistress' statement. "It's quite true, sir, I heard a sneeze. And it wasn't an ordinary sneeze either by any means."

Nothing about a crime is ever ordinary. The shot was not an ordinary kind of shot. The sneeze was not a usual kind of sneeze. It was, I presume, a special murderer's sneeze. I asked the girl what time this had been, but it was very vague—sometime between a quarter and half past six, she thought. Anyway, "it was before the mistress had the telephone call and we knew it had."

I asked her if she had heard a shot of any kind. And she said she had been something awful. After that, I placed very little credence in her statements.

I was just turning in at my own gate when I decided to pay a friend a visit.

Glancing at my watch I saw that I had just time for it before taking dressing. I went down the road to Haydock's house. He came out on the doorstep to meet me.

"I'm glad to see you," he said. "What's the news?"

I told him the latest Stone development.

"A high class thief," he commented. "Well, that explains a lot of things. He'd read up his subject, but he made slips from time to time to which Protheroe must have caught his out once. You remember the row they had. What do they think about the girl? Is she in it too?"

"Opinion as to that is undecided," I said. For my own part, I think the girl is all right.

"She's such a prize idiot," I added.

"Oh I wouldn't say that. She's rather shrewd, is Miss Gladys Cram. A

"Ha!" He hesitated. "Looks like picric acid. Where did you find it?"

I told him that I was worried about Hawes, and that I was anxious that he should get away for a real rest and change.

Something evasive came into his manner when I said this. His answer did not ring quite true.

"Yes," he said slowly. "I suppose that would be the best thing. Poor chap. Poor chap."

"I thought you didn't like him?"

"I don't—not much. But I'm sorry for a lot of people I don't like." He added after a minute or two, "I'm even sorry for Protheroe. Poor chap—nobody ever like him much. Too full of his own rectitude and too self-assertive. It's an unlovable mixture. He was always the same—even as a young man."

"I didn't know you knew him then?"

"Oh yes. When he lived in Westmoreland, I had a practice not far away. That's a long time ago now. Nearly twenty years."

"Is that all you came to say to me, Clement?"

I looked up with a start. Haydock was watching me with keen eyes. "There's something else, isn't there?" he said.

I nodded.

I had been uncertain whether to speak or not when I came in, but now I decided to do so. I like Haydock as well as any man I know. He is a splendid fellow in every way. I felt that what I had to tell might be useful to him.

I recited my interviews with Miss Hartnell and Miss Wetherby.

He was silent for a long time after I'd spoken.

"It's quite true, Clement," he said at last. "I've been trying to shield Mrs. Lestrange from any inconvenience that I could. As a matter of fact, she's an old friend. But that's not my only reason. That medical certificate of mine isn't the put up job you all think it was."

He paused and then said gravely.

"What?"

"She's a dying woman. I give her a month at longest. Do you wonder that I want to keep her from being badgered and questioned?"

He went on:

"When she turned into this road that evening, it was here she came—to this house."

"You haven't said so before."

"I didn't want to create talk. Six to seven isn't my time for seeing patients and every one knows that. But you can take my word for it that she was here."

"She wasn't here when I came for you, though. I mean when we discovered the body."

"No," he seemed perturbed. "She'd left—to keep an appointment."

"In what direction was the appointment? In her own house?"

"I don't know, Clement. On my honor, I don't know."

I believed him, but—

"And supposing an innocent man is hanged?" I said.

He shook his head.

"No," he said. "No one will be hanged for the murder of Colonel Protheroe. You can take my word for that."

But that is just what I could not do. And yet the certainty in his tone was very great.

"This man, Archer—"

"Perhaps not," I said dubiously.

Then I remembered something, and taking the little brownish crystal I had found in the wood from my pocket, I held it out to him and asked him what it was.

"That," I replied, "is Sherlock Holmes' secret."

He smiled.

"What is picric acid?"

"Well, it's an explosive."

"Yes, I know that, but it's got another use, hasn't it?"

He nodded.

"It's used medically—in solution for burns. Wonderful stuff."

I held out my hand and rather reluctantly he handed it back to me.

"It's of no consequence probably," I said. "But I found it in rather a unusual place."

"You won't tell me where?"

Rather childishly, I wouldn't.

He had his secrets. Well, I would have mine.

I was in a strange mood when I mounted the pulpit that night.

The church was unusually full. I cannot believe that it was the prospect of Hawes' preaching which had attracted so many. Hawes' sermons are sound and dogmatic. And if the news had got around that I was preaching myself, that would not have attracted them either. For my sermons are short and scholarly. Neither, I am afraid, can I attribute it to devotion.

Everybody had come, I concluded, to see who else was there, and possibly to exchange a little gossip on the church porch afterwards.

Haydock was in church, which is unusual, and also Lawrence Redding. And to my surprise, beside Lawrence I saw the white strained face of Hawes.

Birth Control Hailed Start of Civilization

British Preacher Censures Recent Anglican Ruling.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—"Without control birth would be a scandal. Society is only possible by the means of it," said the leading nonconformist, the Rev. F. W. Norwood, head of the famous City temple of London, today. This declaration was an attack on the utterances following the Lambeth conference of Angelican bishops.

The Rev. Mr. Norwood spoke as president of the Congregational Union of England and Wales at a meeting in south end today. He accused the Angelican bishops of dodging the fundamental issues, criticizing their conclusions regarding marriage, birth control and Christian unity.

The attitude of the Anglican bishops toward nonconformity made no appeal for the closer union of the two churches, he said, asserting that this year's Lambeth conference had firmly closed the door.

Asserting that the bishops were faced with issues they must attack fearlessly the Rev. Mr. Norwood characterized the conference findings as "tardy." "Marriage and sex are not in themselves religious phenomena. To speak of marriage as a sacrament is playing with language. To suppose that by any kind of ecclesiastical legerdemain that character can be imposed upon them is mere superstition. Nothing has more confused the issue than this priestly assumption."

The Anglican bishops created a mild sensation by pronouncing the words of "birth control." The Rev. Mr. Norwood added that "when a man restrains his natural impulses, because he has not yet found his mate, he is exercising birth control. When having found his mate he yet waits until he can establish a satisfactory home he is again exercising birth control. Surely after that he is not the victim of a blind impulse."

The Lambeth conference attitude toward birth control was defended by Bishop of Winchester, Dr. F. T. Woods, at the opening of the Anglican church congress at Newport, Monmouthshire today.

"To say the bishops advocated birth control simply is not true," he declared. "What we have tried to do is to put Christian principles into the situation which is confused and conflicting. We have put the moral crux in a position from which it can never be dislodged, namely, the motive rather than the method."

"To condemn the scientific method, properly used and in circumstances morally justifiable, is in itself immoral, is an attitude which cannot be consistent at all either in reason or conscience."

Erin Bars More Books.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 7.—Three books on birth control advocating the unantural prevention of conception were banned by the Irish Free State in a notice published in an official journal today.

They were "Wise Wedlock," by Dr. Courtenay Bede; "Truth About Birth Control," by George Ryley Scott, and "The Why and How of Birth Control," by Dr. Stewart Adamson.

The New Leader Review was prohibited for three months; also The Exchange and Mart of London. "Painted Veils," by James Huneker, also was prohibited, because of its general tendency. This was the biggest list of prohibitions for some time.

That town, which played a prominent part in the early history of the state, was the first county seat of Edwards county, which embraced about one-third of Illinois and much of Wisconsin. It was the county seat from 1815 to 1821. Then it was abandoned.

Young Chicago Relied Upon to Help City

Educator Blames Adults for Setbacks.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Stumbling blocks thrown in the paths of young people by adults are the most serious drawbacks to the permanent effectiveness of citizenship training provided by Chicago public schools. That opinion, backed by what he declared to be 35 years' experience and observation, was announced yesterday by Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of Chicago schools. He addressed a group of business and professional men, in the interest of the Young People's Civic council, at the Hotel Sherman.

The council, seeking 2,000 new members, was organized to build "an organization of young citizens, irrespective of party, creed, class or color which shall be a real influence for good in the life of the city." Mr. Buck stated the membership of the council is made up of "the cream of the younger life of the city." He indorsed the movement as being one that would crystalize the civic teaching of the schools and tend to make ballot boxes reflect higher public intelligence in the future.

Mr. Buck cited the litter of paper in the parks before, during and after celebrations and declared that such messes are not made by children but by grownups who should know better. He also told of the work of the street crossing patrols, operated by boys to protect children from motorists. Mr. Buck said that patrol work was a phase of citizenship training offered by public schools.

Arthur Perrow, official of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, who presided at the meeting, announced that Julius Rosenwald had agreed to contribute 10 per cent of the cost of operating the young peoples' council. Other means to get funds for the program of expansion were discussed at the meeting. Angus S. Hibbard, retired capitalist, was present and indorsed the work of the council.

Listed among the officers and directors of the council are Frank J. Loesch, Rabbi Louis L. Mann, W. E. J. Gratz, editor of the Epworth Herald; Chief Justice John P. McGoorty, of the Criminal court, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel and John Nuveen Jr. The president of the council is S. J. Duncan Clark, editorial writer of the Evening Post and Mrs. Mabel P. Simpson is the executive director.

Calls Submarines Safer Than Planes for Polar Exploring

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Vilhjalmur Stefannson, Arctic explorer, arrived on the liner Majestic today with the statement that the submarine is safer and more practical than the airplane as a means of reaching the north pole.

Mr. Stefannson, who has been lecturing for three months at Cambridge university, expressed the belief that Sir George Hubert Wilkins, his first aid on the arctic expedition of 1913-1916, successfully will negotiate his underground water venture to the polar cap.

The explorer corrected a popular belief that the arctic seas are filled with deep-reaching icebergs and said there were none within 400 miles of the pole. "There are ice floes," he said, "but these floes are of no great depth and a submarine might pass under them easily."

As to the value of the undersea passage, Mr Stefannson declared that in the event of a war between a European and an Asiatic power that route would be used to transport quickly supplies and ammunition.

"The human race has centered its activities on the northern part of the globe," he said, and will continue its growth and population in that area.

"In this development there must be assurance of communications and supplies, and if Wilkins demonstrates that a submarine may successfully negotiate the polar cap, then frozen Canada around Hudson bay, Russia and Siberia, become new fields for man's exploitation."

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Dramatic League of Chicago has inaugurated its second season at the Princess theater with "Topaze," a comedy whose Parisian vogue is said to have been reflected by runs in nearly every capital of Europe. I fear, however, that I shall have to pigeonhole it in my memoirs, with "Lightnin'" and "Abie's Irish Rose," as a play of marked popularity to which my easy enthusiasms have failed to respond. Although fairly clever, and somewhat out of the rut of Gallic drama as we find it in American adaptation, "Topaze" left me cold.

Perhaps this is not my year to appreciate the hard logic of the French temperament when it goes in for ironical comedy. Perhaps, in the depiction of the "boob" as hero, I like to find a glimmer of the reasoning faculty dawning in the mind of the poor chump before the last curtain falls. Perhaps the history of the witless schoolmaster whose name gives the play its title has not been sentimentalized enough to suit my midwestern taste. Perhaps the avid grafting of French officialdom, which forms the background of the plot, is sadly lacking in the sense of humor which seems to accompany American corruption. . . . Well, anyway, this "Topaze," a good enough little play, well acted, sent me away without a thrill to patter off on my typewriter.

The first act, however, has charm. It shows the humble Topaze, a meek creature on the faculty of a school which is apparently the Dotheboys Hall of France, at his daily chores. He causes you to shudder for the educational system of our great sister republic, but you can't help liking the poor worm. He faces his class of urchins in smocks with a stuffed skunk perched on his desk as an object lesson in natural history.

He endeavors to pound into their obdurate heads the moral beauty of such maxims as "Ill-gotten gains are not worth while." But because he cannot lie to keep the tuition fees pouring into the head master's pocket, he loses his little job. You feel sorry for him as he walks out to face the world with nothing but his stuffed skunk to console him. Up to that point, Topaze has charm.

But in the following acts Topaze is merely a simpleton in an Arabian Nights fantasy. Luck, and a woman's wiles, convert him into the tool and mask of a jobbing politician; and somehow he ceases to be a quaint Dickensian figure and becomes a fixed formula in a plot. He is human no longer; he is merely a French symbol for a hopeless "boob." Even his love for the fine lady who got him into the grafting business—a kept woman, incidentally—fails to put life into the character. He wins her heart by his hopeless idiocy, but the cheerful ending leaves one with the impression that plays like "Topaze" should never be written by Frenchmen. They are not quite kind enough to dumb animals.

Frank Morgan plays the title rôle effectively, but permits a certain monotony to creep into his characterization through the persistent use of mayonnaise on the voice. His luscious lubrication of speech becomes slightly tedious. Clarence Derwent is crisp and Gallic, with a shade on the Semitic side, as the arch-grafter. Catherine Willard is suave and worldly as the cozening lady of doubtful status who ruins and rebuilds the musty little hero.

Women Favor Variable Lines of Skirt Length

Battle of Fashions Thus Reaches Armistice.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Halcyon days should be here for the fashion bureau. For once the makers of styles and the women who wear them are practically unanimous in approval of one of the most important features of any mode—the variable skirt lengths. Feminine psychology is satisfied thereby.

More than that. The much heralded revolt against the dictates of Paris that flared up when extreme short skirts were banned, thus dooming what wits termed the "freedom of the knees," has ended in an armistice, actually complete victory for the designers. But women in general and Chicago women in particular don't seem to mind. They like it.

More specifically, they echoed yesterday, one by one, the relieved sigh of one of their number who appeared for dinner in a gown that all but touched the floor. When her husband commented on its length, she retorted: "Yes, thank God I'm a lady again."

Something about the silken folds rustling against her ankles does admittedly alter the attitude of the woman who wears the added inches. Her manners are apt to borrow a certain formality from the gown, not so different basically from the days when she was a little girl "playing lady" in her mother's long dresses.

That day is dead, however, society women averred yesterday, when street costumes aided and abetted the street sweeper. Memories of those days of generous yardage and frequent accidents in tripping on long skirts brought shudders and chuckles, but no regrets. Today's street costume, with its smartly moderate hem, neither hugging the knee nor impeding the step, is ideal both in taste and in utility, was the consensus.

Some of those who expressed themselves on the matter can recall the old days when width and length were necessary adjuncts to fashion. Others, among the smartest members of the younger social world, had not that experience. Of them all, only Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, widely and appreciatively known both in social and in welfare circles, reserved judgment on the long gowns.

"Shorter skirts were so much more comfortable and so much healthier," she explained, "I am not in favor of the longer ones at all. For evening? Well—I haven't thought about it a great deal, but at least for house and street I'm voting for the shorter ones."

Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger also qualified her approval of the extremely long formal gowns.

"Not touching the floor—no!" she stipulated. "For afternoon and for evening I like a length just to the top of the instep, and perhaps ankle length, at most. That's the length I'm having my fall gowns made. For street, of course, I think the present length is perfect."

Mrs. Frank G. Logan enthusiastically indorsed the formal length of the season, saying: "Why, they're simply charming. So lovely to wear, and they do have so much character—I'm sure one actually does feel more ladylike in them. But that length would be impossible for street wear."

Mrs. Charles King Corsant practically repeated Mrs. Logan. "For evening wear the long dresses are marvelous," she averred. "Especially on a person who is inclined to be short. But we'll never go back to the extreme length for street garments."

Three of the models selected for the St. Luke's benefit fashion show Oct. 21 united in almost identical expressions of approval of the two accepted lengths for skirts.

"It's quite true that one does borrow a different character from these long, formal gowns," agreed Mrs. Katherine Lytton Benello. "They are decidedly 'ladylike.' For street length I think a woman should choose what is most becoming to her individuality."

"Surely, one does feel the influence of the long formal dresses," was Mrs. Harold Strotz's opinion. "Ladylike is about the proper word. And for street wear they should not be a bit shorter than they are. It's the most universally becoming length that present street fashions show."

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. believed the longer evening gowns "tend to make one look much more graceful."

"I think the present street costumes make one appear a bit older; nevertheless, I believe that only the very young should indulge in extremely brief skirts. The present street length is excellent," she added.

Mrs. Upham Resumes Various Charity Work

BY THALIA

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, back from a summer vacation at her camp in Keene Valley in the Adirondack mountains, is working with her customary vigor on the various philanthropic and social welfare activities in which she is engaged.

She is to go on Friday to Wheeling, W. Va., to a meeting of the advisory board of the Women's Federal Industrial institution, of which she is a member. On her return she will stop in Louisville to attend a peace congress there. When she returns next week she is planning to give a tea to corral the members of the Chicago committee for the Frontier Nursing service, of which Mrs. Mary Breckinridge is president, for the purpose of meeting Mrs. John C. Gardner. Mrs. Gardner has come to live in Chicago from Fort Smith, Ark., to be executive secretary for the Frontier Nursing service and to organize support for that cause here.

A Chicago committee, of which Mrs. Upham is the retiring chairman, has been in existence for the last 25 years and includes Mrs. Frederick Haskell, Mrs. David Dangler, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munroe, Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Frankenthal Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William V. Kelley, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Sophonisba Breckinridge, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings. The purpose of the service is to send nurses on horseback into the isolated regions of the Kentucky mountains.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge is to arrive today from the east to prepare for the festival of chamber music which she is giving next week in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum. Accompanying her will be a party of 33 musicians of world-wide distinction, to be Mrs. Coolidge's guests during their stay here and to appear in the festival series. Each of them will feature important conductors, composers, or musicians. Mrs. Coolidge has invited about 1,100 of her friends to hear this glorified sort of continued musicale party.

The Cliff Dwellers are to give a dinner for Mrs. Coolidge on Monday evening, to which are invited also the musicians participating in the festival. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague Coolidge, have been in Honolulu this summer and are to be here for the festival also.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Ada Josephine Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Alden Bruce of Boston, Mass., and Henry Kent Chapin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kent Chapin of 2430 Lake Shore avenue, which is to take place on June 14 in Boston. The ceremony is to be performed at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the Copley-Plaza hotel, with a small group of relatives and friends present. The bride is to have only one attendant, and Charles A. Chapin, brother of the bridegroom-elect, is to be best man for his brother. Mr. and Mrs. Chapin and his bride are taking a trip to the West Indies cruise for their honeymoon and are to reside with his parents this winter.

The Chicago board of Northwestern university settlement is holding its first meeting of the season and luncheon at the residence of Mrs. Henry K. Chapin, 2430 Lake View avenue. Officers of the board include Mrs. James Offield, Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., Mrs. Edwin Gelpp, Mrs. Nathan W. MacChesney, Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. Melvin Traylor, and Mrs. John Hagey.

Mrs. Edward Hines is to be hostess at the weekly luncheon meeting of the opera box committee to be held this week at the Casino.

Mrs. Stewart Warren Towle Jr., the former Janice McNear, is coming from Honolulu this month for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webber McNear of 1320 North Dearborn street. Mrs. Towle hasn't been home since her marriage a year ago, in June, 21, to the handsome young aviator, as they departed soon after their wedding for Lieut. Towle's station in Honolulu. She is to arrive about the 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hill have come into town from Lake Forest and have opened their apartment at 21 East Bellevue street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Stevens have moved from 936 Lake Shore drive and have taken an apartment at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Xavier L. Otis has returned from her summer place at Eau Claire, Wis., and is at the Drake hotel.

Three Winnetka girls, Margaret Street, younger sister of Miss Katherine and Miss Jeanne Street, are making their debut this year, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Street; Gretchen Onderdonk, daughter of the J. Lawrence Onderdonks, and Barbara Ann Sargent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sargent, have been invited to enter their first year at Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C.

U. of Ill. President Says State Colleges' Work Must Expand

Speaking before 400 Rotarians at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday, President Harry W. Chase of the University of Illinois said the responsibility of state universities is expansion to accommodate more students rather than to select them. Rowland Haynes, secretary of the University of Chicago and president of the Rotary club; President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, and President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago also sat at the speakers' table.

"The process of higher education has grown to enormous proportions in the last thirty years," President Chase said.

"In 1900, 2.8% of the population of college age were going to college. Today, 18% are enrolled. There are 46 state universities that enroll one student in every five attending college today. They give one bachelor's degree in every four and one advanced degree in every three."

Quaint Art Objects of Spanish Indian Lineage Are Shown

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Indian Trading Post has long been a mecca to those who appreciate the quaint and sometimes lovely things in primitive art. Today a particularly unusual exhibit opens there. Celso Gallegos, descended from the ancient Spanish Conquistadores, today an old man of trembling frame, sacristan of the Church of San Isidro, in Agua Fria, a suburb of Santa Fé, N. M., is showing a number of carvings and a few embroideries.

Celso Gallegos comes naturally by his gift. His grandfather was a santo maker. A santo maker is one who makes saints, from wood or clay. The little figures are very much like the Russian ikons, simple, curious, and quaint, but endowed in the eyes of the believer with miraculous powers. Santa Fé had many of these santo makers in former days; now only a handful survive and their carving is sold for curios to the traveler.

About five miles from Santa Fé is Gallegos' house. At its door are various figures—trees with vivid birds, a burro, deer or a tiny cart with oxen to draw it. Little saints are here, too, as well as inside. This bent, frail old man can carve animals with the same freshness that distinguishes his favorite, Our Lady of Guadelupe, or that other saint, San Ysidro, the patron saint of agriculture. There are bright colored embroideries on the walls and tables. Gallegos makes pictures, primitive and fascinating, with bright yarns on burlap.

Some of all of these have been brought to the Indian Trading Post and they make an exhibiton of unusual charm. They are in tune with the modern feeling of today, straightforward, simple, divested of all unnecessary trappings, and essentially human. They are a word from the old to the new; a whisper from the primitive to the cultured. They may be admired without reservation, for in the eyes of the sophisticate they are acceptable. You need not be afraid to be enthusiastic about them.

Percy Lawson-Johnston Weds Miss Alice Kenny

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Capt. Percy Lawson-Johnston, of the Scots Guards reserve, and a brother of Lord Luke of Pavenham, tonight informed this correspondent it was he and not Capt. Lawson Johnson, Lord Luke's eldest son, who was married to Miss Alice Kenny, daughter of William F. Kenny of New York, at Marlow on Saturday, as was earlier reported here.

Capt. Percy, who is a son of the late John Lawson-Johnston of London, added that the ceremony was held at Mr. Kenny's country house "Stoney Ware" at Marlow, and that representatives of both families were present. When asked whether the ceremony was performed under a special license of the Church of England, which is the usual process whereby marriages are solemnized in private houses, Capt. Percy replied, "I am going to say nothing whatsoever about it."

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The fifth Anatolian expedition of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago left for home today after a successful archaeological summer, despite the burning heat of Anatolia and the menace of malaria.

The expedition, led by Dr. Hans Henning van der Osten and Richard Martin of Chicago, succeeded in reaching the deepest level of Asia Minor's buried history yet disclosed by archaeologists.

That was the discovery of a neolithic level at Aleshar, about 80 feet below the top of an ancient citadel wall. There was bared a fragment of a wooden roof dating at least to 10,000 B. C.

The Chicagoans thus proved the existence of stone age man in Asia Minor where, through digging in the same mound at Aleshar they already had bared ten distinct settlements, including the first and second Hittite empire periods.

As the expedition left for America it carried the Turkish government's first archaeological loan to any foreigners, including a human skeleton 3,500 years old, and valuable tablets which American scientists will study in seeking to solve the Hittite mystery.

The Turkish government gave every assistance to the expedition, largely because of the interest of Mustapha Kemal, the ghazi, in Hittite research.

Bags Fossil Beasts.

PEIPING, China, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Bringing a record bag of prehistoric fossils, the central Asiatic expedition, led by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, the American anthropologist, returned here today after five months in the Gobi desert.

Fossils representing about 75 different species, several of them new to science, have been found and are expected to throw much additional light on the evolution and dispersal of animal life millions of years ago. No human remains thus far have been discovered, but Dr. Andrews does not consider that this rules out the possibility that forerunners of the Peking man yet may be found in the Gobi region.

One of the most important finds of the expedition, apart from the mastodons discovered in a bog and reported on July 25, was a fossil deposit yielding the teeth, jaws, skulls, and other parts of a coryphodon, belonging to the ambylopod order, which in general appearance was somewhat like a long legged hippopotamus, to which, however, it bears no scientific relationship.

The party also found the skulls and jaws of a chalicotheres, belonging to the same group as the horse, rhinoceros, and tapir, but much more primitive than the type previously found in Europe and America. This was a hoofed animal in every way, but with a great claw instead of a flattened hoof.

SPEED MANIA CURBS MUSIC PATRONAGE, PADEREWSKI SAYS

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Radio, according to Ignace Jan Paderewski, who arrived for a concert tour today, hasn't done anything especial to help music, but then it hasn't harmed it much either.

"The automobile," he said in his stateroom on the liner Paris, "means speed. And speed is a form of intoxication. Whereas people used to like to spend three or four hours listening to music, now they prefer the intoxication of speed, so they go out in their automobiles instead."

The pianist, who is 72 years old, arrived for a tour of 75 concerts. He practiced all the way over, he said, spending about four hours a day at the keyboard.

"I used to spend eight to twelve hours a day," he said and smiled, brushing back his great mop of gray hair, "but now four is enough. Not that I have grown any wiser, any more adept but I have learned how to concentrate, to make every minute count."

Despite the automobile, and with no special thanks to the radio, Paderewski said, America has grown tremendously in a musical way in the last decade.

Boy, 16, Resents Mother's Questions About Activities

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am extremely interested in your articles, especially as I have a boy of 16 who is becoming a problem.

"He seems to think himself a man and resents any little suggestions I make as to the hours and the company he keeps. I have been careful not to really interfere, but he even resents the little hints I make.

"Do you think this is just a passing phase and will he eventually be the same considerate boy he was before he acquired this feeling of independence?"

When a boy is at the age of yours and feels as he does, I think he needs tactful handling. It is quite natural for a boy of 16 to feel manly. Also, he should have more independence than he has ever had before.

On the other hand, he should decidedly not be allowed to cut loose from all restraint and keep any company and hours he pleases without your knowledge. If I were you, I should talk to him in a friendly way and try to make him see that it is for his own real good that you have his confidence —not that you want to nag him or that you distrust him, but that it is not well for him to keep his affairs from you. Also, that if he is not willing to tell you where he is going or has been, that you quite naturally wonder if he is doing what is good for him.

Are you companionable with him and interested in the things he is interested in? Does he feel free to bring his friends home? Has he any interest in sports—such as school athletics or the Y. M. C. A. might afford? That is always a wholesome interest and needs emphasis at this time. He might get over this phase without help, but I do not advise letting him run wild until he pulls out of it. You must make him realize that he is not yet a man and needs your guidance.

"The Psychology of the Adolescent," by Leta Hollingsworth, published by D. Appleton, N. Y. Price $2.50.

"Fathers and Sons," by Samuel Drury, published by Richard R. Smith, N. Y. Price $1.50.

These will give you ideas for yourself and also ideas that you can present to him.

Smoking Costume for Modern Sportswoman

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special correspondence.]—Practically all the girls smoke nowadays and the lack of pockets in the feminine mode has been a source of much annoyance to smart sportswomen. But that's all over now, girls, for not only are there pockets in almost everything except evening clothes, but Worth has designed a smoking costume for sports that's the last word in modern convenience.

He makes it of red corduroy, and you know that durable and lovely fabric is most popular with the French couturiers, this fall. The short-sleeved corduroy blouse has two breast pockets, one cartridge plaited to hold cigarettes and the other plain for matches or lighter. There is a notched collar and reveres of pale yellow jersey and the sleeves are cut in square notches at their edges. The skirt fits snugly round the hips and the sides are circular. A red patent leather belt marks the natural waistline.

Worth makes a red silk cardigan to wear with this frock that is hand knitted in exactly the same wale as the corduroy. It is trimmed with slightly wider-ribbed bands and one of these bands set in at the waistline from each side of the front forms a belt that blouses the jacket slightly. A red and yellow knitted silk scarf and beret finished with a red silk tassel complete the costume. The oxfords are of dark, red-brown box calf.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Seven recommendations for curbing of the European corn borer are being broadcast by Dr. W. L. Burlison, head of the agronomy department, and A. L. Young, member of the farm mechanics department of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois.

Quarantine regulations of the United States and Canada, as well as of state and provincial governments, should be supported and encouraged by all agencies and individuals interested in the welfare of American agriculture, it is said. The two Illinois men are members of a joint committee appointed by five national agricultural societies—the American Association of Economic Entomologists, American Society of Agronomy, American Society of Agricultural Engineers, American Farm Economics association, and the American Society of Animal Production.

Additional recommendations ask for continuation of studies in parasitic introductions, development of effective insecticides and their efficient application, strengthening of the extension agencies of the federal governments of the United States and Canada to coordinate educational programs relating to the corn borer, breeding of high yielding and tolerant varieties of corn, continuation of research with farm implements.

Substitute crops should be studies for their use and feeding value, the national committee agrees. Economic factors, such as the influence of the corn borer and resultant control measures upon the cost of production and the quality of live stock products, also should be studied, according to the program which is proposed.

Question of Man's Revealing His Past Open to Discussion

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The question of whether a girl should tell of her past mistakes or keep her secrets darkly sealed is one that used to be met with more frequently in former days than now.

The question of whether a man is justified in revealing past events that are none to his credit to the girl who told him yes, she'd marry him, has arisen from time to time and it is with us again today in June's disclosure.

June planned to marry the man early next year. A few evenings ago he regaled her ears with a review of events in which other girls figured in a too familiar way. Having built up her own little idol of the man, June was flabbergasted. He was one man she thought with a past above suspicion. However, in an indulgent moment June told him she would forget. Later, she recalled her first generous decision and agrees that she can't forget. Now, the idea of marrying the damaged idol has lost appeal. Maybe there won't be any wedding. If there is and June is one of those women who can't forget and won't forget because they prefer to remember, it will be well if the wedding is off.

But the incident invites discussion of whether the man is doing any good parading life events that he regrets or whether it weren't better to keep his lips sealed on them. I can't see where revelations of the sort make anybody any happier, unless the man gets a selfish kick out of having shifted his burden onto other shoulders.

It probably would take a man to disclose the psychology of a brother who succumbs to the temptation to tell everything to the woman he loves. A good many of them do it. Whether they enjoy the experience or whether it is their idea of fair play to come clean to a woman only a man can tell. Maybe it is the small-boy-confessing-to-his-mother complex, I don't know.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Quarrel Adjustment.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend and I quarreled. I wrote and apologized. What should I do if he doesn't accept my apology? ANXIOUS."

His refusal to accept your apology may be taken as an indication that he wishes to end the friendship. In such event you want to forget him.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Irene had just been impudent to her mother. Mother had been quite indifferent about it and said, "Run along. I don't want to have a little girl who talks like that."

Irene at once got out her hat and coat and went out. Her mother, watching which way she took, telephoned a friend en route. The friend stepped out and intercepted Irene by asking how her mother was today.

"How do I know? I don't live there any more," was the youngster's indignant retort. G. S.

Food Talk.

The Scotch are a living demonstration of the virtues of oatmeal. For generations they have eaten it, and for hardiness and general well being these people rate high. Porridge, muffins, scones, cakes and yeast breads are some of the most popular ways of serving oatmeal in Scotch households.

As a breakfast porridge oatmeal is one of the most popular of cereals in this country. It is one of the first cereals introduced into the baby's diet. Its dietetic value depends upon the fact that it is a whole grained cereal that supplies valuable minerals and vitamins.

Much work on this cereal has been done in nutrition laboratories. One of the most interesting experimental projects has been on the preparation of an irradiated oatmeal designed to supply the individual with that important antirachitic vitamin D.

Manufacturers have also done some experimenting. They have produced a quick cooking cereal. However, at least ten minutes of cooking is necessary for the short cooking variety. The flakes are smaller and some precooking reduces the time of cooking in the home. To my mind there is nothing better than the old fashioned kind, cooked slowly for at least one hour.

Long cooking brings out the full flavor and there is something most appealing in the appearance of the swollen flakes of the whole grain. Oatmeal should never be stirred during cooking, as this breaks up the flakes. I like to put oatmeal in cold water [1 cup oatmeal to 3 cups water with ¼ teaspoon salt] and bring it slowly to the boiling point. Then it may be put into a fireless cooker to remain over night or into a double boiler and cooked slowly for an hour.

Oatmeal is best served warm and always without sugar to children and adults if one can persuade them that the delicate flavor alone is good enough. Top milk or thin cream makes the perfect accompaniment.

So Few Women Understand

"IF I had only known!" How often this cry of anguish has broken from the lips of women . . . from women who find themselves old before their time . . . from women who failed to learn the vital importance of feminine hygiene.

Many physicians declare that rapid aging, and the many diseases heretofore deemed characteristic of women, are often traceable to lack of proper knowledge and cleanliness in matters of personal hygiene.

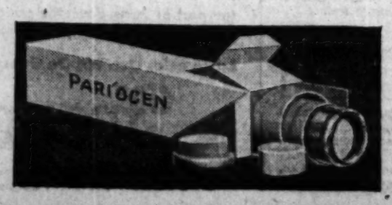
Modern women are fast learning that the preservation of their youth's vitality, charm and attractiveness, depends largely upon this one fundamental aspect of their toilette . . . upon feminine hygiene.

And modern women are fast learning that there is one antiseptic for this purpose that is both harmless and convenient. There is no longer need to dabble with dangerous poisons. There is no longer need to incommode yourself or suffer inconvenience.

Science's latest gift to women is this new antiseptic tablet, called Pariogen. Pariogen Tablets require no water or accessories, making feminine hygiene possible instantly, with no more inconvenience than washing one's hands.

Pariogen tablets are non-poisonous and contain no carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury, cresol or other caustics, yet destroy most objectionable germs in a few seconds. Pariogen tablets also eliminate objectionable odors. Gone are the dangers attending the use of poisons or caustics! Gone are the inconveniences of preparing solutions!

Pariogen tablets are packed twelve in a tube about the size of a fountain pen. (May be carried unobtrusively in a purse, making hygienic measures possible almost anywhere, no water or other accessories being required.) The price is only one dollar the tube. Complete instructions for their use are enclosed. Pariogen tablets may be obtained at any drug store or drug counter. American Drug & Chemical Company, Minneapolis, Minn.



PARIOGEN TABLETS

WITH THIS NEW BEIGE POWDER FROM PRIMROSE HOUSE

If you want more color in your skin, use rouge to get it, but never look for it in your powder box. Light shades leave the skin spotty. Extra dark powders make the face hard and old. Primrose Beige powder is exactly right. So fine in texture it actually becomes a part of the skin, giving that natural finish to the complexion that every woman wants. It will not cake or harden and the way it clings is a perpetual delight. A luxury of course, but you'll see how important if you'll just try a dollar's worth of this $3 powder.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

What's the Use of Smart Gowns if Posture's Ugly?

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The current mode of later afternoon and evening frock certainly calls for a woman different than the athletic, swaggering or boyish individual that marked an immediately past era of dress.

You have to have grace inside the fashionable dress of the moment or look it best. Just back from Europe with a stunning wardrobe as it hangs on display in the closet is one lady aware of her slightly rounded back, her bad posture, intends to join a class in corrective gymnastics. She was told by each and every modiste upon whom her purchases were made that she had better try to stand better, to correct her protruding abdomen and get to lift her feet more lightly.

"I won't wear a thing I brought back until I have made my figure over," said the girl.

"I put on that black satin, for instance," she added. "Black satin, I recall, calls for rare chic of person who is really smart. It did exactly what I expected—made me look years older. You must have youth in a satin frock. Velvet is different. So is chiffon."

Velvets and chiffons may be different, but even so they are going to do for that much more attractive type of the young person inside of them. All graceless movements are old movements. Children are naturally graceful, young girls, as a rule, have that quality of lightness and easy grace we speak of.

You are going to hear much about dress this coming season—from me, from women commenting on a sister who has or has not got it, from escorts as they sit on the sidelines watching the dancers on the floor. In fact, it threatens to take the place of the much vaunted IT in giving up a woman's appeal.

First thing to do is to find out if you are holding yourself well. Stand with your back against the wall, heels and shoulders touching the wall. Keep your arms close to your sides, your feeling "easy." Walk away from the wall in this position. Is it trying? Do you feel taut in order to hold the position? You shouldn't.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

A slender appearance lends youth, grace and charm to the woman inclined to overweight. This dress, with its gored skirt, is particularly slenderizing, as it hugs the figure and extends into rippling fullness at the hem. The bodice with the deep Vionnet front detracts from breadth, and the vestee offers a smart means for contrast.

The pattern, 2667, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 27 inch contrasting, and ¼ yard of 39 inch dark contrasting.

Why get one, two or more endorsers when you can borrow money ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY?

We prefer to loan money to the one or woman steadily employed ON THEIR OWN SIGNATURE. If you can show that the greater part of your loans are SIGNATURE ONLY LOANS.

This service is such a departure from the old method of making loans that you will be amazed when it is explained to them.

Loans made from $10 to $300. Pay back any time and pay only for the time you keep the money. Our service is made for the borrower.

If you are the type who do not qualify for SIGNATURE ONLY LOANS we make loans on FURNITURE, AUTOMOBILES, SALARIES and COLLATERAL.
